HEIRS TO ESTATE RECOVER $90,000 BY COURT RULING

Wins Judgment for Springfield Woman and Others in Sedalia Trial

MRS. LOUISE STANFORTH of Springfield and seven other heirs of Mason G. Brown, Sweet Springs, Mo., banker, who died in 1917, will recover approximately $90,000 of the estate which was alleged to have been concealed as the result of a decision handed down by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman of the Pettie county circuit court at Sedalia. It was announced here yesterday by Irving Schwab of the law firm, Tatlow and Schwab.

The heirs, who also included Mary B. Brown of Fulton, Mo., and Nelle Smith of Hollywood, Cal., have been represented through the history of the case by W. D. Tatlow, senior member of the Springfield firm.

DIED WITHOUT WILL

Mr. Brown, for many years a prominent and influential resident of Sweet Springs, left no will providing for disposal of his estate now estimated to have been worth more than half a million dollars.

It was not learned until 1917, with the death of Mr. Brown's widow who had been named administratrix of the estate, that a considerable part of the property had not been submitted to probate. She had taken the half of what had been probated in accordance with law. It was brought out, concealing the remainder. Other heirs were given their shares of the portion probated.

Some time after her death, she married J. P. Elsner, who came into possession of her property after her death. It was to obtain what they believed rightfully their shares that heirs to the Brown estate filed suit through Mr. Tatlow against Elsner.

ATTORNEY HERE WINS

The Springfield attorney won a verdict when the case was first tried at Sedalia in the Pettie county circuit court. However, the defendant won a new trial through the plea that new evidence had been discovered which would help his case and a change of venue to Pettie county was taken.

The second trial of the case was conducted about a month ago and had since been kept under consideration by Judge Hoffman. His final decision was to award the plaintiffs an additional $20,000 over their judgment in the original trial.

There is every reason to believe, Mr. Schwab said, that the case will not be appealed.

Judge Charles Page, Veteran Official, Expires Suddenly

Stricken suddenly by an attack of apoplexy, Charles W. Page, 70, justice of the peace in North Campbell township and former municipal judge of Springfield, died shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 2143 North National avenue.

Mr. Page was named to the office of justice on last March 11 following the death of Justice B. L. Martin, who also was a victim of apoplexy. Previously he had worked for 25 years as operator of a turntable at the north side roundhouse. He was retired in 1922.

He is survived by his wife, one son, T. W. Page, San Bernadino, Cal.; one daughter, Mrs. Otis Payne, St. Louis, and one brother, Ed Page, city policeman.

Funeral arrangements, in charge of J. W. Klinger, are incomplete pending word from the son in California.

Born in Grant county, Kentucky, July 3, 1859, Mr. Page came to Missouri at the age of 8 years when his parents settled on a farm eight miles northeast of Bolivar in Polk county.

He later moved to Springfield, where he had lived for more than 40 years. He held the office of police judge for a period of four years.

ARRANGE TO BURY TWO TRAIN KILLED

Funeral services for the two unidentified young men found crushed to death in a freight car loaded with pipe by the Elbow yards at Monett Monday, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the Calaway funeral home at Monett. Several ministers of Monett churches will officiate. Interment will follow in the L. O. O. F. cemetery.

Since the general appearance of the two men indicated that they were not ordinary tramps, the people of Monett and Barry county, through Coroner Floyd Callaway, have arranged to provide appropriate last rites.

No indication as to the identity of either had been received last night by Mr. Callaway, although many persons had visited the funeral home to look at the bodies and others had called him by long distance telephone.

Dozens of persons, up until last night, had called at the offices of The News and Leader seeking to learn if either of the dead were relatives.

Mexican 22 Killed By Hit-Run Driver Near Halltown, Mo.

The Mexican youth about 22 years of age who died yesterday morning after being found injured on the pavement eight miles west of Halltown on highway 66 was still unidentified last night.

The youth was found by James Todd, Pickwick stages driver of Tulsa, Okla., about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and died on the way to Springfield in an Alma Lohmeyer ambulance, called to Halltown by Todd.

Examination of the boy's clothing and suitcase failed to reveal any means of identification. He was dressed in blue trousers, white shirt without necktie, black low shoes and black felt hat.

It was thought that the youth might have been struck down by a motorist. Examination of the body by Dr. Murray Stone, coroner, revealed deep scalp wounds, bad body bruises and possible internal injuries. Efrain Martinez

SUICIDE ATTEMPT RESULTS IN UNION OF YOUNG COUPLE

15-Year-Old Girl Married in Hospital at Joplin After Leaping From High Platform When Lover Jailed

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 4.—An elopement which nearly ended in tragedy culminated in a wedding here today when Miss Donna Reising, 15, of Omaha, was married to Ralph Swanson, 18, also of Omaha.

The ceremony was performed in a hospital with Miss Reising propped up in bed, suffering from two fractured vertebrae sustained when she jumped from a 40-foot coal loading tramway at Langan, Mo.

TAKES AMBULANCE TO TRAIN

Following the wedding the bride was taken in an ambulance to the depot, where the couple boarded a train for Omaha. Miss Reising jumped from the loading dock Monday morning after she had spent the night in a de Langan in com-

THE WASTEBASKET

Into which are often tossed things well worth while.

The name of Elijah Gates is perpetuated in the Ozarks.

Vacationists, visiting Lake Taneycome in the Missouri Ozarks, in making a trip by boat from Branson to the dam have noticed on the right side, about two miles out of Branson, a pretty bungalow in a setting of trees and lawn, the grounds entered through an arch on which appear the words "Richmond Gates."

This is the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. Spier Richmond, formerly of St. Joseph, but who have lived in the Branson neighborhood long enough to be classed as old settlers. The significance of the words "Richmond Gates" is fully appreciated when it is learned that Mrs. Richmond's maiden name was Gates.

Elijah Gates, and a sister of Joel E. Gates, city license inspector of St. Joseph.

Doctor Richmond was coroner of Buchanan county from 1896 to 1900. Shortly thereafter he moved to Kansas City and from Kansas City to Branson on account of failing health. He soon regained his health and now has an extensive practice in Branson and vicinity.

Elijah Gates is gradually passing from the memory of this generation. He has been dead many years but in his time he was a noted character in Missouri. He was a federal service and lost an arm in one of the battles of the civil war. He was treasurer of the state and was for years prominent in public affairs. He was the first man to cry in Springfield: "O, yes. O yes. The honorable United States district court of the southern division of the western district of Missouri is now in session." He opened the first term of federal court here in the old court house which was provided by the county until quarters were obtained. Before the federal building was erected it was required that the Greene county court provide a home for federal court. Col. Gates was marshal of the district and he came here with other federal officials to conduct court.

The aged justice is survived by his wife, son and one daughter, Mrs. Otis Payne, of St. Louis. One brother, Ed Page, is a Springfield policeman. Justice Page was born in Grant county, Kentucky. Youths Killed in Freight Car Have Final Rites; Still Unknown

The two unidentified young men killed by pipe in a freight car at Monett were buried today in the Odd Fellows cemetery following funeral services at the Callaway Undertaking company chapel. Three Monett ministers participated in the final rites.

While the bodies were in the morgue nearly a thousand people strolled there, thinking they could identify the men. Torn by the thought that the two might have been their sons or they brothers who had been missing for short and long periods, people were so moved that more than five states.

While some declared one or the other of the two men bore a resemblance to someone they had known, none was able to completely identify the two sufficient to cause a delay in the funeral.

However, finger prints were taken by Floyd Callaway, Barry county coroner, and these will be forwarded to officials at various cities to see if they can trace the relatives of the two men.

The two were riding in the end of a freight car loaded with iron pipe when the car was jerked in coupling and the pipe sent crashing into their bodies. They both died instantly.

Secure Identity of Mexican Youth Found On No. 66

Eraune Martinez of San Antonio, Texas, was believed today to have been the Mexican youth found lying fatally injured on the pavement of U. S. highway 66 west of Halltown early Wednesday morning by James Todd, Tulsa bus driver.

The identity of the young man, who died on the way to Springfield in an Alma Lohmeyer ambulance, was established through information from Rodolfo Navarrell, a companion of Martinez at the time both are believed to have been run down by a hit-and-run automobile driver.

Navarrell was found by members of a family named Kaiser, when they were aroused by the barking of their dog at daybreak Wednesday. The Mexican was lying in the Kaiser yard near their automobile. He was in a dazed condition, but was able to ask Mrs. Kaiser "Where's friend man?"

A physician was called from Mount Vernon to treat Navarrell's injuries and the Lawrence county sheriff was wanted to begin a search for the injured youth's companion.

Todd, a Pickwick stages driver from Tulsa to Springfield, called an ambulance from this city when he reached Halltown and Martinez was brought here. He died on the way to Springfield without regaining consciousness.

Kathleen Tully Becomes Bride Of Allen Chase

MOST impressive in its simplicity was the marriage this morning of Miss Kathleen Tully, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Tully, South National avenue, to Mr. Allen Chase, son of Mrs. William N. Chase and the late Mr. Chase, 630 South Florence avenue. The vows were read at the home of the bride's parents amid surroundings made exceedingly attractive with quantities of garden flowers in pastel shades.

The Reverend Doctor Corona H. Briggs read the ceremony, for which about 65 relatives and close friends of the young couple had assembled.

Miss Margaret Voorhies of Neosho sang "At Dawning," preceding the ceremony. She was accompanied by Miss Violet Veerkamp, also of Neosho. Miss Mary Elizabeth Crouch of Joplin played "To a Wild Rose" softly during the ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Emma Jane McDaniel as maid of honor, and Mr. Chase's best man was Mr. Benjamin Barcott.

The bride was lovely in her orchid chiffon wedding dress with a short velvet jacket of a darker shade. She wore orchid satin slippers and carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses.

The maid of honor was smartly gowned in a frock of green crepe Elizabeth with ecru lace trimming. Her loose arm bouquet was fashioned of pink roses.

The ceremony was followed by an informal reception. Centering the candlelight refreshment table was the handsome heart-shaped wedding cake setting amid a mass of flowers in pastel shades and green maidenhair ferns. Tall cream-colored cathedral candles lighted the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase left for a short honeymoon trip, after which they will be at home to their friends in their new home in Latoka heights.

TRIPLE SLAYER DIES BY GULPING POISON SMUGGLED INTO JAIL

'I Don't Deserve to Hang,' Adams Mutters Shortly Before Death Comes; Officers Believe Suicide Planned for Year in Event; Last Legal Hope Failed; Thanks Sheriff For Kindness.

NEWELL M. "DOBB" ADAMS, triple slayer under sentence to hang at Bolivar September 27, last night succeeded in cheating the gallows by carrying out a year-old plan to commit suicide.

He died at the Greene county jail at 11:31 o'clock from the effects of a deadly poison which he gulped in his cell shortly after noon yesterday.

"I did not deserve to hang but I guess I deserved to die." Those were among his last words, whispered in the presence of his wife, Meada Adams, Sheriff Marcell Hendrix, jailer Frank Willey and several prisoners. Shortly before he died he asked Sheriff Hendrix to call a doctor

"I'm getting blind," he said

SWOONS AFTER SWALLOWING TABLETS

The poison, a dozen or more tablets, which the slayer swallowed fol-

Following a short conversation with the sheriff about 12:30 yesterday afternoon, worked quickly. Not less than five minutes after he gulped them he swooned to the floor of his cell, frightening other prisoners, who shouted for Jailer Willey.

By the time the jailer and the sheriff got him out of the cell and placed him on a small cot in the outer office of the jail, he was in an agony of pain. From that time till the end, he suffered a thousand deaths.

He remained conscious until the last, although he seemed unable to make words half an hour before he died.

CRIMES WORRY HIM

The crimes for which he was sentenced to pay the supreme penalty occupied his mind and filled mumbled conversations with his wife, who remained with him to the last, and Sheriff Hendrix.

"I wasn't at myself when I killed the women," he moaned. He referred to Mrs. Sarah Whelan, his mother-in-law, and Miss Zeila Sinclair, a friend of his wife, both of whom died as a result of his wild rampage.

"Anyone who knows me knows I wouldn't have harmed a hair on their heads if I had been myself," he continued. "I was just crazy about my wife. I wanted to know what she would do. They wouldn't tell me."

Meads, his wife, cried as he talked. His mind then turned feebly to Francis DeArmond, the Springfield detective who was shot down in an attempt to capture Adams.

TRIES TO JUSTIFY ACT

"DeArmond shot at me first," he cried. "If he hadn't done that I wouldn't have shot at him."

Adams talked freely with Sheriff Hendrix and Jailer Willey about the poison yesterday afternoon. He admitted that he had had it for more than a year and that he had planned to take it if efforts to save him from the gallows failed. He refused, however, to tell who smuggled it to him.

He told them that a "fellow" brought it to him shortly before Meads, his wife, tried to commit suicide by taking poison about a year ago. Officers were inclined to believe that Adams and his wife had framed a suicide pact, but that Adams at the last moment backed out.

He tucked the poison away in the mattress of his cell cot, keeping in mind the possibility that the death sentence might stand. The quantity which his wife took was small and was recovered.

SURE HE WOULDN'T HANG

Dobb had clung to hopes of getting his sentence commuted to life imprisonment until Governor Henry S. Caulfield last week refused to interfere. From that time on his hopes faded and he drooped, finally deciding to be his own executioner.

Fellow prisoners recalled last night that Adams had often declared he would never hang. They at first took him to mean that he believed he would either get a new trial and a sentence of life imprisonment or that the sentence would be commuted. His death by his own hand explained his promise.

Yesterday morning Dobb asked the jailer to call L. L. Collins, one of his attorneys. A telephone call brought word that Collins was in a hospital and he could not come to the jail.

"That's a poor way for him to do, turn me down here at the last," he complained.

Mr. Willey explained that the attorney would have come if he had not been sick.

"Well, I guess that's right," Dobb concluded.

He then asked that Sheriff Hendrix be sent to him. When the sheriff arrived shortly after noon, he went to Adams and asked what he wanted.

"Mr. Hendrix," he started slowly. "I just want to tell you how much I appreciate what you have done for me. You've treated me like a man and I want to thank you."

The sheriff explained that it was his intention to treat all prisoners alike, regardless of what they had done.

"Well," Dobb continued, "I couldn't have expected better treatment."

Then he expressed deep bitterness for newspapers and reporters. He seemed to blame them for most of his troubles.

DOCTOR'S EFFORTS FUTILE

Mr. Hendrix was called away then to answer a telephone. Just as he was closing the conversation, fellow prisoners yelled for Mr. Willey. Calling to Mr. Hendrix he ran to Dobb's cell. Adams had collapsed and was moaning.

The jailer at first thought Dobb was "acting." But the expressions of agony on his face soon caused them to realize that something was wrong. They quickly placed the man on his cot and the sheriff asked him what was wrong.

"Did you take something?" Mr. Hendrix asked.

"Yes," Dobb confessed. "I took about a dozen blue-green pills."

"Poison?" the sheriff asked.

Dobb nodded. A hurry call was made for Dr. Charles A. George, the jail physician. He arrived about 10 minutes later and took all possible emergency measures to save the man.

NO GALLOWS NOW

Adams' death takes a burden from the shoulders of Sheriff Roy Shipley of Polk county. That officer said last night that he had planned to start work on construction of the gallows in the jail yard there next week.

He also had been seeking legal advice on calling of sanity hearing. He had heard that defense attorneys had planned to seek one.

Shipley, when informed of Adams' act, had little comment to make. From his voice it was evident that he was relieved.

Fear that he might commit suicide was the only kind of fear that Sheriff Hendrix felt toward Adams, he said.

"I was never afraid of Adams," Mr. Hendrix said. "I don't believe he would have harmed me or any of my deputies. In fact, there are several prisoners in here now whom I had less faith in than Adams. I would not have been afraid to turn my gun over to him.

"But I have always been afraid he might try to take his own life," Mr. Hendrix said. "Several have said that he did not have the nerve, but I felt differently about it.

Jailer Willey said last night that he had been planning to search Adams' cell thoroughly for anything that he might use to kill himself, but that other duties had kept him from it.

The body was taken to the J. W. Klingner funeral home last night. Arrangements for the funeral had not been made last night.

MOB THREATENS

Adams' death ends one of Greene county's most notorious criminal cases. Adams, for the murder of the two women and DeArmond, the detective, was placed in the Greene county jail, where a mob gathered and threatened to storm it. Sheriff Alfred Owen succeeded in smuggling Adams from the jail and hid him in the woods south of the

His case was sent to Butler on chance of venue. A jury found him guilty of the murder of DeArmond. Ten voted for death sentence and two for life imprisonment. When the jury failed to agree Judge C. H. Smith reversed the death sentence.

Defense attorneys Gene G. Diemer and Fred A. Moon, then took an appeal to the state supreme court. The court reversed the verdict and sent the case back for retrial. The case was taken up by the high court on rehearing secured by Assistant Attorney General A. B. Loxan.

The supreme court then reversed its former decision and fixed the date of execution for Friday, September 27. Defense attorneys then filed motion for rehearing, which was denied.

Defense attorneys then appealed to Governor Caulfield, who refused to interfere.

KILLER EATS DEATH PILLS IN HIS CELL

Triple Murderer Fulfills His Vow That 'They'll Never Hang Me'

POISONED EVER SO LONG

Wife Whose Divorce Suit Drove Him Mad Stays With Him at the End

By HELEN LAVERTY

Dobb Adams last night fulfilled an old promise—

"They'll never hang me," he said long ago. It was taken as braggadocio, and people smiled cruelly. "They'll never hang me," he said. Still people smiled—that was the defiance of desperation. The fatuous hope of a man insane with fear, refusing to face the facts.

ing of his cot, about the size of a man's hand, in which the tablets had been hidden. A thorough search failed to reveal any more of the poison, and it is believed that Adams swallowed all he had.

Adams' wife, Meada, stayed with him until his death. Meada Adams immediately telegraphed his brother, John Adams, in St. Louis, who arrived in Springfield this morning.

Adams' body was taken to the J. W. Klingner and company funeral home, and Meada Adams left definite and strict orders not to permit anyone to see it.

"We've been 'bullragged' around so much that I think it's time to stop, now that the man is dead—I am going to quash publicity, if it's the last thing I ever do," she said this morning.

Bullvar Sheriff Relieved

One man, although he refuses to comment on the situation, is undoubtedly relieved by Adams' suicide. He is Sheriff Ray Shibley, of Polk county, who would have had to hang Adams had he lived until September 27. He was planning to begin building the gallows in the jail yard at Bullvar next week. Adams was tried in Polk county. So great was this hostility that shortly after his arrest he was spirited out of the county and kept in hiding by Sheriff Alfred Owen to avoid a lynching.

While Sheriff Shibley is certainly glad to be released from his duty, quite a large number of men are disappointed that Adams was successful in thwarting the law. They are the ones who hoped and planned to see the hanging.

Man Found Dead In Hotel Room From Hemorrhage

H. S. Lanenberg, 50-year-old leather worker whose home is believed to be in Minneapolis, was found dead in bed at his room upstairs at 308 Boonville avenue early this morning.

Dr. Murray C. Stooe, Greene county coroner, stated following examination of the body that a hemorrhage was the cause of death. The man had complained to other roomers at the Boonville avenue address of pain in his lungs.

Lanenberg had lived at 308 Boonville since April 1. He was said to be a member of the Moose lodge and to have formed several acquaintances here through his work as a general tinsmith. He had a variety of good tools for leather work and general repairing in his room.

The body was dressed in under-clothing when found this morning, indicating that the man might have attempted to dress and reach a physician or that he fell dead just as he retired for the night.

The body was taken to the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home, awaiting the receipt of instructions from a son who lives in Minneapolis.

Annie J. West was appointed guardian of Robert H. Connis, 11, this morning in probate court. He will administer the estate of Sadie A. Connis, valued at approximately $1000.

SECRET RITES FOR ADAMS TODAY

THOUGH plans for the funeral of Newell M. "Dobb" Adams, convicted slayer who committed suicide Monday by taking poison, were guarded with the utmost secrecy, it was believed last night that services would be held at the home of Elmer Ryan, in the 800 block of West Pine street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Details of the funeral, which were made by his widow, Meada Adams, were known only to her, a few close friends and J. W. Klingner and Company, the undertaker in charge of the body.

Mrs. Adams gave orders that the arrangements be kept secret and would allow no one to view the body, which remained behind locked doors yesterday.

MAY CHANGE PLANS

Although it was understood that the services would be held at the home of the Ryans, who were said to be close friends of Newell and Meada, a change may be made today in an effort to keep the public away.

Inquirers were informed at the funeral home yesterday that no definite funeral arrangements had been made.

Mrs. Adams expressed the hope that the funeral be a private one, inasmuch as Newell had paid the debt of his life to society. A public funeral, she believed, would attract only a crowd of the curious.

The place of burial also was being closely guarded by those in charge of the funeral and interment.

It was recalled that sisters of Mrs. Adams, shortly after his trial and conviction at Bollivar, had declared that they would not permit his being buried near his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Whalin, whom he killed. Adams, at that time, expressed the wish to be placed beside her grave.

The secret of the last rites was kept even from Adams' attorneys and the sheriff's office, lest it leak out to the curious public.

WON'T SEEK SMUGGLER

As far as Greene county officers are concerned, the slayer's suicide officially closes one of the outstanding criminal cases in the history of the county. No efforts will be made, Sheriff Marcell Hendrix said, to determine who smuggled the poison into the jail and gave it to Adams.

Attorneys interested in criminal practice discussed the effect the state supreme court's ruling upholding the death sentence might have on future murder cases. Many seemed to believe that the case will be an outstanding one and serve as a precedent for future rulings.

The upholding of the trial court's verdict by the high court placed it on record as holding the state capital punishment law valid and constitutional.

LEATHER WORKER FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM HERE

Funeral arrangements had not been made last night for H. S. Lanenberg, 30-year-old leather worker, who was found dead in his room at 306 Boonville avenue early yesterday morning, prying word from a son in Minneapolis, Minn.

Death resulted from a hemorrhage, it was announced by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, following an examination of the body. Lanenberg had complained to other roomers of pain in his lungs.

The man, whose home is believed to have been in Minneapolis, had lived at the Boonville address since April 1. The body is in charge of the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home.

Miss Maxey

Mr. Webb

Married

ONE of the loveliest weddings of the season was celebrated last night at 8 o'clock when Miss Charlotte Maxey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Maxey, became the bride of Mr. Ellis Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Webb.

The vows were exchanged at an improvised altar in front of the living room. The altar was banked with chrysanthemums in shades of yellow and white. Chrysanthemums in the same shades were used in profusion throughout the house.

The Reverend Mr. Dewey Short read the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends who had gathered for the service.

Mr. Glen Stambach played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. He also played the Lieberstraum softly during the ceremony, and the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party left the altar.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white chiffon, made princess style. Her white tulle veil was caught to her head with a wreath of tiny orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms.

Miss Louise Maxey, the bride's only attendant, wore a smart frock of yellow georgette and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Ellsworth Maxey, brother of the bride, was Mr. Webb's best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the dining-room where the table was elaborately decorated with autumn flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb left for Kansas City, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will make their home in Campbell, Mo.

Woman Minister Leads Rites for 'Dobh' Adams

In death, Newell "Dobh" Adams today was surrounded only by those who loved him—the man whose life had been one of violence—who had won the hatred of his fellows.

All strangers were barred from his funeral, a simple service in a private room at the Klingner's funeral establishment.

The service was entirely in the hands of women—it was a woman who in soothing, rhythmic words intoned the sermon and the prayer. It was a trio of women's voices that sang at the end, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Only Score Attend

It was women who were the mourners, mostly — chief among them his wife, Meada, moaning and sobbing throughout the service. "Oh, oh—How can I give him up like this?"

In the closely guarded room, Adams lay in a gray casket. Only about 25 persons, members of his family and most intimate friends attended the service and viewed Adams for the last time as the final hymn was sung.

Several colorful sprays of flowers decorated the funeral room and the grave.

Meada Adams, dressed in simple black, her face red with weeping, left after the service on the arm of a friend.

Following the service, the short and procession made its way to Oaklawn cemetery, where Adams was buried. In the same cemetery lies his mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Whalen, whom he killed in the rampage of bloodshed for which he paid, by his own hand, the ultimate penalty.

Adams had been devoted to Mrs. Whalen, his wife's mother, and after her death he begged that he might be buried beside her. At that time, members of the family refused to bury him today in the same cemetery, but not on the same lot.

He was buried without any burial permit having been issued at the city hall.

HIRAM RANDOLPH

Hiram Randolph, pioneer Ozark farmer and dairy man, died at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, at his home seven miles east of Niangua, Mo., after an illness of several weeks. He has been a leader in the activities of the farm community where he lived, and was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge at Cuba, Springfield, Mo. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clara Randolph, two daughters, Mrs. Eva Cunningham, Niangua Route 1, and Mrs. Cora Bestal of Conway, two sons, Omar, of Caldwell, Idaho, and Ray of Niangua, one brother, Frank Randolph of Van Buren, Mo., and two sisters, Mrs. America Jordan, and Mrs. Porter Henderson, of Hartsville, Mo. Funeral services will be held at the Eureka church at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, and burial will be in the Eureka cemetery. The Reverend Selph Jones will officiate.

MRS. LUCRETIA W. THOMAS

Miss Lucretia W. Thomas, 57, died this morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Hughes of Willard, Mo., after a long illness. Miss Thomas was born October 17, 1846, in Tennessee, and came to Missouri with her father, George Thomas, and his family in 1855. They settled in Greene county on a farm three miles west of Willard. She devoted her life to caring for her parents, who lived to very advanced age. Miss Thomas is survived by a sister, Mrs. Betty Hardman of Los Angeles, Mo., and one brother, W. W. Thomas of Willard. Funeral services will be conducted by the Reverend M. A. Prater at the Presbyterian church at Willard Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the Mount Pleasant cemetery under the direction of the Greenwood funeral home of Willard.

Aaron White, a celebrated negro politician of the past, who was coroner of Greene county and strong on street corner argument, was once traveling on a Frisco train going south. He was arguing politics with several whites on leaving Springfield and this kept up until the Arkansas line was reached. Then the Jim Crow car was attached and no one was on it, the car was entirely empty. "Excuse me," said White, "my private car is ready and I must go." It created a laugh and showed how white could turn things to his own advantage. He used to like to argue with Harry McGregor, the Texas statesman, until one day McGregor told him "I don't care to argue politics on the street with a nigger."

Miss Maxey, Ellis Webb Are Married

ONE of the loveliest weddings of the season was the Maxey-Webb wedding at 9 o'clock last evening at the beautiful Maxey home "The Cedars," on Okemone road, when Miss Charlotte Maxey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Maxey, became the bride of Mr. Ellis Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Webb.

The ceremony took place in front of an improvised altar of yellow and white chrysanthemums in front of the huge fireplace. Chrysanthemums were used in profusion as decoration throughout the house.

The Reverend Mr. Dexter Starnes, the officiating minister and only a few intimate friends of the young couple gathered for the ceremony. Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Mr. Otis Stambach as the bride entered the room on the arm of her father. Mr. Stambach played the Liebertraum softly throughout the ceremony and Mendelssohn's Processional as the bridal party left the altar.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white chiffon. Her white tulle veil was caught to her head with a wreath of tiny orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and orange blossoms. Miss Louise Maxey, sister of the bride and the only attendant, wore yellow chiffon and carried yellow roses. Mr. Ellsworth Maxey acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the dining room where the table was elaborately decorated with chrysanthemums in the yellow and white color scheme.

Immediately after the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Webb left for Kansas City where they will spend their honeymoon. They will be at home in Campbell, Mo.

'Big Thursday' Is Ended By Judge's Sudden Edict

A large number of those in the courtroom were women. It was impossible to know which of them were there as litigants or witnesses, on the business of the court, and which were merely curious onlookers.

The specific case which seemed to call forth the ruling—although the judge had repeatedly protested the noise in the courtroom before—was that of a man seeking a divorce and the custody of three small children. An attorney representing the wife's father rose to ask a continuation of the case until further information could be filed and the defendants represented by counsel now out of the city.

A Snake's Religion

"I can tell you all about that lady's (his wife's) father," the plaintiff interrupted. "He's worthless—he's been married six times, and he's a preacher." After some dispute the judge finally silenced the attorneys, and they silenced the witness.

Later, replying to his attorney's question, the plaintiff said that his father-in-law "is an ordained minister, all right, but he hasn't got no more religion than a rattlesnake."

In spite of the warnings, the crowd in the court room roared, and Judge Schmook interrupted the hearing to order a record of his ruling abollahnig "Big Thursday."

He then heard the rest of the case, and deferred his decision. It will come up again on September 14.

Olive Graham Camp versus George H. Camp, continued to September 29.

Lottie Epperson versus George S. Epperson, decree granted Mrs. Epperson.

Myrtle L. McCook vs. Edward L. McCook, plaintiff granted divorce decree and custody of 4-year-old child.

Judge Explains.

Following the court's adjournment, Judge Schmoek explained that he has been contemplating the change ever since he became judge, and that he had intended to wait until the January term to make it, but was provoked into hastening his action by the situation in the courtroom this morning.

"A thing that surprises me is that such a rule has been in force so long," he said. "I find it has been in operation for at least 30 years."

A result of the grouping of divorce cases has been, he explained that thrill-seekers gather on "divorce days" to enjoy the proceedings, and to get amusement from them.

Sees Dignity Upset.

"Such a thing is not conducive to the proper respect for the marriage relation," the judge said. "Many young people, some of whom are not married, and some who are, come on those days and destroy the dignity of the court by laughing at the slightest provocation."

"This morning," he continued, "I had to stop for order several times, and I decided to go ahead and make the change."

"These curious people who have no personal interest in the case have some reason for being here on divorce day," the judge added. "You can see them crowded into the courtroom leaning forward straining to get every word that's said."

Among Those Present

When court adjourned at noon, 22 cases had come before Judge Schmoek for trial. He had 51 on the docket for his division. Nine divorces had been granted—seven to wives and two to husbands. Six cases were dismissed by the defendants, and the rest set for future hearing.

The first divorce granted was to Mrs. Alice Biggs, a plump, fresh-faced girl who at 21 is now, has

Threatening Their Husbands With Knives

Violent quarrels and cruelty, drunkenness and unfaithfulness, were among the abuses recounted as Friday-the-thirteenth unfolded its pleas for divorce before Judge Warren L. White of division two of Greene county circuit court today.

Husbands whose jealous wives nagged and harassed them and wives whose husbands had refused to provide for the family were among those who told their stories of broken homes to the court. Two men testified their wives would become violently angry at trivial matters and had threatened to kill them with butcher knives. Several wives told stories of husbands who had left them for other women.

Subtle Story.
and wept as she told of her troubles. She said she was married to Jesse Clouse in 1902 and at their former home in Christian county she did heavy farm work, pitched hay and worked in the field, always hoping that she could give her four children an education. She was separated from her husband last May and is working in Springfield. She was awarded the divorce and custody of her two youngest children, age 9 and 11, with the exception of the months of June, July and August. Each parent was given the right to visit the children.

Mrs. Amanda M. Green lived with her husband, Fred E. Green 13 unlucky days from August 8 to 21.

she testified. She charged he failed to support her. Their home was at Ava. Mrs. Green, a woman of near middle age, received her decree of divorce and her former name of Chaney was restored.

Cruelty Depicted.

Mrs. Dora Applegate charged cruelty and wrongful conduct against George Applegate who she said has left the country with four of their six children. They were married in 1906 and separated last February. Their home was in Christian county and she is working now at a poultry house here to support herself and the two children who were awarded her by the court.

Mrs. Chloe Bateman said that her husband, Leroy Bateman, kicked her and bit her and told her he had a woman that "beat her all to pieces." She was awarded the custody of her two boys, five and nine years of age.

Mrs. Lottie Chapman, a woman in the early 20's, charged her husband, Frank A. Chapman, with whom she lived from July 1928 to January 1929, abused her, failed to provide for her, then left. The decree was granted.

Claude Cook, a middle aged man dressed in overalls and blue shirt, declared his wife, Malinda, left him after a brief married life. He was granted the divorce.

Francis J. Clark, a young man who was given a divorce from his wife, Eva, said their trouble first arose over her jealousy of his friends, both men and women. She deserted him on Easter Sunday, he testified.

After Ten Days.

Vernice Leon DeJo, a pretty red-haired girl of 18, who was attractively dressed in black, testified she lived with her husband, Charles B. DeJo, 10 days. She charged he left for another state promising to send for her, which he never did. Her maiden name of Long was restored.

Mrs. Alta Fletcher said she lived with her husband 16 years when he abandoned her. She was awarded the custody of the three children.

Mrs. Margarette Grigg also was given the care of her two minor children when she was awarded a divorce from Elmer Grigg who she charged was abusive to her.

Charles A. Jones related that his marital difficulties arose over trivial matters such as getting in from work a few minutes late. The court awarded him the custody of his 1-year-old son, whom he is caring for at present. The mother is to have the privilege of visiting the child.

Says Wife Threatened

Cecil L. Luke, formerly of Joplin, was given a divorce from his wife of eight years, Mrs. Grace Luke. He said she had threatened to kill him with a butcher knife. They each had children by former marriages and one child was born to their marriage. Mr. Luke was given the custody of that child.

Mrs. Mae Laverty, an attractively dressed young woman, was awarded a divorce from G. Raymond Laverty whom she charged with indignities including that of remaining away from home for several days at a time. She was granted the custody of her 3-year-old son and $30 a month support for him.

Mrs. Pearl Harris, a young woman who was married January 5, 1928, and separated from her husband in March, 1928, said her husband was intoxicated much of the time they were living together. Replying to question of Judge White, she said she did not know in the two years of their acquaintance before their marriage that he drank.

Mrs. Ina L. Eddings was given a divorce from Ernest J. Eddings from whom she was separated in 1924. She said he now is in Illinois and that during their 13 years of married life he drank to an excess.

Murvington H. Malaun, was given a divorce from his wife, Beatrice, who is now in Pennsylvania, their former home. He testified she once struck him with a butcher knife when she became angry because he was drinking and that she deserted him. He said their two children, age 4 and 6, are with their grandparents in Pennsylvania and Judge White made no order as to them.

Anna H. Pariah, mother of five children, testified that she supported her husband for more than 10 years, and finally could endure it no longer. They were separated December 6, 1925. She was awarded the custody of her two minor children.

Judge White said that he will pass Saturday morning upon the case of Forest Martin, who asked a divorce from his wife, Ida, who he said deserted him last May. The couple has one child.

The case of Table B. Peacock against Marie B. Peacock, a minor, also was heard, but the decision was deferred until a representative of Mrs. Peacock can report on the case.

Freda Edelin was granted a divorce from Alfred Edelin of St. Louis and the custody of a minor child with an allowance of $20 a month for its support. Mrs. Edelin told the court that her husband could make $200 a month as an advertising salesman if he would work steadily, but that he does not make more than $18 or $180 a month. She charged that he deserted her and would not contribute toward her support.

Three Cases Alred

Dorothy Deava Taylor was given a divorce decree, the custody of her child and an allowance of $10 a month for its support.

The husband was suing for a divorce in the case of James Burge against Lillie Burge. The couple were married two years ago in Springfield but separated in April of this year. It would be impossible to continue living with his wife, Burge told the judge, because she complained constantly of his sickness and his inability to work. She asked him to go and live with his children, he said. He had "heard different tales," he said, of the number of times his wife had been married, but his lawyer informed the court that she had been married five times before her marriage to Burge. The plaintiff had been married once before his ill-fated marriage which he sought to have dissolved. The decree was granted.

Four divorce decrees were granted by Judge John Schmook in division 1.

Blanche Wanda was given a divorce from William Alonzo Warren and her maiden name, Martin, restored.

Lucille P. Turner received a decree of divorce from her husband and the custody of her two children and judgment of $30 a month for their support.

Leta Humphrey was given the custody of three children and allowed $30 a month for their support with her decree of divorce from Carl Humphrey. The defendant is to be allowed the privilege of reasonable visitation to see his children, however.

Stella Sharick vs. Archie Sharick, decree for plaintiff and restoration of maiden name.

Gusta Rose vs. Ira C. Rose, decree for plaintiff.

D. Lawrence, trial by default, decree for plaintiff.

T. B. WARFUL of Salem, who claims to be the son of Helen Hopkins Warful, a sister of Mark Hopkins, son of Beirgman Hopkins, Sr., whose chronology cannot be doubted and an heir to the great Hopkins estate, now in litigation, writes this Gladstonean sentence to the Salem News:

"In the Denver Post of July 7, 1929, an article was published referring to the Mark Hopkins estate having been settled in favor of one who has been called Timothy Nolan Hopkins, who is neither an heir by birth nor by adoption, and yet has the control of the estate, with the aid of the city and county of San Francisco, in cash and bonds by certain banks and railroads, who refused to let the legal heirs have a hearing to prove their claim to the estate, which undoubtedly shows an absurd desire of the court of California to deprive the true heirs of their rights as citizens of this grand and well protected country, whose brothers and cousins and forefathers, who were subject to the powers that were, and now some of their descendants are ignored when requesting their right and title in this fair land of freedom that was won by honor and blood of the faithful, and are now jeered and scoffed at because they have requested a hearing at the bar of the supreme court at Washington, D. C."

IN MEMORIAM
 In loving memory of our husband and father, Z. D. Mills, who passed away one year ago, September 14, 1928.

In a lonely graveyard softly sleeping,
 Where the flowers gently wave,
 Lies the one we loved so dearly
 In his silent lonely grave.

From the leafy trees that flourish
 In the woods that are so dear,
 In life we loved you dearly,
 In death we do the same.

We no longer hear his laughter
 Echo on the mountain air.

God took him home, it was His will,
 But in our hearts he lingers still.
 His memory is as fresh today
 As in the hour he passed away.
 Sadly missed by wife and children,

Mrs. E. A. Hurley, 74, is shown above with the small cottage at 1505 South Jefferson avenue, where she has lived alone for the past 20 years. Mrs. Hurley set out every tree and plant in the large yard, and still cares for them herself. She was born in Webster county, and spent 13 years in the frontier mining sections of California before coming back to Missouri, and later to Springfield.

Mrs. E. A. Hurley, 74, Keeps Young by Keeping Active, She Says

HAVING experienced the jolts and thrills of a covered wagon trip across country in frontier days and the dangers of life in early gold mining camps in California, Mrs. E. A. Hurley, 1505 South Jefferson avenue, at 74 is eagerly waiting her first airplane ride.

"I've tackled everything else as it came along," she said yesterday. "People warned me that I was risking my life when I rode on my first train, and again when I made the trip on the first electric trolley in Springfield. But you see I'm as spry as ever. So the first chance I get for a trip in the air I'm going to take it."

She had just returned from walking to the court house and her crisp tones as she sat there, her fingers busy hulling lima beans bore out her words. "To keep active is the only way to keep young," she declared, her rosy cheeks gleaming.

She's Staunch Demo

After 74 years of trail blazing, Mrs. Hurley is today constantly active about her little home, caring for an attractive yard and flower garden, tending her chickens, and supervising her business and property interests. She is actively interested in politics, a staunch democrat at election time, and an inveterate newspaper reader.

she asserted. But with all her interest in 1929, she enjoys reminiscence too.

The picturesque California of gold rush times with the "hurdy gurdy's," the saloon fights, the wild scramble for claims and for the little yellow nuggets, and the hardships of pioneer life, all wind themselves into the vivid tales which she tells of her life in the mountains there right after the war.

Eloped At 16

A pioneer even in frontier times, Mrs. Hurley at 16, eloped with her 18-year-old lover in order to make the lonely trip west in a covered wagon. With her husband and his family she left her home in Webster county the day after the wedding to meet others who were harking westward at Kansas City. Perhaps no girl ever had a more thrilling honeymoon.

"When we had 13 wagons and 70 men and boys together—a big enough train for protection against wild Indians—we started west. The wagon boss planned the day's trip, started out the way, and had charge of corralling the wagons at night—you know fixing them with the tongues inside to make a barricade against attackers, with an encircure for us in the center."

"I was just a girl, and sometimes I was the least bit uneasy, like the time when my husband went buffalo hunting and got lost. The wagon train moved on and it seemed ages before he caught up with us. They had killed the buffalo though, and had cut chunks out without attempting to skin it. It was too dangerous to stay away from the east," Mrs. Hurley related.

Sometimes Went Weeks

"I've sat on the creek bank and held the revolver while my husband fished many a time," she explained. "Why for days we wouldn't see any houses, not anything except sage brush and greaser grass. Sometimes we went weeks just stopping at night and then we would camp for two or three days, graze the stock and cook up enough food for another week or two."

"There was one cow alone and it seems unreasonable, but they would milk it in the morning, shut up the milk in vessels and carry it alone, and by night, it would be churned to butter—just by the jolting of the wagons," she declared.

"When the first train ever ran out on the plains came by," the oxen broke and ran for miles. It was the first locomotive we had ever seen, and we were about as scared as the teams," she went on.

After a three months trip the young couple reached California and staked a claim. At one time, Mrs. Hurley's husband owned a claim on Spruce mountain, which later sold for thousands of dollars. They lived near the famous Eureka mines during the boom there, right in the midst of the activity.

"One of our neighbors got shot one night down at a saloon, and nobody even asked who did it. There wasn't any law, not a policeman, and lots of the time no church. The miners traded nuggets for money except when they took their little sacks down to the banks, and then they spent it all on the "hurdy gurdy's" as the frontier dances were called," she declared.

Only Woman In Camp

Often Mrs. Hurley was the only woman in the camp where she lived. "I'd go months and not see another girl," she said. Houses were of sod and adobe, with a few tents. "I've lived in all kinds of dwellings," she insists, "and eaten all kinds of meat that fit to eat—deer, bear, antelope, and buffalo."

She was only 60 miles away at the time of the Mountain Meadow massacre, "when the richest train that ever crossed the plains was held up by the Mormons, and every person killed except a little boy and girl who escaped. "Weren't you scared," she was asked. "A little," she declared "but we got so used to it."

The Train Stopped

Mrs. Hurley's four children were born in California, but the family moved back to Missouri 46 years ago. "It took two weeks to come on the train," she explained. "We had to take our own seats and blankets and turn the seats over for us. The conductor was nice and found one place in the country so we could see a cousin of ours and get a basket of food she had fixed."

Mrs. Hurley is very enthusiastic about picture shows, especially wild west films with Tex Mix and Harry Carey. "I liked 'The Covered Wagon' and 'The Pioneer Trail,'" she said. "They were just as natural as life, only dressed up a bit and a little mind that."

Lorene Jacobs Becomes Bride Of Mr. Potter

and Mrs. Barry W. Jacobs, to Mr. Charles Howell Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Potter of Nashville, Tenn.

The wedding took place at 12 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, and while the vows were read before an improvised altar of yellow marigold and fern. The Reverend Dr. John T. Bacon read the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a dress of chiffon velvet in a rich brown shade with matching accessories. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses and forget-me-nots. Her attendant, Miss Mary Potter, of Sparta, Tenn., wore a charming ensemble of rose georgette and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and blue saters. Mr. James Tupper acted as best man. Miss Susie Dillard played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party approached the altar and Miss Dorothy Dyer sang "Oh Promise Me" immediately preceding the ceremony. Miss Dillard played a medley of songs softly throughout the ceremony.

A wedding breakfast was served to about fifty guests after the ceremony. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth which has been in the family for generations. A crystal bowl holding yellow flowers centered the table and white tapers in crystal candlesticks were placed at each side of the bouquet. Those who assisted in serving were: Miss Helen Bennett, Miss Jean Reed, Miss Laura Marie Dishman, Miss Eula Mae Souse, Miss Mary Masters and Miss Margaret Masters.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter left immediately after the wedding breakfast for Quebec and the east and will later go to Nashville where they will make their home.

WOMAN KILLS NEGRO, BADLY HURTS FRIEND

WHEN Henry Thornhill, 30, negro, continued to threaten her as a result of her refusal to give him money, Naomi Handley, 29, a negro woman, shot the man down and seriously wounded Lawrence "Happy" Arnold, 29, negro, at her home at 611 Washington avenue, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The woman, according to the meagre story which questioners could obtain, was goaded into the act by an attack which Thornhill made upon her with a knife several hours before. She sustained a fatal wound about the body.

after the bullet from a 45-calibre revolver bored a hole through his chest, while Arnold, who suffered a similar wound, rallied yesterday afternoon and appeared to have a slight chance to recover.

The cause of the affray as well as the details themselves are covered with mystery. Officers received many conflicting reports and accounts. Murray C. Stone, coroner, has ordered an inquest to be held at the police station at 10.30 o'clock this morning. Whether charges will be filed against the woman will be determined at the hearing.

One thing appears clear, however, and that is the woman did not intend to harm Arnold. He, according to her story, and that of Bill Small, negro janitor at the Greene county courthouse, who was present, accidentally stepped into the path of a bullet intended for Thornhill.

The woman was frantic in her cell at the city jail over the shooting of Arnold, who, it appears, was trying to protect her from Thornhill.

Trouble started at the Hanley home early Sunday morning when Thornhill went to the woman's home and demanded money. She refused to give him any and he departed in anger, only to return later. He then attacked her with a knife and cut her, though not severely.

Questions failed to bring out when Arnold and Small stepped. When Thornhill entered the house shortly before 8 o'clock and again demanded money, the woman pointed the gun at him and pulled the trigger. Arnold either tried to grab her wrist to keep her from shooting the other man or accidentally stepped in front of the gun. He fell to the floor wounded. The woman quickly fired a second shot and Thornhill ran screaming from the house. He fell in the yard and died a few minutes later.

The Hanley woman was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Brumley.

But Dies Before Word Is Received

TWO persons were killed almost instantly when the driver of a truck apparently fell asleep at the wheel, allowing the vehicle to leave highway 65, 34 miles south of Springfield, and crashed into a large tree, about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Long, aged 51 and 49 years respectively, of Harrison, Ark.

Long operator of a milk and cream truck line between Harrison, Springfield and Springdale. The load of cream when the accident occurred.

FEARED ACCIDENT

Fear that such a tragedy might befall her husband had caused Mrs. Long to decide at the last moment to accompany her husband. He had worked all day Saturday and the greater part of Sunday night. She thought that her presence would help to keep him awake.

Long was driving the truck north on the highway at a speed of about 40 miles an hour when drowsiness overpowered him. The truck dashed to the side of the road, plunged over a deep ditch, and ploughed through a barbed wire fence to come to a halt at the base of a large tree.

The force of the impact shoved the engine back into the cab, crushing the man and his wife. Passing automobilists hurriedly freed them from the wreckage, but both died before medical aid arrived. They suffered internal injuries.

BEGS VAINLY FOR CHILDREN

Both, however, were able to give details of the accident before their deaths. A vain attempt was made to notify the two orphan children of the couple at Harrison of the accident and get them to the scene before the parents died. Mrs. Long gave the telephone number of the children and begged to see them before she died.

The bodies were taken to the T. B. Chaffin Funeral home at Ozark, where they were prepared for removal to Harrison tomorrow for burial. No inquest will be held, it was said at Ozark last night.

The wrecked vehicle was a New Chevrolet truck.

HELD BY FATHER FARMER TO FACE MURDER CHARGES

Prominent Oregon County Man Jailed Without Bond After Victim of His Pistol Fire Expires

J. F. OVERSTREET, 34, prominent farmer of Oregon county who is held without bond in connection with the slaying of Henry Watson, 48, will be given a preliminary hearing at 10 o'clock this morning before Justice Richard Brooks at Alton, Oregon county seat.

Watson, a tenant on the farm owned by Overstreet, was shot at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon but did not die until an early hour Saturday morning.

According to the story told officers by the accused man, he encountered Watson and Marion Lashley, 32, near the farm home and threatened him while Lashley pointed a double-barreled shotgun at him and snapped it twice.

Overstreet then, he said, drew a .32 caliber revolver and shot Watson through the right side and Lashley, who was horseback, "took to the woods."

Himself a bachelor, Watson had been living in the home with Overstreet and the latter's 7-year-old daughter. Lashley also had been staying there recently over protest of the owner and it was this circumstance which is thought to have caused the trouble. Overstreet had been separated from his wife for several years.

Following the shooting, Overstreet was arrested by his father, Thomas Overstreet, who has been an Oregon county deputy sheriff for six years. The younger man was taken to Alton but not placed in the county jail until a charge of first degree murder was filed against him Saturday by Robert Lamar, prosecuting attorney, following the death of Watson.

Officers yesterday were seeking Lashley for questioning in regard to the slaying. They said the man had been sentenced to the penitentiary for two years on a charge of chicken stealing following a trial several months ago but had been paroled from the bench by Judge E. P. Dorris.

Latest Betrothal

NOW that it has been formally announced it is permissible to talk at random about the engagement of attractive Elaine Fayman to Samuel Stone, of Wichita, Kan. Of course, you were surprised and thrilled, as everyone was. Elaine is one of the loveliest members of the younger crowd and the affair was a case of love at first sight. The two met when Elaine was tripping about this summer. He is terribly good looking, according to those who have seen him, and there was much speculation among her friends when he came down for a short visit not so long ago—but Elaine proved that a woman can keep a secret for the engagement came as a great surprise to her friends. The wedding will take place in January, and there have all ready been many parties planned in Elaine's honor. Mr. Stone is in business with his father in Wichita, in a large concern that manufactures airplane propellers.

The Fayman home was the scene of many informal calls yesterday afternoon after Mr. and Mrs. Fayman had announced the engagement. The rooms were attractively decorated with a profusion of seasonal flowers and tea was served during the afternoon. Between fifty and seventy-five guests called.

DIVORCE TROUBLE LEADS TO SUICIDE OF BRIGHTON MAN

John Cash Uses Shotgun to End Life After Conference With Kin; Wife Agreed to Settlement

SHOOTING himself through the head with a .20 gauge shotgun, John Cash, 42, well known Polk county farmer, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his home a mile and a half south of Brighton. Despondency and a mental derangement arising from marital difficulties were given as causes of his act.

NO INQUEST PLANNED

S. B. Hutcheson of Bolivar, Polk county coroner, viewed the body soon after the tragedy was enacted and decided, after talking with friends of Cash, that an inquest would be unnecessary.

Cash killed himself soon after he and a brother-in-law, whose name is McKnight, returned from Bolivar where they went for a conference with the former's wife. An attempt was made, according to information given Mr. Hutcheson, to obtain a property settlement with Mrs. Cash, who had been named defendant in a divorce suit filed by her husband.

The wife offered to settle the case for a money consideration of $400, her attorney told Mr. Hutcheson, but Cash apparently was obsessed with the idea that she would sue him in an attempt to obtain possession of his farm. She was sued for a divorce after she left his home several weeks ago with her two children by a former marriage.

FOUND DEAD

Upon reaching the Cash home on the return from Bolivar, Mr. McKnight started to walk to his house which is on an adjoining farm. He had gone only a short distance when Cash called him to come back. The shot was fired before he reached the house. He found the man crumpled upon a bedroom floor where he had fallen beside the door. The charge

The body was taken to the Hutcheson and Blue funeral parlors at Bolivar, where it was prepared for burial. Funeral services are to be held at the Brighton church today or tomorrow followed by interment in Brighton cemetery.

Cash is thought to have a brother in Springfield but he could not be found last night. Another brother lives in Brinkley, Ark., and a sister in California. The other sister is the wife of Mr. McKnight.

He had made the trip to Springfield by airplane and automobile from Fort Sill, Okla. in order to assist at the service for his long-time friend. Father Tiernan is army chaplain at Fort Sill.

Father Frank S. McCardle, pastor of St. Agnes church, officiated during the usual ritual of the Catholic church. Following the custom of the church, there were no flowers at the service there. Tapers burned in the front of the altar and the service was brief and impressive.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, which was lovely and peaceful following an autumnal shower. A canopy had been erected over the open grave and at the side of this were hundreds of lovely floral tributes. Banked in a high mound at the side of the grave, and reaching a great distance underneath the edge of the canopy, the flowers were indescribably beautiful in their varicolorings.

Father Tiernan officiated in the brief services at the grave. The pall bearers were John Farrington, Sam Trimble, George Thompson, Ray E. Murray, Fred Phillips, Julian Simmons, Carl Johnson and Louis Repa.

Charge Alton Man With First Degree Murder; Gives Bond

J. F. Overstreet, 34, was bound over to the November term of Oregon county circuit court on $5000 bond following his preliminary hearing yesterday morning at Alton, Mo., on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying last week of Henry Watson, 48, on a farm two miles south of Thomasville.

Watson, a tenant on a farm owned by Overstreet, was shot last Wednesday afternoon by Overstreet, following a dispute between the two but did not die until Friday night.

A large number of witnesses had been subpoenaed for the hearing, some of whom testified that Watson made a dying statement that his trouble with Overstreet arose from the latter's objection to Marlon Lashley, 32, living in the same farm home. Lashley was said to have been doing the cooking for Watson and his invalid mother, Mrs. F. H. Watson.

MRS. IDA BIGGS

Mrs. Ida Biggs of 1833 North Lyon avenue died suddenly at her home Monday afternoon. She is survived by her husband, Hugh Biggs; two sons, Melon and Hagen, Jr., both of Springfield; two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Stephenson of Ash Grove and Mrs. Retta Batfield of Lebanon, Mo. J. W. Klingner is in charge of funeral arrangements.

The Ullmann family has had much to do with the building of Springfield. Dr. L. Ullmann was prominent in the early history of the city and always had confidence in the future of the city. He erected the Ullmann hotel building and other structures. The Ullmann hotel building was regarded as one of the show structures of Springfield when it was completed in 1887. Dr. Ullmann's sons were always progressive and have been active in various ventures. It is probably forgotten that Dr. Ullmann was at one time a manufacturer of national prominence. He was a member of the firm of Ullmann & Philpot of Cleveland, manufacturers of printing ink, and the brand was especially popular. Much of it was sold in Springfield. But Dr. Ullmann became home sick and returned to Springfield where he remained until his death. At one time there was a large paint and paper house where the Reps store is now. It was run by Ullmann Brothers. Close by on the north side of the square Cy Patterson was in the same business. The Ullmann house tacked up a sign "This is Ullmann's where any little boy or girl can buy a little pot of paint for ten cents." John Dunkel and other village wags noticing the sign placed another in Patterson's window which greatly astonished the proprietor when he came down next morning. It said: "This is Patterson's where any little boy or girl can buy a little big pot of paint for any old price."

AUTO OVERTURNS AS WOMAN DRIVER HITS PEDESTRIAN NEAR WEST SHOPS

71, in Accident on Atlantic
Street

WAS ENROUTE TO SHOPS TO TAKE HUSBAND HOME

This Afternoon at Funeral
Parlor; Victim Was Crossing
Street

STRUCK by a rapidly moving automobile shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the corner of West Atlantic street and Alberta avenue, Mrs. Martha F. Mills, 71, of 1421 West Thoman, died 20 minutes later in the Springfield Baptist hospital. Her injuries included a fracture of the skull, a broken left leg and severe lacerations of the arms, legs and face.

The machine which struck her was a 1929 model Essex sedan driven by Mrs. Clarence E. Pinkley of 1919 North Newton avenue, wife of a machinist at the Frisco West shops. Mrs. Pinkley was driving west on Atlantic street toward the shops where she was going to take her husband home from work.

PLAN INQUEST

Dr. Murray G. Stone, coroner, today declared that the body of Mrs. Mills' death will be held this afternoon, probably at the J. W. Klingner funeral home. Mrs. Mills was carrying by pickup van to the store to the store of C. McQuire grocery nearby. She was kept there until taken to the hospital in a W. L. Starnes ambulance.

AUTO OVERTURNS

The automobile was overturned in the street by Mrs. Pinkley in an effort to keep from hitting the aged woman. She climbed out, uninjured, through a side window.

Although eye witnesses to the affair were hard to find last night, those who were in the vicinity at the time were convinced that the automobile was going at a considerable rate of speed. Mrs. Mills was thrown through the air for a considerable distance by the force of the impact, according to Mrs. Alva R. Hoover, 1623 West Atlantic street, near whose home the accident occurred.

Dorothy Barton, 13-year-old neighborhood girl, said she heard the noise of the car's brakes suddenly applied and turned to look just in time to see Mrs. Mills going through the air in front of the machine. "It looked just like she had been blown from the windshield of the car," the girl declared.

Mrs. Pinkley was in an almost hysterical condition at her home last night as a result of the tragedy, her husband reported.

GAVE WARNING SOUND

According to what she told him, he said, the aged woman had started across Atlantic street from the south. Mrs. Pinkley was then said to have sounded her horn, an unusually loud one, and slowed down her auto; then, thinking that Mrs. Mills was going to stop, to have speeded up again.

Mr. Pinkley declared that both he and Arch Ramey, 2004 Johnson avenue also a Frisco machinist, had started walking east from the shops to meet the auto and heard the car's warning sound when they were two blocks away. He said he had learned that Mrs. Mills was partially deaf.

Frantic efforts of the driver to avoid Mrs. Mills when she saw the pedestrian had apparently not seen or heard her, he said, caused the automobile to overturn. The windshield broken and the machine otherwise damaged had to be towed to a garage.

Mrs. Mills is survived by three sons, J. E. Mills, B. L. Mills and L. R. Mills, all of Springfield, and two daughters, Mrs. Bertha F. Dodson of Springfield and Mrs. Beale Cooper of Thayer, Kan.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete but interment will be in Clear Creek cemetery under direction of J. W. Klingner.

A reunion of the Owen family will be held September 29, at the home of Ralph Owen, north of the city. A large number of friends and relatives are expected to be present.

WOMAN'S DEATH HIKES TOLL TO 18 FROM CRASHES

Mrs. Martha Mills Dies Shortly After Being Struck by Woman Motorist; Witnesses Have Varying View of Incident

The almost instant death of Mrs. Martha F. Mills, 71, of 1421 West Thoman street at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon when she was struck by a car at the corner of West Atlantic street and Alberta avenue, brought to 18 the total fatalities from automobile accidents which Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, has recorded since taking office December 1.

Dies Shortly After

Mrs. Mills, who was struck by an Essex sedan driven by Mrs. Clarence E. Pinkley, of 1919 North Newton street, as she crossed Atlantic on her way to the McQuire Grocery store, died at the Springfield Baptist hospital a few minutes later from a fractured skull and other serious injuries.

An inquest will be held this afternoon at 6 o'clock at Klingner Undertaking parlor, at which time a number of witnesses, who appear to have varying views of the accident will be called. Funeral services for Mrs. Mills will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the Clear Creek Baptist church, under the direction of Klingner Undertakers, and burial will be in Clear Creek cemetery.

Say Car Speeding

According to Mrs. Ellen Murtrey, 1223 West Atlantic street, and Dorothy Barton, 13-year-old girl, witnesses to the accident, Mrs. Mills was thrown five or six feet into the air and nearly 12 feet out of the path of the car, which they said was moving rapidly.

The aged woman was carried by persons who ran to the scene to the grocery store porch and cared for there until the W. L. Starne Ambulance arrived.

The Pinkley automobile ran against a low bank on the south side of the street and overturned, as a result of the driver's attempt to avoid hitting Mrs. Mills. Mrs. Pinkley, however, was uninjured, and climbed out through the window.

Heard Horn of Car

Mrs. Pinkley was driving west on Atlantic toward the grocery stores, where her husband is employed as a machinist, to drive him home from work, when the accident occurred. Mr. Pinkley and Arch Ramey, also a machinist, said that they were walking to meet her, and heard the horn of the car sounded while they were two blocks away.

According to Mrs. Pinkley, the aged woman had started to cross Atlantic street from a path on a vacant lot, when she saw her and sounded her horn. Thinking that Mrs. Mills was going to stop, she speeded up again. Mr. Pinkley said that he understood that Mrs. Mills was partially deaf and possibly had not heard the approach of the car and the horn.

Mrs. Mills is survived by three sons, L. R. Mills, B. L. Mills, and J. E. Mills, of 1421 West Thoman, two daughters, Mrs. John M. Dodson, 1423 West Thoman, and Mrs. Beale Cooper, of Thayer, Kan.

BARNEY P. RATHBONE, former chief of police: "One place in Greene county which could be made a fine public park is the old farm I lived on when we came here from New York over 60 years ago. The land is six miles southeast of the square, contains a spring which gushes out of a hill with a roar and forms a creek which goes underground and then appears again. When we came here some of the property around was called the camp ground on account of camp meetings being held there. There was a church with two doors in front, one for the men and another for the women. It was only a very sinful and degraded men, indeed, who would be caught entering church in those days with his own wife. To have done so would have created an awful scandal. We sold the old farm to E. M. Goldneck and it became a popular place for fishermen. There are always many fish in the stream or lake. Mr. Goldneck was a hard working man and saved up considerable money. Some Florida land promoters sold him worthless property and he left here to start life over again."

Funeral Services for Aged

 Investigation Conducted by

CARELESS driving on the part of Mrs. Clarence E. Pinkley, of 1919 North Newton avenue, was held to blame by a coroner's jury which investigated the death of Mrs. Martha F. Mills, 71, of 1421 West Thoman street, when she was struck by a car at the corner of West Atlantic street and Alberta avenue, at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

DRIVER IS BLAMED

The jury, summoned by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, returned a verdict late yesterday afternoon holding the driver of the car responsible.

Whether or not criminal charges will be filed against Mrs. Pinkley, George H. Skidmore, Greene county prosecutor, will decide today. The woman's death is the eighth fatality recorded from automobile accidents since Dr. Stone took office, December 1.

FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY

Mrs. Mills was struck by the car, as she crossed Atlantic street on her way to the McGuire Grocery store. She was thrown five or six feet into the air and nearly 12 feet out of the path, according to witnesses.

STEPS FROM CAR, FATALLY INJURED

Coroner Stone Finds No One
 To Blame in Accident Near Strafford

Injuries which caused the death of J. R. Rose, 68, who died Wednesday at his home near Strafford, were received in an automobile accident in which no one was held to blame, Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, announced yesterday.

Although the accident did not occur in Greene county, Dr. Stone was asked to investigate the accident. He found that a young man named Maynard Moore, of near Northview, picked Mr. Rose up near his home on highway 66 and took him to his destination a short distance away. The elderly man stood on the running board of the car and stepped off before the car came to a halt. He fell and sustained injuries which ultimately resulted in his death.

 Crash Near City

BULLETIN: 2:45 A. M.

ONE man was killed and two others so badly injured that they were not expected to live more than a few hours early this morning when their automobile struck the side of a Frisco train at the Glenstone road crossing. The bodies were found about 2:30 o'clock.

The two injured men, unconscious and badly hurt, were taken to the Springfield Baptist hospital in a Starné ambulance. Some time was required to remove the body of the other from under the wreckage of the automobile, a Studebaker sedan. None were identified.

The car had been going south on Glenstone and apparently had struck the side of the train which had carried the vehicle eastward for about 300 feet. One of the injured men was found near the highway while the other two had been carried along with the car.

Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, left for the scene of the accident immediately after being informed of the tragedy.

THIRD IS HURT WHEN MACHINE IS DEMOLISHED

Dr. E. C. Cantrell, Springfield Dentist, Dies Instantly in Crash

FIND COMPANION DYING

Paul Shouse of Greenfield Expires Soon After Bodies Are Found

One man was killed instantly, another fatally injured and a third seriously hurt when their automobile crashed into a moving freight train at the Frisco's Mill street crossing on Glenstone road at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

Dr. E. Conrad Cantrell, 31 dentist, with offices in the Medical Arts building here.

The injured: Robert Daughtrey,

26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daughtrey, Greenfield. He sustained internal injuries, a broken arm and scalp wounds. His recovery is uncertain.

The accident was not discovered until half a hour after it occurred when a passing motorist reported to police that he had seen a man lying on the pavement near the railroad crossing. When police officers arrived, they found Shouse lying fatally injured, near where the crash took place.

Shared Coroner's Office

Dr. Murray O. Stone, Greene county coroner, who shared offices in the Medical Arts building with Doctor Cantrell, was the first person to recognize the young dentist when he came upon the body pinned in the wreckage under a wheel, 50 yards down the railroad track.

The coroner had been called to the scene immediately after officers had traced the strewn wreckage to where the car lay.

Both Shouse and Daughtrey, who was found lying by the side of the wrecked car, were conscious when found and were rushed to Springfield Baptist hospital in a Starne ambulance, but Shouse died a short time later.

The members of the train crew were unaware of any accident until they reached Rogersville, when they discovered a hole which had been torn in the side of the freight car struck by the automobile.

Falls From Trestle

The auto, a Studebaker "President" model sedan, apparently had been caught up by the freight car and dragged along the right-of-way until the train passed over a small trestle, where it fell into the stream bed below of its own weight.

When the automobile became dislodged, the freight car was derailed, but righted itself when it passed a switch running from the main line to the Springfield stockyards nearby.

The exact time of the accident is not known, but since the freight train left the yards here not far behind the Kansas City-Florida special passenger train at 12:35 o'clock, it is believed the crash must have occurred about 1:15. The train operator at the South Junction, a tower located just west of Glenstone road, reported that a train passed him about 2:07 a. m. however, although this was almost a half hour after the call had been received at the central police station.

No Witnesses Found

Investigation failed to disclose any eye-witness to the tragedy. Daughtrey was unable to talk today, although he is expected to recover. An unidentified hiker reported to Doctor Stone that he had been sleeping by the side of the road near the crossing and that he had heard the train whistle and a noise as if of a collision, but he said he did not investigate.

A high bank along the railroad right-of-way just west of the Glenstone road crossing partially obscures an approaching train from the view of a motorist going south the direction in which the Shouse car was traveling.

Marks on the pavement indicated that Shouse had applied his brakes suddenly and that the car skidded about 100 feet on the pavement before it crashed into the train. The fact that the automobile struck the fifth car from the engine indicated that the driver probably saw the train when it was too late to stop. The fact that Shouse was not familiar with the road made the crossing doubly dangerous.

Their Chests Crushed

It is believed that Cantrell was riding in the front seat with Shouse, and that Daughtrey was riding in the back seat. When the car crashed, Shouse was thrown through the windshield, and onto the pavement at the crossing. Daughtrey fell clear of the auto as it hung over the trestle just before it broke loose from the freight car. He was lying on the bank of the small creek when found.

Cantrell's death was caused by a crushed chest, according to Doctor Stone. His injuries also included both legs broken and a deep scalp wound and cuts about the face and head.

Shouse also sustained a crushed chest, but a fractured skull is believed to have finally caused his death. His lower jaw was also broken and his left leg broken at the knee.

Lived at Greenfield

Cantrell was the son of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cantrell of Greenfield. He had been practicing dentistry in Springfield for about three years, coming here from Greenfield, where he practiced with his father for a short time. He had also practiced at Miller immediately after his graduation from Kansas City Dental college.

Shouse was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shouse, who live a mile and a half south of Greenfield, but he made his home with his aged grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shouse in Greenfield. Mrs. J. C. Shouse, the grandmother, has been a patient in St. John's hospital here for the past 10 days since she sustained a broken arm in a fall at her home 10 days ago, and Paul Shouse had been in Springfield Sunday to visit her.

Visited Sick Father

Doctor Cantrell had gone to Greenfield Sunday to visit his father, who is seriously ill of heart trouble. The elder man had returned to his home there only a week ago after taking treatment in a hospital here.

Leaving Doctor and Mrs. Stone with whom he had made the trip about 4:30 in the afternoon, Doctor Cantrell went to the Cantrell garage on Olive street for his own car, which he drove to the Ambassador apartments at 929 East Elm street, where he lived.

Later in the evening, he called at the apartment with Shouse and stated that they would probably attend a show. The last time the two were seen before the accident was at a restaurant about midnight. It is not known where Daughtrey joined them.

Visitor Sees Body

First information of the accident was from a young Lebanon man who stopped at the Jess Smith hamburger stand at 925 St. Louis street, and reported that he had seen a man lying on the pavement near the railroad crossing. He explained that the lunch stand was the first place he had found open as he drove into town.

R. H. Fulbright, 1410 West Olive street, and Floyd Rutledge, 1015 Robberson avenue, who were in the lunch room, placed a call for police and for an ambulance and then went down to the crossing, where they found Shouse. Tracing the path of the wreckage they found Daughtrey and placed him and Shouse in a Starne ambulance when it arrived.

The body of Cantrell was taken to the Herman H. Lohmeyer funeral home to be prepared for burial after it had been viewed by Doctor Stone.

Both bodies were to be taken to Greenfield late today where funeral services will be held, probably Wednesday. A corner's jury viewed both Shouse and Cantrell this afternoon and will probably hold a formal inquest later when Daughtrey is able to testify.

Cantrell was the only child of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cantrell. His wife, Mrs. Lottie M. Cantrell, who also survives, is in her sister's home in Kansas City at the time of the accident.

Shouse was not married. He is survived by his parents and grandparents, and by one sister, Mrs. John Yates of Kansas City and by two brothers, Joe and Minnie, both of Fulton, Mo.

Funeral services for Doctor Cantrell will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cantrell, at Greenfield. Burial will take place in the Greenfield cemetery.

Arrangements for the funeral of Paul P. Shouse were still incomplete this afternoon.

LAY GIRL'S DEATH TO CYCLE'S SPEED, 'POOR JUDGMENT'

Jury Finds That Wagon Into Which Motorcycle Crashed Was Very Little, if Any, Off Right Side

MISS MADGE GRANTHAM, 18, who died Sunday afternoon from injuries received Saturday afternoon in a motorcycle accident on highway 65 near Galloway, was fatally injured "due to fast driving and poor judgment on the part of F. G. Johnson," a coroner's jury decided in an inquest held at the Central police station last night under direction of Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner.

GOING FAST

Testimony given by eight persons who were called to the witness stand developed that Miss Grantham was riding in the aldecar of the motorcycle driven by Johnson at a high rate of speed.

The farm wagon driven by Tom Ginger, into which the motorcycle crashed, was very little, if any, off the right side of the highway, the jurors decided from the testimony given.

2 KILLED, 1 HURT WHEN AUTO RAMS SIDE OF FREIGHT

Condition of Injured Man Reported Slightly Improved; Has Fairly Good Chance for Recovery

SPRINGFIELD DENTIST DIES IN MYSTERY CRASH

Machine Tears into Side of Frisco Train and Is Dragged Distance Down Tracks, Dropped Under Trestle

THE condition of Robert Daughtrey, 26, of Greenfield, Mo., who was seriously injured in an automobile-train crash which took the lives of two companions here early Monday morning, was reported slightly improved by his physician last night.

Those killed in the accident were Dr. E. Conrad Cantrell, 31, dentist, with offices in the Medical Arts building here; and Paul Preston Shouse, 27, of Greenfield.

The accident occurred about 1:15 o'clock Monday morning when an automobile in which the three men were riding crashed into a moving freight train at the Frisco Mill street crossing on Cleveland street.

Daughtrey was taken to the Springfield Baptist hospital by a W. L. Starne ambulance.

Daughtrey stands a fairly good chance to recover, Dr. Wallis Smith, his physician, said last night. X-ray pictures taken yesterday revealed that he had sustained a fractured pelvis bone, a fractured left arm and wounds about the face and head.

The accident was not discovered until half an hour after it occurred when a young Lebanon motorist reported to the police that he had seen a man lying on the pavement near the railroad crossing. When officers arrived they found Shouse lying fatally injured near where the crash took place. Tracing the strewn wreckage, they found Daughtrey lying beside the wrecked car. The two were rushed to the hospital and Dr. Murray C. Stone, coroner, was notified.

SHARED OFFICES

Dr. Stone, who shared offices with Doctor Cantrell, was the first to recognize the young dentist, who was pinned in the wreckage under a trestle, 50 yards down the railroad track.

The cause of the accident remained unknown last night. Marks on the pavement, it was said, indicated that Shouse, who apparently was driving, had applied his brakes suddenly and that the car skidded approximately 100 feet on the pavement before it crashed into the train. The fact that Shouse was not acquainted with the crossing made it doubly dangerous. It is believed there was no eye witness to the accident.

Doctor Cantrell is the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Loula E. Cantrell of Greenfield. He had been practicing dentistry in Springfield for about three years. His wife, Little M. Cantrell, who also survives, was at the home of a sister in Kansas City.

Funeral services for Doctor Cantrell will be held at the home of his parents at Greenfield at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will take place in the Greenfield cemetery.

Shouse was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Shouse, who live a mile and a half south of Greenfield, but he made his home with his aged grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shouse of Greenfield. Funeral services for him will be held at Greenfield probably Wednesday or Thursday afternoon. Burial will be made in the Greenfield cemetery under direction of W. L. Starne mortuary.

ORDER INQUEST INTO ACCIDENT HELD TONIGHT

Probe in Death of Cantrell, Shouse, to Be Made; Daughtrey Tells of Going to Sleep Before Crash With Train

Formal inquest into the death of Dr. E. C. Cantrell and Paul P. Shouse, who were killed when their automobile crashed into a Frisco freight train early Monday morning at the Mill street crossing on Glenstone road will be held this evening at 7:30 at the central police station. Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, announced this morning.

Robert Daughtrey, who was seriously injured in the same crash, was able to make a deposition to the coroner this morning at the Springfield Baptist hospital, where he is a patient.

Met in Restaurant

The young man told Doctor Stone that he had attended a show alone Sunday evening and that he had met Cantrell and Shouse afterward and had gone with them to a restaurant to eat.

Later the trio drove to the municipal airport. Doctor Cantrell was greatly interested in aviation and had made arrangements to take a flying course only a few days before his death.

The crash occurred as the three young men were returning to town from the airport, according to Daughtrey this morning. He was asleep in the back seat of the sedan, he said, and the other two were riding in front, with Shouse driving. Daughtrey, the only surviving occupant of the ill-fated car, said he did not see the train and did not remember the crash. He had not been informed yet today of the death of his two companions.

Parents Here Now

Daughtrey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daughtrey, who formerly lived in Springfield but who now reside in Greenfield, were with him today. He had visited them in Greenfield Sunday.

Funeral services for Doctor Cantrell were held at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cantrell, at Greenfield, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The Reverend W. R. Russell, Presbyterian minister of Everton and long-time friend of the Cantrells, took part in the service, and the Blue Lodge Masons were expected to conduct their ritual.

Charles Riley, John Meyer, and Herman Kincaid of Springfield went to Greenfield this afternoon to serve as pallbearers. Others from here who attended the funeral were Dr. and Mrs. Murray C. Stone, Dr. Bertram Meyer, Dr. G. B. Lemmon, Dr. T. T. Umbarger, Mrs. Charles Riley, Miss Lucille Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cantrell, and Mrs. C. E. McRee.

The body of Shouse was taken to Greenfield at noon today for funeral services and burial there Wednesday.

LAY FATAL CRASH AT RAIL CROSSING TO CARELESSNESS

Coroner's Jury Finds That Two Were Killed Due to Neglect and Carelessness
On Part of Car Occupants

RECOMMEND WARNING SIGNAL BE INSTALLED

Reveal Freight Train May Have Been Standing Still When Speeding Machine
Rammed Into It

THE death of Dr. E. C. Cantrell and Paul P. Shouse, who were killed when their automobile crashed into a Frisco freight train early Monday morning, was due to "neglect and carelessness on the part of the occupants of the automobile," according to the verdict of a coroner's jury reached last night.

An inquest was held at the Central police station, at which four witnesses were examined and the deposition of Robert Daughtrey, who was seriously injured in the crash, was read by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner.

TRAIN AT STANDSTILL

Police claim agent who was killed in the accident, shed new light on the crash. From his testimony it appears that the automobile in which the three victims were riding, hit the freight car while the train was either standing still or was moving very slowly.

The train crew, before leaving the city, was compelled to take out a damaged freight car. In recoupling the train stopped on the Glenstone road crossing about three minutes, Mr. Baker said. He said his investigation revealed that the fifth freight car from the locomotive was another car that had stopped during the halt.

This testimony, coupled with the fact that the automobile tore large holes in the side of the freight car, led the jury and the coroner to believe that the accident occurred during the halt. If the accident had happened while the train was moving, the automobile would have hit

A car nearer the middle of the train.

NOTICED CATTLE GUARD

Mr. Baker said that members of the train crew were not aware that an accident had occurred until the train reached Rogersville. One of the brakemen noticed, however, he said, from the caboose as the train was pulling out that the cattle guard at the crossing was torn down.

Others who testified were W. K. Webb, police officer who answered a call to the scene; Jess Smith, hamburger stand operator, who went to the scene when told by passing tourists that he had seen the body of a man near the crossing; and Floyd Fox, who took a W. L. Sterne ambulance to the scene to pick up the injured men.

The coroner's jury, in its verdict, said it deemed it advisable and recommended that a red signal block be installed at the crossing. Mr. Baker told the jury that the highway department, the city and the railroad have warning signs at the crossing, but no light signal.

WEST PLAINS MAN, THAYER GIRL WED

Assistant Cashier of West
Plains Bank Marries Miss.
Bess Harlin

Special Dispatch to The News.

THAYER, Mo., Sept. 24 - Miss Bess Harlin, popular Ozark girl, and Langston Pease, assistant cashier of the West Plains bank at West Plains, were married at Thayer tonight by the Reverend T. F. Felt, pastor of the M. E. church of West Plains.

Both are members of pioneer Central Ozark families. Miss Harlin is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harlin, manager of the Revell Wholesale Grocer company at Smith Spring, Ark., and a niece of Mayor A. B. Harlin of West Plains and Senator John C. Harlin of Palmersville.

Mr. Pease is a son of Frank Pease of the Langston-Pease Mercantile company of West Plains. He is a grandson of one of the pioneer mercantile establishments in this part of the state. He is secretary of the West Plains chamber of commerce. Both are college graduates, Mr. Pease having attended the University of Missouri.

Many friends and relatives of the couple at West Plains attended the wedding ceremony.

'PARENTALLY WED.' PAIR IS DIVORCED

Schmook; Another Woman
Fights for Child

Two divorce decrees were granted in circuit court yesterday afternoon by Judge John Schmook of division one. James L. Senter was granted a divorce from Pauline J. Senter, and Hisa Kishimura was given a divorce from Ikuta Kishimura. The Kishimuras are native Japanese and were married in Japan, but came to the United States soon after their marriage, in 1924, and have been employed at the Okino dairy farm near Springfield.

It was a "parental marriage," arranged by the parents of Mr. and Mrs. Kishimura according to the oriental custom.

ASKS CUSTODY OF CHILD

One of the most bitterly fought cases to come up in circuit court this term is the habeas corpus suit of Mrs. Anna Faye Brewer to obtain possession of her child, Dennis Lee Brewer, which will be tried before Judge Warren L. White Wednesday.

Mrs. Brewer charges that at the time of her separation from her husband, Clyde E. Brewer on September 6, he "stole" the child during her absence from home and took it to the home of his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brewer, of Greenfield. The child's mother charges that her mother-in-law is not capable of caring for the child because of poor health.

ASKS DIVORCE

In their answer to this charge, Brewer and his parents assert that his wife's people are "migratory and unsettled" and have no means with which to rear the child properly.

A divorce petition filed at the same time by Mrs. Brewer and charging non-support, cruelty, and neglect will be tried at the January term of Greene county circuit court. In this petition, Mrs. Brewer charges that her husband gave all his earnings to his mother and that when twins were born in January, he so neglected her that they died.

News of Mr. Taylor's death was received today by Mrs. Charles France, 604 West Central street, a former neighbor. Mr. Taylor is survived by his wife, three sons, a daughter and several brothers.

The veteran typographer installed three linotype machines for The Leader when the newspaper was published on College street at the rear of the present site of the Heer Stores. S. J. Tiffany and Tom Rhoades, who still are employed by The Leader, were fellow employees of Taylor at the time.

City Woman Dies In Auto Accident; Body Brought Here

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy, 64, for many years a resident of Springfield, who was killed today in an automobile accident in Buffalo, N. Y., arrived here today for burial.

Arrival of Mrs. Kennedy's body made it apparent that an error had been made in a telegram received Sunday from Buffalo, which said that Roy Morris, 3-year-old grandson of the woman, had been killed and that the child's body would be sent to this city for burial. Relatives believe that the boy probably was badly injured and that his mother made a mistake in her telegram to relatives, using the name "Roy" instead of that of his grandmother.

Mrs. Kennedy, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Charles W. Anderson, 430 West Mount Vernon street, left Springfield recently to live with her daughter, Mrs. John Morris, a former resident of this city who moved to Buffalo several years ago.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete but services probably will be conducted Friday, with burial under direction of Herman Lohmeyer.

DEATH DRIVER HELD AT FAULT

Carelessness Cause of Crash Killing Two, Is Inquest Verdict

"Neglect and carelessness on the part of the occupants of the automobile" were blamed in the verdict of the coroner's jury last night for the death of Dr. E. Conrad Cantrell and Paul P. Shouse in the automobile-train crash early Monday morning. The jury, however, recommended that a red signal block be installed at the Glenstone crossing.

The inquest was held at Central police station. Four witnesses were examined and the deposition of Robert Daughtrey, who was seriously injured in the crash, was read by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner.

Testimony of W. F. Baker, Frisco claim agent who investigated the accident, indicated that the automobile in which the three young men were riding hit the train either while it was standing still or was moving very slowly. The train crew, before leaving the city, took out a damaged freight car, Mr. Baker said. While recoupling the train, it was stopped on the Glenstone road crossing about three minutes, he testified, and the fifth freight car from the locomotive was across the pavement during the halt. The claim agent said members of the train crew did not know the accident had occurred until the train reached Rogersville.

Others who testified were W. K. Webb, police officer, who was called to the scene; Jess Smith, hamburger stand operator, who went to the scene when told by a passing tourist that a body had been found; and Floyd Fox, driver of the W. L. Starne ambulance which picked up the injured men.

Daughtrey was reported to be in improved condition today. He is in the Springfield Baptist hospital and it is believed that he will recover.

Funeral services for Doctor Cantrell were held yesterday afternoon at the home of his parents in Greenfield. Services for Paul Shouse were to be held at Greenfield this afternoon.

As he did so it shot off the pavement into a ditch, overturning twice as it went. A fender struck the touring car but did little damage.

Although he disliked to pose for photographs, and was averse to personal publicity, E. M. Wilhoit liked this informal picture of himself, which was taken at his desk when he announced the final sale of his oil properties and his retirement from active business.

From Humble Start as Mule Team Driver, Oil Man Earned Wealth; Opened First Station at Joplin With a Capital of $500

Death of Edward M. Wilhoit, millionaire retired oil operator, at his home in the center of Joplin, Mo., is a fitting end to a life of business which are so typical of American life.

Mr. Wilhoit was, in the best sense, a "self-made" man. Born on a farm near Covington, Ky. 65 years ago, he spent his boyhood there and never outgrew the love of fine farmland and fine stock which he acquired as a lad. Years later, having built a fortune in a different business he was to return to farming as a hobby and a delight.

First Job Driving Mules

When he was about 20, with two neighborhood chums, he went west to Wichita, Kan. His first job was driving a pair of mules, hitched to a dray, for a grocery store. Wichita was "booming" and Mr. Wilhoit bought some land, giving personal notes for it. The boom burst, and the land wasn't worth much—but he did any work at hand, until he had them paid off. For a while he worked as a carpenter, and on one carpenter's job walked five miles a day to his work, and five miles back. At his death, he still owned that land, so profitably sold.

He then entered the oil business driving for the Standard Oil company. In the meantime, he had returned to Kentucky, long enough to marry the boyhood sweetheart who lived on the farm adjoining his father's; and the young bride came west with her ambitious husband to help in the career that was to build the greatest independent oil business in the Ozarks.

First Station at Joplin

After 10 years with the Standard Oil company, he took his capital of $500 and started his first station at Joplin, in 1896. His former employers assured him that they would "make is so hot for him" he never could succeed, but he replied, "I can't lose much money, because I don't have much. But my knowledge of the oil business learned in 10 years working for you I never can lose—I'll still have it when my money is gone."

Competition was keen and heavy, and progress slow at first. Mr. Wilhoit was the business, from manager to teamster. He dealt mostly at first, with kerosene, and its chief use was to fill lamps. Later gasoline came into use as a cooking fuel, but it was a long while before motor transportation created the big markets of today.

Second Station Here

After six years, Mr. Wilhoit came to Springfield and opened his second station, and two years later moved here in 1904. In 1907 he opened a third station in St. Joseph; others soon in Atchison and Nevada. From then on, expansion was rapid, until at last he had covered western Missouri and eastern Kansas, and had the biggest independent oil business in all the Ozarks region.

Walter Cossey, Mr. Wilhoit's son-in-law, entered the business 15 years ago. The next year Mr. Wilhoit planned to make him Springfield manager and move to Kansas City. He and Mrs. Wilhoit sold their St. Louis street home, and went to Kansas City, arriving in a bitter storm of sleet.

Decided to Remain

A telephone conversation with their daughter, Mrs. Cossey, assured them that the weather in Springfield was lovely; it wasn't any pleasure getting about Kansas City, and when they did, "We saw only strange facts, nobody we knew," Mr. Wilhoit related years later.

So they went into executive session to discuss the matter. "What do you think about it?" he asked Mrs. Wilhoit. "If you don't want to meet any worse than I do, it's not," she said. So they came "home," and built the house at 903 South Weller, where Mr. Wilhoit died this morning.

Sells Out Business

On May 25, 1928, Mr. Wilhoit announced the sale of his north Missouri properties including 20 bulk stations and 24 service stations in north and west Missouri and Atchison, Kan., to the Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, Okla.

In February this year, he sold the rest of his stations in south Missouri and eastern Kansas to the same company. This included 30 bulk distribyou know it," Mr. McDaniel then made him a personal loan to carry stations in 31 cities. He retained, however, the E. M. Wilhoit Oil company refinery at Joplin.

At the time of this last sale, Mr. Wilhoit said, "When the future began to look uncertain for the small company, I commenced to look around and of all the companies with abundance of resources I could see none better and few in my opinion as good as the Phillips Petroleum company. It is a wonderful organization, built up much as ours has been. It has departments the employees with which it was started."

As Mr. Wilhoit spoke of his employees, tears came into his eyes and he declared "Much of our success has been due to our good boys, employees and also to the wonderful support we have had from the consuming public."

Grateful to Public

"We owe everything to the loyal employees and to the fully as loyal public," he continued. "They have supported us throughout. If there is anyone who should feel grateful to the public it is the Wilhoit family." Many of the agents at the Wilhoit stations at the time of the sale were the same ones who started when the stations were established five to 20 years ago. One family, including three brothers and the son of one of them, had worked for the Wilhoit company more than 20 years. This family includes Fred Painter and Ernest Painter, both of Springfield, Will Painter of Noel and C. H. Painter of St. Joseph.

It was to Mrs. Wilhoit's sympathy and co-operation in all his business ventures that Mr. Wilhoit also attributed much of his success.

"I have had a wonderful partner," said Mr. Wilhoit. "I always have talked over with Mrs. Wilhoit my plans and she has given me her help and advice."

With him at the time of his death were his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cossey, his daughter and son-in-law, and Doctors Mary Atherton and O. B. Lemmon.

Suffered Indigestion

Mr. Wilhoit had been troubled with indigestion somewhat of late weeks, but no serious heart trouble had been suspected.

In the morning, Mr. Wilhoit had taken Mrs. Wilhoit to church, and had called for her afterward. He had slept during the afternoon and returned very well.

Mr. Wilhoit was born in 1863 in 1863 in the town of Wilhoit, a quarter-century ago, and an independent oil business that made him a millionaire and probably the wealthiest man in the city.

Walter Cossey, his son-in-law who was with him at his death, had been associated with him in business for more than 15 years, and was general manager of his company.

Truck Driver Dies In Try to Avert Crash With Auto

Thomas Winfrey, 24, driver for a St. Louis transfer company, lost his own life Sunday when he turned his huge truck, heavily loaded with freight, into a ditch on a one-mile corner west of Springfield, to avoid hitting an automobile ahead of him.

Winfrey was on his way from St. Louis to Tulsa, Okla. Several miles out of Springfield he caught up with a touring car. When the automobile reached the Elwood cross road the driver quickly turned to the left in front of the truck.

Seeing that he could not stop his 10-ton truck in time, Winfrey turned sharply to the right. The truck rolled over later as it shot off the pavement into the ditch. A fender of the truck struck the touring car but did little damage.

Passing motorists pulled Winfrey from the wreckage of his truck and sent him to Springfield Baptist hospital in a Starne ambulance. The accident occurred at 1:30 in the afternoon and Winfrey died about 11 o'clock Sunday night.

The truck belonged to the Lindell Moving and Storage company of St. Louis. Winfrey, who is survived by his wife, his parents, and a brother and sister, lived at 6211 Hoffman street. The body will be sent to St. Louis tonight from Starne's Mortuary.

U. B. McCraw, who lives on West Division street road, was driving the touring car. He told Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, that he signaled his intention to turn with his left arm, after Mrs. McCraw had warned him the truck was close behind. No formal inquest will be held.

Helen Hurley Weds

A wedding of interest to a number of Springfield people was that of Miss Helen Irene Hurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hurley, 1418 North Grant Avenue, to Mr. Joseph Dallas of Alamo, Calif., which took place last Monday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Dallas is a graduate of Springfield High School, attended Drury college and later received her degree from State Teachers college here. She is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha society. The young couple will make their home in Alamo.

Florence Parten today was granted an annulment of her marriage to Oscar Ernhart, after hearing before Judge John Schmook in division 1 of Greene county circuit court.

Stranger's Visit Stirs the Ghost Of 'Dead' Father

Three brothers and sisters of Springfield were haunted today by the maddening possibility that an error by one of them may have prevented a reunion with their father, missing since he unofficially was reported dead at Santiago, Cuba during the Spanish-American war.

Hope of the three that they may yet see their father again was fanned into life last night by the visit of a mysterious stranger at the home of Edward Pullar, 1322 West Florida street, a son of the missing man. The visitor, a man of 55 or 60 years, asked but few questions, obtained an incorrect reply and then left, obviously greatly disappointed.

"Looking Everywhere"

He refused to explain his mission, but told Mr. Pullar he had been "looking everywhere for you." It was when he asked where Pullar's father, Andrew Pullar, was born, and was informed wrongly that his birthplace was in Canada, that he lost interest. His father only a dim memory to him, Mr. Pullar remembered only that his mother was born in Canada and supposed that his father was born there, too. In fact the father came from near Beth, Scotland.

The stranger, who may have been Pullar's own father, was allowed to leave before the amazing possibilities in his visit dawned upon the Springfield man. Today he and a brother and sister, John Pullar, who lives on the Nichols street road west of the city and Mrs. Mrs. Octobock, 1313 West Florida street, wished desperately that they might see last night's visitor again but apparently faced a stone wall in their search for him.

May Involve Estate

It is believed certain that the stranger's visit either concerned news of their father's fate or a possible estate left to him in Scotland. Mrs. Octobock was informed a few years ago that a wealthy member of the Pullar family connected with a dye works at Beth, Scotland, had died.

Mrs. Octobock's mother, who died more than ten years ago, never gave up hope that her husband was still alive. Her last word from him came in a letter posted at a hospital in Santiago, and in it the man said he was sending money to her by another soldier. The money never came, and Mrs. Pullar heard nothing more of her husband's fate excepting a newspaper clipping sent to her by her brother, which said Mr. Pullar was dead.

Memories Kept Alive

The family was living at the time of the Spanish-American war in Mobile, Ala. Mrs. Octobock remembers that several years after her father's reported death, while she still was a small child, a strange man stopped her on the street as she was running an errand for her mother, talked to her kindly for several minutes and told her he was "going away." He promised to bring her a doll "when I come back," but that was the last she ever heard of him. Several strange incidents have kept alive the family's doubt that Pullar is dead.

Another daughter of the man, Mrs. Florence England, lives at Atlanta, Ga.

CITY IN LAST TRIBUTE TODAY TO E. M. WILHOIT

*Final Rites for City's Benefactor Will Be Held at 2:30 o'clock
This Afternoon*

NONE of the hundreds of friends of Edward M. Wilhoit, 65, retired millionaire oil operator of Springfield, who died suddenly at his home, 903 Weller avenue, early yesterday morning, need miss a word of the final rites in tribute to him this afternoon as the result of arrangements completed by the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home late yesterday.

Because of his esteem for Mr. Wilhoit, E. D. Levy, president of the Pierce Petroleum company, agreed to send one of his firm's large amplifying installations here for use at the ceremonies in the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home at 3 o'clock this afternoon when the Reverend A. J. McClung, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian church, will preach the service. Harry Bruton will sing. Interment will be in Maple Park cemetery.

SEND AMPLIFIERS HERE

A truck carrying the amplifiers left St. Louis at 7 o'clock last night. After arrival of the equipment here this morning it will be set up outside the funeral home for the benefit of those who are unable to find places inside the building.

Men who worked for Mr. Wilhoit before the recent sale of his oil properties to the Phillips Petroleum company will be active pallbearers. They are Fred Painter, who worked 23 years for Mr. Wilhoit; Charles Connitt, with 20 years; Lester Stone, Claude Ranka and Alvin Taylor, with 16 years service each; and Ben Thompson, with 10 years. All are Springfield men, with the exception of Mr. Ranka who lives in Joplin.

Honorary pallbearers are Arch McGregor, George D. McDaniel, Lewis Luster, T. T. Umbarger, Walter Tillman, Al Eckert, Guy Evans and Henry Schneider.

STRICKEN MONDAY MORNING

Mr. Wilhoit was stricken about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning with the illness which resulted somewhat more than an hour later. Death was caused by stoppage of the artery through the heart muscle. With him when he died were his wife, his wife, his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coasey, and Drs. Mary Atherton and B. O. Lemmon.

The fatal illness came without warning, although Mr. Wilhoit had been subject to indigestion in recent weeks. He had taken his wife to church Sunday morning and called for her afterward. He retired early Sunday night after sleeping much of the afternoon.

Miss Edna Wilhoit, another daughter, was in Kentucky visiting her mother's brother and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Criger, when her father died. All three will arrive here this morning.

In addition to his wife and two daughters, Mr. Wilhoit is survived by a granddaughter, Jean Coasey, and by two sisters in Kentucky.

The building of the Wilhoit fortune constitutes an American business romance of the highest type. The builder accomplished his financial success only after many years of the hardest kind of hard work.

Born on a farm near Covington, Ky., in 1864, Mr. Wilhoit spent his early life there, going west to Wichita, Kan., when he was 20 years old with two chums. There his first job was driving a pair of mules hitched to a grocery store delivery wagon. While the town was booming he purchased some land, giving personal notes for it.

The crash came and his land was worth little but the young man did any kind of work he could get until the notes were paid off. The property so hard earned was still his when he died.

Before he entered the oil business for the first time in 1888 as a tank wagon driver for the Standard Oil company, Mr. Wilhoit returned to Kentucky long enough to marry the childhood sweetheart who lived on a farm adjoining that of his father. To her he later gave a large measure of credit for helping him build the greatest independent oil business in the Ozarks.

Mr. Wilhoit, after 10 years with the Standard company, took his capital of $500 and opened his first station at Joplin in 1896. Progress was slow at the beginning and competition was keen. The business was chiefly in kerosene at first but later gasoline came into use as a cooking fuel.

OPENED HERE IN 1902

The second station in what was to become the large Wilhoit chain was opened in Springfield in 1902 and two years later the Wilhoit family moved here. A third station was opened in St. Joseph in 1907 and others soon afterward in Atchison, Kan., and Nevada. Expansion then was rapid until the business covered virtually all of western Missouri and much of eastern Kansas.

Walter Coasey, Mr. Wilhoit's son-in-law, became associated with him 16 years ago. A year later Mr. Wilhoit made him Springfield manager and planned to move his family to Kansas City. They sold their home on St. Louis street and went to the larger city, being greeted there by a sleet storm.

Becoming dissatisfied with their new surroundings a short time later, Mr. and Mrs. Wilhoit came back to Springfield and built the house on Weller avenue in which they since have lived.

Sale of his north Missouri properties, including 20 bulk stations and 34 service stations, to the Phillips Pe-roleum company of Bartlesville, Okla., was announced on May 23, 1928. In February of this year, he sold the remainder of his stations in southwestern Missouri and southeastern Kansas. This group included 20 bulk distributing plants and 46 service stations. The E. M. Witholt refineries at Joplin, however, were retained.

Soon after the last sale, Mr. Witholt spoke with gratitude of his employees. "Much of our success," he declared "has been due to our loyal employees and also to the wonderful support we have had from the consuming public.

"We owe everything to the loyal employees and the fully as loyal public. They have supported us through-out. If there is anyone who should feel grateful to the public it is the Witholt family."

JOHN CARTER

Funeral services for John Carter, 67, Route 3, Willard, were held on Saturday afternoon at Mt. Pleasant Baptist church. A number of Springfield people attended.

MRS. O. F. SNOW

Mrs. O. F. Snow, wife of the Reverend O. F. Snow, pioneer Christian minister at Bluff, Mo., died at her home there early this morning after an illness of two weeks. Mrs. Snow was the mother of Mrs. I. M. Cook of 1603 North Florence avenue, Springfield, and of Mrs. Blanch Davis of Drexel, Mo. Eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive. Mrs. Snow was born in the east, but came to Missouri with her husband and settled first in Cass county, more than 60 years ago. Five years ago the Snows celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home at Bluff. Funeral services will be held at the T. B. Chaffin funeral home at Ozark Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in the Ozark cemetery.

MISS CORA GURLEY

Funeral services for Miss Cora Gurley, who died this morning, will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at 217 Benton avenue, where she died. Burial will take place in Mount Comfort cemetery, 10 miles northeast of Springfield, in charge of J. W. Klingner. Three brothers and one sister survive, as follows: A. P. Gurley of St. Louis; S. H. of Springfield; and W. T. of Battlefield; and Mrs. W. C. Lester of Springfield.

Mrs. Wiley O. Cox was the daughter of J. H. Boxley, one of the pioneers of Greene county, who owned a fine mansion on the Melville road, which still stands. He was prominent before the Civil war and owned slaves. He left a large estate. Wiley O. Cox became quite prominent in Kansas City, not only as the owner of the Kansas City Times but as a banker. After leaving Springfield he located in Kansas City and started the Kansas City State bank. He was loyal to his friends through thick and thin and he was close to Harvey W. Salmon, who owned an important bank at Clinton. Salmon was once treasurer of the state and a man of sterling character. He trusted the bank almost entirely to his son-in-law, Tom Casey. Salmon discovered the bank had become shaky and he appealed to Cox for aid. Cox doubted the wisdom of a loan but his heart overcame his judgment and he made Salmon a large loan. The loan did not save the Clinton bank and it failed. There was a terrible uproar and Harvey Salmon, his brother, Dr. Salmon and Casey were arrested. The Salmons were released but Casey was tried, convicted and forced to serve a term in the penitentiary. While he was in prison a civil case involving the Clinton bank was tried in Springfield. Casey was wanted as a witness and was brought here. He went on the stand and told his story. He looked a picture of despair. He was colorless, shrunken, his eyes set and he resembled a corpse. It was supposed he would die in prison. But he did not and when he was released went to California, locating at Huntington Park, a suburb of Los Angeles. He is today in the real estate business and is prosperous. The crash of the Salmon bank carried down the Cox bank and broke Wiley Cox. However, no one but Cox lost anything. He paid dollar for dollar and left an honored name. His body is buried here. While in Kansas City he took an active interest in public affairs and was a member of the city council in the days when Barney Corrigan was a political power. An old time citizen remarked: "D. Boxley, brother of Mrs. Cox, was an original character of early days. One day a congressional delegation with representatives from a dozen states on a tour stopped in Springfield. It was decided to wine and dine them, especially wine, at the Metropolitan, which was just completed. At the banquet a congressman was introduced to Boxley, who said he was from Rhode Island. "Why," said Boxley, "I can spit across your state."

Identify Victim Of Freight Car Crash at Monett

MONETT, Oct. 3.—One of the two men killed here September 2 in a car of pipe on the Frisco railroad has been identified as Elmer Howden. Word to this effect has just been received by Ralph Stewart, special officer for the Frisco.

The identification was made through finger prints taken when the two bodies were found in the car, crushed by the heavy pipe, that had shifted in switching. Mr. Stewart was able to get clear finger prints of the dark haired man, but the blond was in such condition that clear prints could not be made.

The finger prints were forwarded to the bureau of investigation of the department of justice at Washington, D. C. In a report from J. E. Hoover, director of the bureau, he said that they had noticed that the prints were those of Elmer Howden who was arrested in Aberdeen, Wash., November 11, 1927, on a charge of vagrancy, and in Salinas, Calif., June 27, 1928, on a similar charge.

Howden and his companion were bumming a ride on a Frisco freight train from the east and were hiding in a car loaded with heavy pipe. When the car being switched in the yard here the pipe shifted from one end to the other and crushed the two men, who were dead when found, presumably within half an hour after the tragedy.

Every effort was made to identify the two. At the time, it was thought the blond man might have been from Springfield, since he wore overalls with a Springfield firm's name on the label.

As the department of justice evidently had no record of Howden's home or relatives, it is improbable that his family can be reached.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Walter M. Campbell, 27, and Gladys H. Wight, 25, both of Springfield.

Robert A. Cooper, 26, and Nina M. Pitts, 23, both of Chicago.

Walter Crenshaw of Chicago is another old time Springfieldian who has just died. He had resided in Chicago for many years and had not been here for about 40 years. He was married in Chicago long ago and for a decade had been in poor health, never leaving his home. He was in his active days connected with the legal department of the Santa Fe railroad, having been appointed by his old friend, Edward D. Keena, vice president of the company. It is said that on advice of Keena, Crenshaw made investments which netted him a fortune. When a young man Crenshaw was nominated by the democrats for prosecuting attorney of Greene county. The county was overwhelmingly republican and he was defeated by Col S. H. Boyd. Col. Boyd was an active republican and held his party vote. He had been the back when Lincoln was president Boyd was a member of congress and thought Lincoln was too easy on the south. He made a speech on the square in which he denounced the soft policy of Lincoln which aroused resentment and resulted in the defeat of Boyd for reelection. He did not become active in politics again until he ran against Crenshaw for prosecuting attorney.

Walter Crenshaw was the son of L. A. D. Crenshaw, a Greene county pioneer, a hardy man of the 70's. He was an early day booster and might have given present day town boomers pointers on how to make a town. He did not have much to work on with the Springfield of the time. It was a dinky little settlement of frame buildings and D. C. Dade had a residence where the Metropolitan hotel now stands. It took a man of vision to see a hotel of the pretensions of the Metropolitan on that site but L. A. D. Crenshaw had it and by organizing a local company erected the hotel which still stands as a good tavern. The Colonial was built in much the same manner. Not only that but Crenshaw was a leader in the movement to build a railroad from Springfield to Memphis and to Kansas City. If one looks at some of the towns around here of 4000 or 5000 people he may have some idea of the presumption of Crenshaw and others. But there were giants in those days and after years of struggle and disappointments the road was brought through. He was a farmer on a large scale and founded the Crenshaw Hardware company on South street and erected for its home the building now occupied by the Keet-Rountree Dry Goods company. The store was bought later by the Rogers & Baldwin company.

FAMILY FIRMS

Springfield father and son partnerships

Harry Cooper and Jack Cooper

Among the fathers and sons of Springfield who get a lot of enjoyment out of business association are Harry and Jack Cooper. They not only are interested in the same business, but also find pleasure in the same recreational activities.

The father is president of the Harry Cooper Supply company. Jack Cooper is treasurer of the same firm. The concern has had an interesting growth since in 1906 when Harry Cooper, with his brother George Cooper bought a plumbing shop on South avenue in the 400 block.

After a time they moved the business to South avenue and Walnut street. Later the concern was moved to East Water street when it entered the wholesale business in 1908 and in 1914 the present building at 297 East Water street was erected. Harry Cooper bought his brother's interest in the business at the time the concern entered the wholesale field.

Jack Cooper "grew up" in the business and from the time he was a small boy knew exactly what his future career was to be. He lived in the work and enjoyed the association with his father, so throughout his school years and while he was in Missouri university, from which he was graduated, he took commercial course which would help him in his chosen work. During his school days in Springfield the son spent his spare time in the concern and in his university days he was there during vacations. Thus he was well prepared to take up full work when he was graduated in 1921 and entered the business.

Both father and son spend much time together and have a keen enjoyment of the same things. They both were prominent members of the old Springfield Country club and often play golf together. They also take active part in various social activities.

Jack Cooper is a member of the aviation club here and is a licensed pilot. His father frequently has gone up in the airplanes which the son piloted.

There is a third Cooper which some day probably will be a member of the firm. Jack Cooper's two-year-old son, Harry, Jr. is too young to express any opinion upon his future career, but he has given evidence of a fondness for association with his father and grandfather.

The News and Leader for Sunday, October 6, 1929, is missing.

THE WASTEBASKET

Into which are often tossed things well worth while.

The corner filling station is removing many old and historic residences in Springfield. The large bird cage house at Elm and Kimbrough has been wrecked to make way for a new building. This large building was constructed nearly 50 years ago by A. M. Lapham, the man who drove the golden spike when the Missouri Pacific completed its line into Springfield. The house was full of gingerbread architecture, the window frames being especially fine. They were noted for the spacious home erected by Col. H. F. Fellows on North Main, which still stands and is good for 200 years if it is thought was never to remain that long. When Colonel Fellows was erecting his great mansion he had in mind another story. He even bought the material but changed his mind and left off one story. He sold the surplus material and Mr. Lapham bought the window frames. The old Lapham residence is gone but there are plenty of old landmarks and there is no danger of losing one's way for want of them. Probably before long Kimbrough avenue at this corner will be widened a block to the north, a thing favored by the block in question and opposed by no one.

I came to Greene county 27 years ago from Virginia and have been active here ever since. I have seen the fruit and vegetables from in front of my farm house but competition has become fierce in this business. I served with Gen. Robert E. Lee in the Civil war and was at Appomattox and its famous apple tree. I saw Gen. Lee many times during the siege of Richmond but that was not hard to do when it is realized we had an army of only 28,000. However, we held our ground for a long time against Grant's 200,000 men.

WILHOIT WILL IS FILED HERE

Entire Estate Bequeathed to Widow; Two Codicils Are Added

The will of E. M. Wilhoit, filed for probate today in the office of Probate Judge John Fairman, bequeathed his entire estate to his wife, Della Wilhoit during her lifetime, to be divided equally between the daughters, Mrs. Edwina Conroy, and Miss Edna Wilhoit, upon the death of their mother.

Home To Her, Too

The home at 903 South Weller avenue is also bequeathed to Mrs. Wilhoit. The will was made May 9, 1912 and two codicils were added one on June 30, 1928, and the other on July 26, 1929.

The codicil made in 1928 changed the clause of the will to include the South Weller avenue home instead of the house at 716 St. Louis, where the Wilhoits resided in 1912. The first codicil also provided a bequest of $15,200 to Miss Edna Wilhoit upon the death of her father, a part of money which he had already advanced to the other daughter, Mrs. Edwina Conroy.

Given Oil Shares

The second codicil bequeaths 500 shares of common stock in the Phillips Petroleum company to Miss Edna Wilhoit.

The will originally provided that the oil business, part of which Mr. Wilhoit had already sold before his death, was to be conducted along the line he himself had followed during the lifetime of the executrix unless the daughters and Mrs. Wilhoit should decide it advisable to sell.

STONE COUNTY PURSUIT ENDS WITH KILLING

Deputy Sheriff Fatally
Shoots Man in Chase
Through Underbrush

TELLS OF LONG WATCH

Desperate Hand-to-Hand Struggle Before Shot
Fired, He Says

Resisting arrest upon a charge of possessing a half pint of whisky, Purce Allen, 33, was shot and wounded fatally by Deputy Sheriff Fred Nelson, 43, at Galena, Mo., shortly before noon today.

With a bullet in his spine, Allen died 15 minutes after the shooting, which occurred at the edge of the James river bottoms in Galena, where Nelson had pursued the man, after allegedly catching him with the liquor in his possession.

The officer told after the fatal shooting that he fired at Allen only after a desperate hand-to-hand struggle with him, in which he warned the man he would be forced to kill him and received the reply that "It's either you or me."

Officer's Story

Nelson, who lives at Eloy, Mo., had been aiding the sheriff at Galena during the present term of circuit court there. He said during the morning he noticed some noise and coming from a barn on the place, as the sheriff had told him that he had seen a man with liquor hidden in the barn when he investigated the matter.

side he arrested Allen, who had appeared and obtained the drink.

Chased Into "Jungle"

Allen, the officer declared, ran toward the James river bottoms and plunged into a dense growth of weeds. The officer followed into the "jungle," trailed him and caught him. Allen submitted and started with the officer again. Then, according to Nelson, he suddenly broke away, shouted he "wasn't going back to town," and attempted to run. The officer said he caught him, fought with him, and they rolled together on the ground. Allen was on top, with Nelson's arm tightly around his head. Nelson reached with his free arm, he said, for his revolver, pulled it free and prodded Allen in the body with it. He refused to shoot. When the man refused to cease his struggles he fired one shot, and Allen went limp.

On Federal Parole

Officers at Galena said Allen had served a term in the state penitentiary for liquor possession and was free under a federal parole at the time of the shooting. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. William Denham, and a brother, Jaze, who live in Galena, and another brother, Pearl Allen, who lives in the southern part of Stone county.

It was the second killing in Galena within two weeks. W. H. Beard, farmer, was knifed fatally at Galena September 30, by Virgil Painter, another farmer, who now is in jail awaiting trial.

MISS ESSIE RAY

Miss Essie Ray, 16, died at her home at 800 North Franklin avenue this morning after a long illness. She is survived species. But who would worry with all this detail? They are in part, but part of the wonderful Ozark autumn landscape—one of nature's pigments used in the royal colors of October.

Tater Bald, just three miles south and west of here, is worth traveling far to see at this season—at any season. It is a remarkable rock garden; a veritable flower lovers paradise. In all this region there is one of the most attractive places frequented, yet, easily accessible, by hiker or automobile. Two and a half miles south of Hollister on U. S. 65, take the neighborhood road that turns to the right between the white house and the barn at foot of big hill. Immediately you come into beautiful scenery. A deep ravine to your right, a wooded mountain on your left, a far vista of green cedar brakes and distant ridges before you. Asters, dragon-brad, and golden-rod marshaling the flower pageant that spreads on every side.

Unexpectedly you emerge into an open windswept region unlike any place you have seen elsewhere. A series of rock-paved hills from which the once overlying subcarboniferous strata has been eroded. The road winds over a natural pavement and drops from ledge to ledge—pretty rough but well worth the reduced speed required. While you may negotiate an auto even to the top of Indian Memorial and contemplate a sweeping view of rare beauty from where the noble red man once burned signal fires and conducted solemn rites, it is best to park the old bus and, as the native say, "take your foot in hand."

DEPUTY SHERIFF AT GALENA KILLS MAN OVER LIQUOR

Coroner's Inquest Continued Until Today: Shooting Followed an Attempt to Arrest Man

CORONER'S inquest into the fatal shooting of Purce Allen, 35-year-old, by Deputy Sheriff Fred Nelson, at Galena shortly before midnight yesterday, was continued today when the investigation completed last night.

Testimony taken at the hearing yesterday corroborated earlier reports of a shooting followed an attempt by the officer to arrest Allen for alleged possession of liquor.

Several witnesses testified that they saw Deputy Nelson try to stop Allen and that the latter ran toward the James river bottoms and plunged into the weeds, and that the officer followed. Several minutes later the report of a gun was heard and the deputy appeared, stating that he had killed Allen in a desperate hand-to-hand encounter.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

Despite the fact that the officer claims he shot Allen in self-defense, there was some ill feeling expressed against him. It was recalled that he was a participant in a cutting battle near Hurley two years ago and that at a recent Crane picnic he shot at a man whom he was trying to arrest for violation of liquor laws.

Nelson, who lives near Elsey, Mo., had been helping the sheriff during the present term of circuit court which is in session at Galena. During the morning Nelson said he noticed men going and coming from a barn near the railroad tracks at Galena. He investigated and found a half pint of liquor, he said.

'YOU OR ME'

He hid and waited for several minutes. Allen appeared and took the liquor, the deputy said. When Nelson started to arrest Allen, the latter fled to the river bottom and hid in the weeds.

The officer trailed him and finally found him. Nelson told the coroner's jury that Allen came out of the weeds and offered to submit to arrest and go to jail. But the man started to run again and the officer caught him and a fierce struggle ensued, during which, the officer stated, Allen said "It's either you or me." Nelson got on top of the officer, who tried to get his gun out of his holster and prod Allen in the side. When the man refused to surrender, Nelson shot him, the bullet hitting his spine.

No action will be taken against Nelson unless the coroner's jury should hold the officer criminally responsible. J. B. Norman, Stone county prosecutor, said last night.

Mr. Oesch was born at Bern, Switzerland, June 24, 1853, and came to America with his parents at the age of 4. The family settled near Georgetown, Ohio. As a young man he moved to Reynolds county, Mo., and in 1901 to Oregon county, where he still lived at the time of his death.

Alma Fielden Is to Marry John E. Rich

THE engagement of Miss Alma Fielden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Douglas Fielden, 715 East Page street, to Mr. John E. Rich was announced last night when Miss Mamie Gurley and Miss Ruby Northcutt entertained at the home of the latter, 724 East Page street.

The engagement was announced by a telegram being sent to one of the girls present who read the news to the rest of the party.

A unique feature which added gaiety to the party was the presenting of fortune telling favors to the guests. They consisted of tiny rolls of cardboard tied with colored ribbon. When opened they were found to contain verses which gave the fortune and also contained a lucky dime, a ring, or other symbol.

The remainder of the evening was spent playing bridge. At the close of the game the high score gift was presented Miss Flo Blevins. Miss Freda Fielden received the consolation gift and Miss Alma Fielden received a guest favor.

A pink and white color scheme was observed in the decorations and appointments and also in the refreshments which were served on the small tables following the bridge game.

Those entertained by the two hostesses were:

FUNERAL RITES FOR REV. ELLIS SET FOR SUNDAY

Mansfield to Have Charge of Services at St. Paul Church Here; Had Long Record as Minister in Ozarks Region

Funeral services for the Reverend John B. Ellis, 81, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church, South. The Reverend William H. Mansfield, pastor of the church, will have charge of the funeral services. He will be assisted by Southern Methodist ministers of the Springfield district, who also will act as pallbearers.

Had Long Record

Doctor Ellis, who for 50 years was a minister in the southwest conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, died at 9:15 p. m. Friday at his home, 1017 Market avenue, after a lingering illness. Doctor Ellis was a former president of the old Morrisville college at Morrisville and for four years was presiding elder of the Springfield district. For 10 years he had been on the superannuated list of ministers of his church.

Doctor Ellis was born in Robertson county, Tennessee, February 23, 1838. In a personal account of his life, written by a friend, he said of his early life except that his home was a humble one, not pressed for necessities. He had six brothers and two sisters.

About School Days

My first school days were spent in an old-time country school," he wrote and added that such a school is "much the best place for boys."

When I was put in the place,

"That fearful war broke out before I had attained to the age of all my school privileges. I always had a great idea about schools and education. My father, during the war and was not able to send me, but I talked and pled and he finally gave me my time. After this I studied hard, nearly four years, and taught six years.

In the meantime my health became very poor, but I measurably recovered after about four years. My religious life dates from September 15, 1867. I was appointed class leader soon after I joined the church and was licensed to preach in February, 1868. Four years afterward I was ordained deacon by Bishop Marvin at Galatin, Tenn. In the spring of 1873 came to Illinois for my health. There I had typhoid fever at my father's. I was down nine weeks. From there I went to Fair Grove, Mo. to my brother's, Doctor Ellis. My health got better and I taught two terms of school. During the summer of 1876 in July I returned to Tennessee and married Miss E. T. Matthews, daughter of Alexander Matthews of the Tennessee conference, and returned to Missouri in August.

September of the same year I joined the Southwest Missouri conference of the M. E. church, South, at Miami, Mo., and was sent to Neesho circuit.

Sent to Morrisville

My wife being employed the next fall as music teacher in Morrisville college I was sent to Morrisville station. I served this charge but one year, giving place to an old and worthy member of the conference who had long preached there. The fall of 1878 I went by appointment to Marshfield circuit, which I served two years, during which time April 19, 1880 Marshfield was almost destroyed by a cyclone. About 100 people were killed. The fall of 1880 I went sent to Springfield circuit, which I served one year, living at Ebenezer, Mo.

September, 1881, I was sent to Neesho circuit, Jackson county, Mo., which I served two years. The fall of 1883 I was sent as presiding elder to the Springfield district, which I served three years.

"The summer of 1886 I was elected president of Morrisville college for one year. Before this year expired I was collected for three years, and at the expiration of this term of three years was elected for five years. At expiration of this term of five years although requested by the board of curators to continue in such relation I declined to do so.

Sent to Lebanon

"At the conference September, 1886, I was sent to Lebanon district, where I did a hard year's work under great bodily afflictions. That was a hard district to travel. In 1897 I was sent to Springfield district, but owing to complications in the cabinet work of the conference held by Bishop Chandler, was changed at the end of the first year to Neesho district, which I served two years, removing from Morrisville in August of 1899. In June, 1900, I was elected president of Bearritt College's Institute, located at Neesho, Mo.

"As I look back over these years July 8, 1900, there are many things to regret. Furthermore, I realize that my efforts have been only poor but trust that eternity will reveal at least some measure of good accomplished. God has been good to me, given me eight children, four boys and a like number of girls, all of whom are living. My wife has been a hard-work

Married For 62 Years, Say 'Nobody's Happier'

Springfield Couple Has Named Two Kansas Towns, Homesteaded Three Tracts of Land and Resided for 35 Years in Springfield

THEIR sixty-second wedding anniversary, celebrated last week, is to Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lines, 2049 Lindell avenue, merely another milestone in a happy journey which will continue "until death do us part."

Married on October 8, 1867, the couple began an eventful life together, which has included the settling and naming of two Kansas towns, homesteading of three tracts of land, and 35 years of residence here in Springfield.

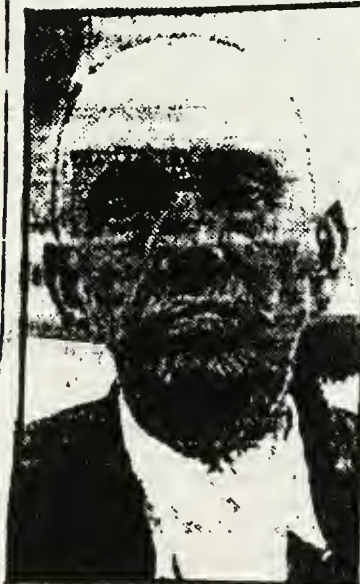

"We went through the flint mill," Mr. Lines, who is 88, declared yesterday. "We've been poor and we've stood hardships at different times during these 62 years, but we've been as happy as any two folks could be."

'NOBODY HAPPIER'

Mrs. Lines' smile bore him out, and she murmured, "Nobody happier."

Their own happy experience in matrimony has seemingly set them irrevocably against divorce. On their golden wedding anniversary, some friend laughingly remarked that "It would be funny, if after 50 years of it, you would fall out and get a divorce."

"We'll fall out many times," Mr. Lines replied, "but we'll never get a divorce." They both consider that

"We've been through the flint mill, but we've been happy all these years," John T. Lines, 88, 2049 Lindell avenue, declared on his sixty-second wedding anniversary.

...has been ready to quarrel at last than letting things work themselves out.

In the midst of the telephoned congratulations and the atmosphere of celebration which accompanied the anniversary yesterday, the old couple recalled, rather sadly, that there is only one of their wedding guests still living, M. B. Pierson, of La Fontaine, Ind., who is Mrs. Lines' brother.

"And there was a large family group there, too," Mrs. Lines pointed out. "We were married at Uncle Ben Lines—he was a preacher—and then had a big dinner at my sister's."

SETTLE KANSAS TOWN

The next day the wedding party, as was the custom in that time, assembled for an "infair," which was a

John Fulton, Jr., 22, son of a prominent Greene county farmer and a former student at Senior High school, died at 10:45 o'clock Saturday morning as the result of accidentally wounding himself shortly before while hunting near the Fulton farm, 15 miles south-east of Springfield.

Rez Campbell, 20-year-old cousin of the dead youth, was with him at the time the gun exploded. Telling of the accident early last night, Campbell said that he and young Fulton were standing in an open field near the farm house when a small bird suddenly took to the air from a clump of dead weeds nearby.

Campbell said that he shot at the bird but missed. Young Fulton called to him and told him that he would try his skill also.

AUTOMATIC GUN

As Fulton raised his gun, which is a 12-gauge repeater, Campbell said the gun fired and "kicked" out of position. The trigger, Campbell said, must have jammed as the gun shot a second time, jumping out of his cousin's hand. When the gun hit the ground it fired a third shot, sending a discharge of buck shot into Fulton's right lung. Campbell said that he was standing some 50 feet away from Fulton when he received the wound.

Seeing that a large strip of flesh was blown from his cousin's right side, Campbell took him into his arms and rushed to the farm house. The wound was bleeding rapidly, Campbell said.

A physician from Ozark was immediately summoned but he arrived too late. The boy had died a few minutes before. Dr. William Willis of Springfield was also called on the case at the time the Ozark physician was summoned but his arrival was too late also.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Both young Fulton and his father are well known in Springfield. The elder Fulton was at one time a nominee for presiding judge of this district and a candidate for sheriff at another.

John Fulton, Jr., attended Campbell school when his family resided on West Elm street several years ago. He later attended Senior High school.

The youth is survived by his mother and father and one brother and four sisters as follows: Lloyd Fulton of Rogersville, Mo.; Mrs. Karl Wheeler, of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Roy Mallonee of Springfield; Mrs. Clarence Egdahl of Schofield, Wis. and Mrs. Paul Coxan of Springfield.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete but services will probably be held under the direction of an Ozark, Mo., undertaker.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT FATAL FOR YOUTH IN TANEY COUNTY

James F. Hoyt, 16 Years Old, Dies While on Hunting Expedition; Third Fatality in Recent Days

JAMES F. HOYT, 16-year-old Taney county high school student, was accidentally killed by his own gun while on a hunting expedition at the mouth of Bull creek, near Rockaway Beach, late Tuesday afternoon.

Young Hoyt is the third youth to figure in and the second to meet death in hunting tragedies in the Ozark region during the past five days.

OUT HUNTING DUCKS

The youth, accompanied by a younger brother, Norman, 14 years of age, were hunting ducks on Bull creek. After spending some time in hiding on the creek bank waiting for their game, the youths started home in a small row boat.

The younger brother got into the boat and took charge of the oars, while James pushed the boat off the bank with the stock of his 12-gauge shotgun. The trigger of the weapon apparently was jarred forward, causing the gun to discharge and strike the boy in the heart. He died instantly.

After investigating the accident the coroner decided an inquest was necessary. The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Hoyt, of Rockaway Beach. Mr. Hoyt is employed at the Miller and Sons store there.

FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY

Funeral services will be held at the Christian church at Branson at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be made in Branson cemetery under direction Wheltzel Funeral home.

John Fulton, Jr., 22, son of a prominent Greene county farmer, died Saturday as a result of wounds received while hunting near the Fulton farm, 15 miles southeast of Springfield. The third youth to be wounded in hunting accidents in past five days was Chester Hart, 15-year-old Pipkin High school student here. He was wounded Saturday while crawling through a fence with his gun, which was accidentally discharged.

The gang with which Harbiston was working just south of Mansfield had completed laying a carload of new rail and was loading the old pieces of metal on a flat car. Harbiston, who was on the end of the "rail loader" car, was knocked to the ground when several rails fell. Both his legs were broken and he is thought to have suffered internal injuries.

The injured man was brought to Springfield on Frisco passenger train No. 104, accompanied by Doctor Fuson of Cedar Gap, but died in the Frisco division of St. John's hospital soon after arriving.

Surviving Mr. Harbiston are his wife, Mrs. Anna Harbiston, and four sons, Albert, Ben, Jeff, and C. Harbiston, all of Brandsville.

into which are often tossed things well worth while.

Dr. John H. Nixon, whose widow died recently and left a large sum of money for Burge Hospital, was the son of John Howard Nixon, who was for many years president of Lindenwood college at St. Charles, an in-many from Springfield. President Nixon was a brother-in-law of Henry Shppard, one of the pioneer business men of the city, one of the early settlers who did big things in a small town. John Howard Nixon resided here for a short time before he became president of Lindenwood. He was from a wealthy family in New Jersey and raised considerable money for the institution in the east. Dr. John H. Nixon, son, soon after he started the practice of medicine here, erected a three-story building on St. Louis street adjoining the Baldwin theater building. Both buildings were where the McDaniel building now stands. Both were destroyed by a great fire and Dr. Nixon sold the lot and located elsewhere. The Nixon building contained two store rooms on the first floor, one of which was occupied by Charles Sansone. He had a restaurant and candy store and was just beginning to do a good business. When he discovered the beginning of the fire he became so intent on helping his neighbors that he forgot about his own establishment and was somewhat surprised when he noticed the flames eating up his property. What was worse he carried no insurance and lost out completely. With no money but lots of determination he opened in a little building across the street and was soon on his feet again.

George H. Olendorf had the lease on the Baldwin and the fire threw him out of business. The owners of the lot announced that a new building would be erected and plans were published for a magnificent theater. In the fire Mr. Olendorf's desk went down in the crash. It contained contracts for many attractions. The books was removed and the desk recovered with the contracts safe and sound. As the new theater could come to no terms with Mr. Olendorf he looked as though he was out in the cold but he suddenly made public a deal he had closed with John

Landers whereby the Landers theater would be erected. When this came out it was decided not to build on the old Baldwin site as the town was not ready for two first class theaters. John Landers, in closing up the contract with Mr. Olendorf, wanted a clause which would prohibit the bringing in to the building intoxicating liquors but this was a responsibility Mr. Olendorf did not want to take and it was not insisted on. When Dr. Nixon returned to Springfield with his wife a few years ago his health seemed to be completely shattered. The change in climate did not benefit him and he died. He was a Mason and one who knew "the work."

A story from Columbia refers to the uncle of C. C. King in this way:

With the announcement by the University of Missouri Alumni association of the year's meetings scheduled in various parts of the United States, has come the usual pondering by graduates as to where old classmates are and how they have fared. To one, however, the question is easily answered. A few of any of the members of his class of 1858 remain. He is Thomas Benton King, oldest living graduate of the university.

King, the son of Austin A. King, who was governor of Missouri from 1848 to 1852, was born in Richmond, Mo., April 12, 1838, graduated at the university July 4, 1858, and practiced law at Liberty, Mo., until 1861, when the war broke up civil business. Then he entered the office of secretary of state, where he remained until the war was over. Becoming dissatisfied with the legal profession, he entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and served four years. Disagreeing with some of the doctrines of that church, he withdrew with the utmost good will and feeling to all concerned, and united with the church described in Revelation 21 in which he has remained to date.

He moved to Texas in 1873 and has resided there since, save four years spent in San Diego, Cal. He is now a counselor for home buyers in Stephenville, Erath county, Texas.

IN MEMORIUM

In memory of B. W. Yarberry. There within the silent grave lies my heart where you are laid. Winds that blow so gently by seem to weep, mourn and sigh. All my pleasures now are gone, life to me is one sad song. Birds that sing of your love for me only make me sad you see. Music that gives us such a thrill saddens me and makes me ill. Everything we enjoyed so well grieves me now more than tongue can tell. Our Heaven on earth we call our home, from which we never cared to roam, now is so sad, bleak and drear since you left me, oh, my Dear. I am waiting morn and night, longing for one precious sight. Oh, your gentle voice so dear that I always love to hear, and yet I know that can never be until we meet in eternity. Thus the days pass and I bid them adieu for I know I am one day nearer you.

Sadly missed by wife and daughter, Mrs. B. W. Yarberry and Edith Yarberry.

THE WASTEBASKET

Things which are often tossed things well worth while.

"Electric light week" is being observed all over the country. Electric light was first brought to Springfield by a circus as it was to most towns. The lights were played up as the feature of the show. The first circus to bring the great invention here showed on grounds bounded by West Walnut, South Campbell, Market and Elm. It was declared that the lights made night as bright as day and there was great curiosity, although not as much as in the large cities where the lights were originally shown because some of our much traveled citizens had seen the lights in St. Louis and knew they were marvelous and strictly as advertised. The ice had been broken here. A sample of the show advertising of the time ran this way:

The Immortal Electric Light!

The Great Inventive Triumph of the Age!

The Great Eye of the Public Dazed!

Illumined by Electricity!

Resplendent! Refulgent! Redolent!

No other show has it! The Great London is the only show that can afford it! Procured at an expenditure of $15,000! Eighteen electric light chandeliers, yielding a volume of light equal to 35,000 gas jets.

All scientists gaze in wonder at it!

All philosophers are bewitched at it!

An Age Prolific with Wonder! A Manifold Invention! The Brush Electric Light! It illuminates a Distance of Two Miles!

Dense, Dark, Dreary Night Made Bright and Beautiful!

The circus came with a portable engine and arc lights. The arc sputtered and spit and cast a blinding light in flashes as our early street lights did. While the lights were considered astounding many doubted if they were exactly as advertised. They did not make it as bright as day. It was several years after the circus before the city had electric lights on a commercial basis. Frank S. Heffernan decided to put in a plant and applied to the city council for a franchise. It was a short franchise of only about 200 words and gave him and his successors the right to run a light plant in the city. There was no limit on the duration of the franchise and it is considered perpetual. The company now operates under the Heffernan franchise. It was not necessary then for the people to vote on a franchise as now. After the franchise was granted the city council made a contract with the electric light company for street lighting and lights were put in. The city at the time was using gas lights under a contract with the gas company. The gas company brought suit against the city to prevent the use of electricity for street lighting, holding the gas company had an exclusive contract for street lighting. The case was hotly contested in the circuit court before Judge W. D. Hubbard, J. P. McCammon being city attorney. The gas company was given the decision and the electric lights, which had been installed, were cut off. This made Mr. Heffernan furious and he even made a newspaper attack on Judge Hubbard who ignored it. In a short time a compromise was made and the electric lights came back. The two companies were later consolidated.

The original electric light building on Boonville avenue has been written about often and still stands. When first operated a stream of light flared out from the building that was seen for a mile. The old arc light was first used and it sputtered and flashed much like the circus light in the beginning. The arc light gave way to the modern method about a quarter of a century ago. The first incandescent lights were on circuits and a flat rate charged, the price depending on whether one was on the early or late circuit. Lights could not be switched on and off as now. With a large plant established to furnish electricity for lighting it was only natural that the electric railway line and the lighting system be consolidated. This was finally done and all were happy until the automobile came along and put the street cars on the bum.

Miss Laker Weds

A charming marriage ceremony took place this morning at 8 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church when Miss Beatrice Laker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Laker, 1344 North Roberson avenue, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Dieterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Dieterman, 937 North Campbell avenue. The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Father Brady.

The bride wore a charming informal gown of monet blue and carried a spray bouquet of pink rose buds and lilies of the valley. Miss Corley Kannenber, the maid of honor, wore an informal frock of hunters green and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. Mr. Leonard Dennehey acted as best man. The church was decorated with art baskets of plink and white dahlias and potted ferns and other plants. Art baskets of cut flowers were placed at either side of the altar steps.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. William Jogue sang "O Promise Me," accompanied on the organ by Miss Mary Bauer. During the ceremony Miss Marguerite Varley sang "All For You" by Bertram Brown, also accompanied on the organ by Miss Mary Bauer.

About one hundred intimate friends of the young couple and members of their families were in attendance at the church during the ceremony. Following the service about forty friends and members of the two families were entertained with an informal wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. Out-of-town guests at the breakfast were Mr. Edward Wheeler of Kansas City, uncle of the bride, and Miss Rebecca Rinehardt of Fayetteville, Ark.

JAMES TAYLOR JACOBSON

James Taylor Jacobson, two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jacobson, died Saturday evening at about 4 o'clock. Funeral services will be at the parents' home on route 6, about three miles north of Springfield, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be at Republic. The baby is survived by, besides her parents, a sister, Helen, 7 and a brother, Leonard, one year old. The Thorne funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Della LeBolt, 504 East Elm street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Esther Carlyne, to Mr. Newton Marshall Rountree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Rountree, 308 South Main avenue.

MRS. D. B. SAVAGE, 87 year old, was "at home" to her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren—55 in all—all day Saturday in her small cottage on the farm of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Webb, on the Battlefield road.

Mrs. Charles Thompson, of Barboursville, W. Va., made the long trip to be present at her grandmother's birthday celebration. Mrs. R. L. Hildt, the eldest daughter, arrived from St. Louis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Church. Mrs. Walter Henderson and two children, of Warsaw, Mo., were also expected to arrive.

These, with the large group of relatives here in Springfield, were guests at the celebration.

Mrs. Savage has lived in Springfield since 1870, watching the town grow from the time there were only two houses on the north side and only one-story building on the square. She arrived in a covered wagon, after coming on the train from Highland, Ill., to Lebanon.

Her children who still live here in Springfield are Lee Savage, Mrs. W. S. Dryden, Mrs. Spencer Rhodes, Mrs. Charles Webb, and Mrs. R. S.

Hill.

For the past few years she has lived alone in a small home near that of her daughter, keeping her own garden, raising chickens, even preserving fruit in great quantities.

She is well known for her fine sense of humor, and her great vitality, and was quite enthusiastic about the celebration of her birthday. "I'm going to make all the coffee," she declared.

Fielden, 715 East Page street, became the bride of Mr. John Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rich of this city. The bride wore a lovely dress of ivory crepe Romaine, princess style, and carried a shower bouquet of pink rose buds and baby breath. Miss Frede Fielden, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore an informal frock of flesh taffeta. Mr. B. H. Rich, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The rooms were profusely decorated with cut flowers in large art baskets, and an improvised altar in the living room was banked with shell pink and yellow dahlias and ferns. Presiding the ceremony, Miss Eleanor Bridwell sang, "At Dawning," by Cadmen, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Martha Jettberg. Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs.

Jettberg played "Humoresque," by Dvorak.

WOMAN, 52, HERE TAKES GAS ROUTE TO SUICIDE DEATH

Miss Julia Chinn Found on Floor of Small Apartment
With Every Jet in Gas Cook
Stove Open

WITH every jet in a gas cook stove wide open, the body of Miss Julia C. Chinn, 52, was found on the floor of her small apartment at 933 West Walnut street just after 6 o'clock last night. Apparently she had been seated in a chair before a small table and had slumped to the floor when overcome by the gas. She was fully dressed.

The body was found by Mrs. Lee Marsh, who with her husband, occupy another apartment on the second floor of the large house. Miss Chinn had been in failing health for several months and Mrs. Marsh was preparing to take in a tray of food for her dinner. How long the woman had been dead could not be determined but it was thought not for many minutes.

Despondency over her continued ill health was thought to have been the woman's motive in taking her own life.

H. R. Awbrey, justice of the peace, who acted as coroner in the absence of Dr. Murray C. Stone from the city on a business trip, declared the case one of suicide and decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

Miss Chinn had lived at the same address for several years, much of which time she was in poor health.

She is survived by two brothers and two sisters, J. B. Chinn, W. C. Chinn and Mrs. W. E. Folsom, all of Springfield, and Mrs. May Hibbard of Chicago.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night but the body was being prepared for burial by the J. W. Kilgner Undertaking company.

SUPREME COURT RETURNS APPEAL ON OWEN ESTATE

Uphold Decision of Greene County Court Which Upheld
Will of Mrs. Sarah R. Owen
In July, 1926

DECISION of the Greene county circuit court in July, 1926, upholding the will of Mrs. Sarah R. Owen, who died December 24, 1925, was sustained with the filing today of a mandate from the Missouri supreme court dismissing an appeal from the judgment here.

The original suit was filed by Felix G. Owen, Mary E. Bryan, and Lucy O. McCammon, executors of the estate, to obtain a court interpretation of the will. A trust was created by the will, consisting of approximately $100,000 personal property and more than 30 lots in the north part of the city in the vicinity of the Jarrett junior high school.

EXECUTORS TRUSTEES

Executors of the will were made trustees of the estate by the will, and in the case of their death before the end of 30 years, the duration of the trust, successors were to be appointed by the court. At the end of the trust period, the estate is to be divided among Mrs. Owen's "bodily" heirs.

CAMPBELL HEIRS

Land involved in the will included much that had been owned by John P. Campbell, one of the founders of Springfield in 1830. Mrs. Sarah R. Owen was a daughter of John P. Campbell. Heirs of the estate, besides the three executors, are John P. McCammon Jr., Elizabeth R. McCammon Sather, Owen McCammon, Jack McCammon Jr., and William McCammon, the latter five being the "heirs" of Mrs. McCammon, as decided by the court.

R. A. OLLIS is a father who has the pleasant position of being associated in business with three sons.

Mr. Ollis has been in the real estate business in Springfield more than 40 years and his sons are following varied phases of the same work. He first was associated with his brothers, A. W. and Charles T. Ollis, in a real estate, insurance and loan company established as A. W. Ollis and company near the present site of his office on Commercial street.

After his two brothers died Mr. Ollis took the business over and it became R. A. Ollis and company. His son Fletcher became associated with the concern after he had returned from service overseas during the World war. Alfred finished Missouri university and in 1921 also became interested in the business.

Mr. Ollis, Sr., also is president of the Greene County Building and Loan association, and his son, Alfred Lawrence, is bookkeeper for that institution. He has attended Drury college and Missouri university.

The father and three sons have similar interests and tastes. They enjoy the same sports and recreations. They all are members of the Commercial club and of St. John's Episcopal church. All except Lawrence are members of the Masonic order.

Just now Mr. Ollis is much interested in the progress being made by the four-story 90-room hotel which is being erected on Commercial street by the Greene County Building and Loan association. The association and the R. A. Ollis and company real estate office will have quarters on the first floor of that building when it is completed. The hotel is to be known as the Green tavern and will be modern in every particular. The new offices of the two companies with which Mr. Ollis is associated will have two of the largest fireproof vaults in the city. These will be 12 by 24 feet.

Mr. Ollis has seen a marvelous development in the real estate business in Springfield. He believes his sons have chosen wisely to enter a career which is closely related to the great future he foresees for this city. The demand for property here is improving, he says. More than that, he predicts that it will continue to improve.

JUDGE JOHN G. NEWBILL: "I recall Sample Orr but being only a boy when he left here and located in Montana where he died my memory is not entirely clear. He was a tall, sharp featured man, not inclined to be sociable. He had three sons, Lucian, Solon and Henry. One of the boys graduated at West Point and was sent to Florida by the army. He soon died of yellow fever. The other two boys went to Montana with their father. This was just as the war was starting. Orr ran for congress against Governor Phelps and also against Governor Clab Jackson. He was never elected to office that I can recall. He resided on a farm four miles west of Springfield near the Mount Vernon road. He married a sister of Grundy Dolison, a lane settled for one of our leading streets."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Towe, 696 West Turner street, announced the birth of a son, born October 26, 1929.

Miss Gladys Taylor, 516 Chicago street and Robert A. Garrett, of Stockton, were married Thursday at Bolivar by the Reverend E. W. Arm-

Charles H. McAfee died the other day and a name which has long been associated with Springfield's history disappears. Charles H. McAfee, the father, died several years ago. The son was an invalid all his life and was never able to go into business to any great extent. Judge C. B. McAfee was a robust man of great force of character, positive convictions and always fearless. When judge of the criminal court, he never hesitated to denounce crime in high places and never trimmed or wavered. Scarcely a man like that served but one term. He was a Union soldier in the Civil war, fought like a tiger, was uncompromising to the end but was through at the end. He was liberal and charitable to a fallen foe and at the close of the war became a democrat when self interest dictated a different course. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875 and helped to write the present state constitution. The close of the war found Capt. McAfee in Springfield when Wild Bill was cutting papers and terrorizing people right and left. This did not go well with the captain and when Wild Bill shot down Dave Tutt in the public square Captain McAfee prosecuted Bill with great vigor. But Tutt was of the south and that was not popular here then and, moreover, he was armed when killed and self defense was made the issue. Bill was discharged at the preliminary and that was the last of the case.

Captain McAfee was around Springfield for some time before he knew Bill and this led to an incident. One day Captain McAfee was playing billiards and Bill walked up to the table and put one of the ivory balls into his pocket. This caused the captain to haul out Bill and order him to replace the ball at once. Bill did so and left the room. Someone asked the captain if he knew the man he had clashed with and he said he did not. When told it was Wild Bill the captain expressed surprise and said he was sorry over the matter as he was not looking for trouble. He avoided Bill for a day or so but would have gone to the bat if necessary.

Bill was defended at the preliminary examination by Gov. John S. Phelps but he had not yet reached the high office of chief executive. McAfee and Phelps formed a partnership in a law firm with B. U. Massey as a member. For some time the firm of Massey, McAfee & Phelps was a power in this section. When Phelps was elected governor in 1876 Massey was made secretary to the governor which he held until the governor completed his term. Then Massey returned to Springfield and the firm became Massey & McAfee.

Firemen Find Grim Evidence Of Boys' Desperate Effort To Escape Leaping Flames

One Lad Found Huddled In Closet, Other At Foot of Charred Stairs; Parents, Downtown, Beckoned by Spectacle of The Blaze From Alar

TWO Springfield school boys were burned to death last night in a fire which raced through their home at 1947, North Douglas avenue and trapped them in their second-story bedroom.

The victims, whose bodies were burned beyond recognition, were Phillip, 11, and Jack, 7, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Wells, who moved to Springfield a month ago from Adams, Ill.

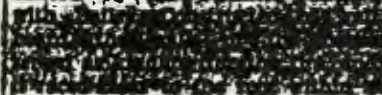

The boys were asleep in their upstairs bedroom when their parents and a friend, Harold Bailey, left the house a few minutes after 9 o'clock for a hurried trip to the business district. Half an hour later, as they drove north on Boonville avenue, the parents noticed a flame in the sky to the north. It was the funeral pyre of their children. The rented home was a charred hulk when the parents arrived, and Phillip and Jack were dead.

ONE BODY IN CLOSET

Firemen entered the house and found the bodies soon after their first futile stand against the blaze. His hands thrown up as if to shield his face from the flames which swept over him, Jack was found at the foot of the stairway.

Apparently the boy had been roused by smoke and fire, taken the only avenue of escape and plunged into the heart of the blaze. His brother's body was in a closet upstairs, where fear had driven him.

The fire apparently started in the kitchen, where a large range had been left burning when the parents started to the business district.

The father of the boys is an employe of the Harrison Engineering company, as is Bailey, who roomed with the Wells since they came to Springfield. They had been at work upon a state highway project near the city.

Shaking and crying but fighting grimly to control his emotions and comfort his hysterical wife, Wells told Dr. Murray Stone, Greene county coroner, what he knew of the facts preceding the fire and its fearful tragedy.

A slender, well-dressed man with a sensitive face, he told of seeing the boys asleep together a moment before he and his wife turned off the house lights shortly after 9 o'clock and went with Bailey to the Square.

Bailey had brought home a pair of bedroom slippers as a birthday gift to Mrs. Wells earlier in the evening, and they were going to the business district to obtain a different size. They found the store closed, and started back home after "window shopping" for a few minutes. Mr. Wells believes they were not away from home much more than half an hour.

PARENTS ARE DAZED

Mr. Wells and his wife surrounded by a few stunned friends who tried pathetically to comfort them, talked to Doctor Stone an hour at the home of their neighbor, Mrs. Crow. The coroner broke to them as gently as possible, the grim news of what he had found when Fire Chief W. R. Price summoned him and he entered the ruins of the home.

"My God," moaned the young father, "little Jack almost fought his way out! Oh—if we had one of them left, only one! But Blanche, there's nothing left now—"

Blanche Wells, his wife, her face red and swollen with weeping, rocked aimlessly as she cried softly in a chair across the table from him. There was nothing the coroner could say to help them, nothing anyone could say. Philip Jack were their only children. Their pictures, the toys and boyish trinkets which might have made their memory more bright and clear, perished in the house with them.

All of the home's furnishings were destroyed by the fire. Mrs. Josephine Chance, who owns the house and lives nearby, said her loss would be protected partially by insurance.

In their first hysterical grief the parents insisted upon going to the W. L. Starne funeral home where the bodies were taken, and warning them, but Doctor Stone persuaded them not to torture themselves with such a memory of their children, and they will not see the charred remains.

Mr. Wells said that "Rosie," a negro maid who had been employed at the home and who had watched over the children to some extent, had been ill for several days and had not come to the home since Wednesday.

It had not been unusual for the house to be left alone in the home.

DIVORCE IS SET ASIDE AFTER MAN REMARRIES

Although testimony was given that he had remarried, the divorce decree of George B. Hasler from Maude E. Hasler, granted September 23, was set aside Saturday by Circuit Judge Warren L. White.

Mrs. Hasler charged that she had been led to believe the divorce action was withdrawn, and therefore failed to contest it. She said that Hasler returned home after he filed the petition, and she thought the action had been dismissed. The decree was granted by default. Mrs. Hasler testified that her husband married another woman one week after the divorce was granted.

Evidence was also presented that there had been a reconciliation between Hasler and his wife between the time the petition for divorce was filed and the decree was granted. Judge White then sustained the motion to set the decree aside.

Hasler was issued a marriage license on September 28, to marry Jessie Graham of this city. However, this marriage was automatically annulled when the divorce decree was set aside today.

TO BURY TWO BOYS, VICTIMS OF FIRE, AT ILLINOIS HOME

Investigation Shows That Overheated Kitchen Stove Caused Fire Which Took Lives of Children

CHARRED beyond recognition by the fire which took their lives and destroyed their home Saturday night, the bodies of Phillip and Jack Wells, 7 and 7 years old respectively, will be sent late tonight from the Starns mortuary to Maquon, Ill., for burial.

The grief stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Wells, who came to Springfield only a month ago from Adams, Ill., yesterday were preparing to accompany the bodies of their only children who perished when trapped by flames in the house at 1947 North Douglas avenue.

HOLD NO INQUEST

No inquest will be held in the two deaths, Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, decided yesterday after he and Fire Chief W. R. Price had completed an investigation of the blaze.

"There is no doubt but that the fire started from an overheated kitchen stove," Chief Price said yesterday. "The stove was located near the beaver board wall and the blaze apparently started there. I learned today that there was no plaster in the entire house—only building board, which burns rapidly once it catches fire."

Mrs. E. G. Crow, 1951 North Douglas avenue, the next door neighbor who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm, yesterday said that the flames had gained much headway when she first saw them and that the heat had blown out the rear windows of the home.

Mrs. Josephine B. Chance, owner of the house, had made her home there prior to renting it to the Wells family several weeks ago. Mr. Wells is an employe of the Harrison Engineering company.

The two boys were left asleep in an upstairs bedroom about 9 o'clock Saturday night when the parents and Harold Bailey, who roomed with them, made a hurried trip to the business district to exchange a pair of bedroom slippers for a different size. When they returned they found their home nearly destroyed. The bodies of the children had been taken to the mortuary after firemen removed them from the building.

The younger boy was found at the foot of the stairway where he evidently had plunged into the heart of the blaze in his run toward safety. His brother's body was found in an upstairs closet where he had taken refuge.

FIRE VICTIMS' BODIES ARE SENT TO ILLINOIS

The bodies of Phillip and Jack Wells, burned beyond recognition by the fire which destroyed their home and took their lives Saturday night, will be sent at 12:35 o'clock tonight from the Starne mortuary to their former home in Illinois for burial.

Preparations were being made yesterday by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Wells, who came to Springfield only a month ago from Adams, Ill., to accompany the bodies of their only children, who were trapped in the house at 1047 Douglas avenue when it was leavelled by flames.

Kitchen Stove Is Blame
Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, decided yesterday that no inquest would be held in the two deaths after he and Fire Chief W. R. Price had completed an investigation of the fire.

Chief Price said there was no doubt but that the fire was caused by an over-heated kitchen stove. He also pointed out that there was no plaster in the entire house.

Neighbor Tells Story

Mrs. B. G. Crow, next door neighbor, who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm, said the flames had gained much headway when she first discovered the fire and that the heat had broken out the rear window of the home.

Mrs. Josephine B. Chance, owner of the house, had lived there prior to renting it to the Wells family. Mr. Wells is an employee of the Harston engineering company.

These pictures show how Phillip and Jack Wells, 11 and 7-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Wells, 1047 North Douglas avenue, were burned to death Sunday morning in the fire that destroyed their home. Upper picture shows rear blackened timbers remaining. Lower picture shows two playmates of the victims pointing out just where their little friends were sleeping on a mattress when the fire broke out. They are John Burnam, 1861 Boonville avenue, and Wilbur Gardner, 1931 North Douglas avenue.

Quite an interesting story to the Springfieldians of a later day comes out of Oklahoma City. It concerns the sons of the late G. A. Ramsey. Walter R. and W. E. Ramsey, president and vice president, respectively, and principal stockholders of Ramsey Petroleum corporation, have just made the fourth oil sale for more than a million dollars. Since December, 1928, they have completed four big deals totaling about 10 million dollars.

The Ramseys have spent the last 15 years in oil, entering the business from banking in Ardmore and Gainesville, Texas. They made good as bankers.

The Ramseys prefer to play an area before the first strike is made. They have followed this rule and find it profitable to sell out early or while the pool is being developed.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company, subsidiary of Ohio Oil company, has given them more than five million dollars in cash and promises to give them three million dollars in oil to be produced from lands it has bought of the brothers.

The Mid-Kansas bought a 291-acre lease from them early in the year, and the Fortson lease, in the west half of the northeast quarter of section 21-11-3w, north of the discovery 160 acres in the Oklahoma City field has already proven that the Mid-Kansas made a good buy. It cost around two million dollars.

The Ramseys have not quit, but still have 30,000 acres of leases in the Oklahoma City area, and W. R. Ramsey forecasts the opening of new oil pools in the future on the Ramsey acreage.

W. R. Ramsey was in Springfield about two months ago and called on many of his old time friends. He said he was doing very well in Oklahoma and was interested in some legal control of oil in order to conserve it and to steady the price.

G. A. Ramsey, father of the two young men, was for years a business man on Commercial street but did not make a large fortune. The boys were given fatherly care, a good education but had to make their way in business which they have more than done. G. A. Ramsey was about a quarter of a century ago secretary of the Springfield club, which has since passed out of existence.

While here this summer young Mr. Ramsey told of meeting Henry L. Doherty in San Francisco. Mr.

Doherty was in a hotel and excluded visitors on the doctor's orders only recently having been released from a hospital. The doctor protested when Mr. Ramsey was admitted. Mr. Ramsey said Doherty was greatly interested in the Ozarks and Springfield and asked many questions about this section.

Her brother, Tom Holmes, is plant foreman of the Queen City Dairy here.

Mrs. Iadinski was in Springfield about three weeks ago with Mrs. Paul Vehling of Kansas City, who has a summer home in Camden county, and with Mrs. George Brown, 18-year-old girl who was making her first visit to a city.

TRAIN-AUTO CRASH RESULTS IN DEATH OF DAIRY FARMER

Fracture of Skull Received in Crash at Emmet, Mo., Results Fatally for Floyd Clarkson

A severe fracture of the skull suffered at 8:50 o'clock yesterday morning at Emmet, Mo., when a Frisco local train, No. 142, and the milk truck he was driving collided, caused the death of Floyd Clarkson, 40, Lawrenceburg dairyman, at 7:35 o'clock last night in St. John's hospital. The entire top of his head crushed. Mr. Clarkson had been unconscious since the grade crossing collision.

A light rain was falling at the time of the accident, according to a report received at the general office building here by Claude P. King, assistant to the general manager, and it was thought probable that Mr. Clarkson's vision was obscured by the moisture on his windshield.

TAKEN TO EVERTON

The truck he was driving was thrown from the path of the train, which was headed east. The train crew picked up the injured man and took him back several miles to Everton, where he was given emergency treatment by Dr. W. R. Riley. He then was brought to Springfield in a Barker and Wheeler ambulance.

Frisco physicians did everything possible to aid Mr. Clarkson in his fight for life, but feared from the first that his injuries were too severe to allow him more than a very slender chance of surviving.

HAS FIVE CHILDREN

The body was taken in charge by the Barker and Wheeler Undertaking company of Everton, but funeral arrangements had not been completed last night. Mr. Clarkson is survived by his wife and five children.

Clarkson was said to have been driving to Springfield with milk that he had gathered from farmers in the region where the accident occurred. Trainmen said they had seen the truck approaching but thought it had stopped at the grade crossing.

HONOR THREE

OZARKS SOLDIERS

THE Ozarks region furnished more than its proportionate share of World war heroes, according to a report issued on the congressional medals of honor awarded for bravery and courageous deeds.

Missouri also on the basis of its share as one of the 48 states and on the ratio of its population to that of the entire United States, had more than its share of heroes.

Of the 90 awards of the congressional medal of honor, 62 were made to living heroes, and 28 to those who gave their lives to their country. Of the latter, one is the Unknown Soldier. There are, therefore, only 89 names on the scroll of honor. Eight of the medal of honor men were born in Missouri, three of them in the Ozarks region.

The Ozarkians who were awarded medals were:

Private Charles D. Barger, Company L, 854th Infantry, 89th Division, born in Mount Vernon.

Corp. Harold L. Turner, Company F, 142d Infantry, 86th Division, born in Aurora.

Sergt. M. Waldo Hatter, Company B, 156th Infantry, 80th Division, born in Bolivar.

The other Missourians to whom medals were given were:

DRIVER LOSES LIFE

Efforts to Revive James Lester Unsuccessful; Pair Enroute to Cotton Fields in Arkansas

LOosing control of his automobile at a ferry landing on White river near Newport in the Arkansas Ozarks yesterday cost the life of James Lester, 56, who was drowned when the machine plunged into the water. The man had been in the river 23 minutes when he and the automobile were pulled out together and efforts to revive him were futile.

Mr. Lester, whose home was at Vandercoort, Polk county, accompanied by F. F. Lambert, aged 54, arrived at the Newport ferry at noon, driving an old Ford sedan. They were on their way to Paragould to pick cotton.

When the ferry landed on the east side of the river, two cars ahead of the Lester machine stalled on the steep, slippery embankment and stopped. Mr. Lester brought his car to a stop about 30 feet from the boat, and Mr. Lambert got out to push. Mr. Lester lost control of the car and it backed against the upper railing of the boat and turned over into the river.

DERRICK IS USED

A boat equipped with a derrick and operated by the Missouri Valley Bridge and Iron company was rushed to the scene and succeeded in lifting the car to the bank. Lester still was in the car. A pulmotor was brought to the scene and several minutes were spent pumping oxygen into the lungs.

The body is at a Newport undertaking parlor, pending advice from relatives.

Lambert said Lester had been married, but separated from his wife four years ago, and she lives in Texas. One son is in the navy. Lambert said there was nothing to identify relatives except a letter from a woman at Fort Worth, Texas. Lambert said she is a friend of Lester, and will be able to tell about his family connections.

Lambert said Lester had lived in Polk county several years and was a tenant farmer there.

HOLLISTER DAY BY DAY

By William H. Johnson

HOLLISTER—Frost has nipped the valleys, but, not the hills. Gobblers Knob is still a riot of blossom. A cemetery, overgrown with blue-stem grass and purple asters, crowns this ancient landmark, wherein are gathered the forefathers of a country-side. From among the tombs of men and women who, during a century, have fashioned Taney county's history, one may gaze onto a lovely rural landscape. Coon creek valley and the famous Snap Halds to the east beyond Kirbyville form a colorful horizon. To the west, a rolling farmland extends to Turkey creek and the high ranges that form the watershed dividing that drainage from Long creek. A restful spot wherein pioneers may slumber.

Among the various imposing shafts that are had selected and money purchased, one small home-made slab interested my interest. It was made of cement, the inscription and ornamentation fashioned in colored gravel prest into its surface—small pebbles selected with evident pains and of various hues—blue, green, red, yellow and shades thereof, banded, laminated and mottled. Name, date and scrolls were worked out with crude art and, no doubt, by loving hands. Surrounded by many stately and expensive monuments this small illuminated marker is surprisingly outstanding.

SHE RUNS FROM HOUSE; NEIGHBORS TREAT WOUND

Husband Is Found Dead on Bed When Friends Enter Home After Tragedy in Barry County

HEARING that his young wife had been seriously wounded when his 38-calibre revolver suddenly discharged, H. M. Graham, 43-year-old Exeter, Mo., restaurant operator, early last night turned the gun on himself and committed suicide.

Graham is a nephew of Dr. Charles Mayo and Dr. Graham, associate of Dr. Mayo, of the Mayo Brothers, admits at Rochester, Minn.

The tragedy took place at the Graham home at Exeter about 8:30 o'clock last night. Graham, who was lying on a bed, called his wife, who was working in the kitchen, to come to him. As she started to take a seat beside him, the gun, which apparently he had been handling, accidentally went off. The bullet entered the woman's right foot.

RUNS FROM HOUSE

The wife, frightened by the noise and the pain, ran screaming to the house of a neighbor, a physician who lives in the neighborhood. When friends went to the house, found the husband lying across the bed with a bullet wound in the temple. He died about an hour and a half later.

Mrs. Graham, when questioned by the Barry county coroner last night, declared that she believed her husband had believed she had been seriously wounded and for that reason took his own life. She said she did not believe he had intended to shoot her or himself.

BELIEVE SUICIDE PLANNED

Friends were inclined to believe, however, that Graham might have been contemplating taking his own life. They said he had suffered financial reverses recently and that he was in poor health.

Investigation revealed that earlier in the day Graham had called a friend to come to his home and repair his gun. The friend did not get around to it, it was learned.

Mrs. Graham was about 18 years her husband's junior. They had been married about three years. Friends said the couple had gotten along all right and there had been no indication of family trouble.

Mrs. Graham held her husband blameless for the shot which pierced her foot. She said she did not see the gun when she took a seat on the bed.

The coroner will continue his investigation today and probably will hold an inquest.

Graham was a veteran of the World war and was a member of the American Legion.

Although suffering from grievous internal injuries, the injured man made a brave fight for his life and it was not until 10 o'clock Wednesday night that he became unconscious. The body was taken to Greenfield for funeral services and burial by an undertaker of that city.

THE father and son who form the partnership that is W. A. Reed and Son Drug company at the corner of Benton avenue and Commercial street have had a prominent part in making the history of Springfield.

W. A. Reed has been in business at the same site 57 years. No other man in Springfield has been in business at one place that long. His business building was the first brick structure erected on Commercial street. It was built in 1870 for a drug store by Dr. E. T. Robberson, prominent pioneer physician of Springfield. The structure is two stories high and has a full basement—a type of building that was outstanding at the time it was erected.

It was from the corner on which this building stands that North Springfield grew. The old Ozark hotel, a distinguished hostelry in its day, stood across the street on Benton avenue. The old passenger station of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad the first built into this city, was back of the drug store building.

Veteran of School Board

Mr. Reed came to Springfield by chance. He had been living in Fayetteville, Ark., and went to Clinton, Mo., to work in a drug store. While making the return trip home on a visit he stopped overnight in Springfield. He stayed in the Ozark hotel and the next morning he chanced to go over to the Robberson drug store across the way, fell into conversation with Doctor Robberson and was employed. Soon the firm became the Robberson and Reed Drug company. Later J. R. Barrett, Mr. Reed's brother-in-law, became a partner in the business and it was Reed and Barrett Drug company. In May, 1901, Mr. Reed's son, W. E. Reed, bought Mr. Barrett's share of the business and since then it has been known as the W. A. Reed and Son company.

W. A. Reed served for many years as a member of the Springfield school board. In tribute to this service the Reed Junior High school, one of the newer buildings of the city school system, has been named for him. Mr. Reed was a member of the school board at the time the land was purchased for the Springfield Senior High school. W. E. Reed was a member of the first freshman class to enter the new high school building in January, 1894. He recalls now that the unit of the building then was only one-third of the present crowded structure yet the students found as they entered they had more room than they could possibly use. They had formerly been housed on the third floor of the Central school building which occupied the present site of the Frisco office building.

Both live in Atlanta.

W. E. Reed attended the Senior High school and then went to the St. Louis College of Pharmacy. He has been working in his father's drug store throughout his school days here and when he was graduated from the St. Louis college he returned to take up full time work in the store. Like his father, Mr. Reed, Jr., has taken an active interest in the growth of Springfield.

The father and son are both members of the Commercial club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Gate of the Temple Masonic lodge and the Campbell Avenue Methodist church.

RREAL Ozarks pioneers are W. P. "Uncle Perry" Watson and his wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Watson, and they have dispelled the belief of many tourists that the typical Ozarker does not keep in touch with what is going on outside his own immediate neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson were married July 10, 1864, have made their home in Pulaski county since 1874. They live on a farm near Hazlegreen, well known resort on the Gasconade river. From their door they can see the daily parade of traffic along U. S. highway 66 and a motorist in trouble may depend upon them to help him any way possible.

Although at an age when most persons seek easy chairs and corners by the fire. They follow closely the same things that interest younger men and women. Daily papers keep them informed on the doings of the day.

Uncle Perry served four years, two months and two days with the union army in the Civil war, and in 23 battles, was wounded twice. He was with General Sherman on his march to the sea and agrees fully with his former commander's much quoted remark about war.

The church was decorated with a profusion of ferns, palms and yellow chrysanthemums. Yellow cathedral candles burned at either side of the chancel.

The marriage vows were read by the Rev. Dr. Lewis R. Anschutz. The single ring ceremony was used.

Preceding the ceremony Glen Stambach played an organ solo, Nevin's "Venetian Love Song," which was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Clell Adams who sang "One Alone," accompanied by Mr. Stambach. The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. They were preceded down the aisle by Mrs. John F. Cox, maid of honor. Both the bride and Mrs. Cox carried prayer books. They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Charles Rodman. Mr. Louis Meyer and Mr. John F. Cox were ushers.

Mr. Stambach played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) for the processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" for the recessional. He played "Liebestraum" while the vows were exchanged.

The bride wore an attractive ensemble of wine colored tweed with a three-quarter length coat. Her hat was brown sotel and she wore brown suede pumps. Mrs. Cox wore a brown ensemble with matching accessories.

Mrs. Robertson was attractive in a black satin gown with lace collar and a small black velvet hat. Mrs. Chegwiddden wore a dark green satin dress with a small black hat.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included the bridegroom's parents and his sister, Mrs. Lewis C. Corey and Mr. Corey of Tulsa.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chegwiddden left for Chicago where they will make their future home. Mr. Chegwiddden formerly lived in Springfield, but has been in Chicago the past two years.

The bride is well known in Springfield where she has a host of friends. She is a graduate of Ellindale St. de Chantel academy and of Drury college, where she was a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. She has been honored with numerous pre-nuptial parties since the announcement of her engagement in the early fall.

Walking Back Into Home. Sits Down for Moment and Then Expires

A home-made gun, exploding as the barrel fell and struck a rock, killed Raymond Ward, 13, at his home three miles northeast of Springfield at 7 o'clock this morning. The bullet entered his abdomen and continued upward, penetrating almost exactly through the center of his heart. It was removed from between the first and second ribs in a post-mortem operation by the surgeon, Dr. Murray C. Smith.

As he stepped from the porch, the jar caused the barrel to break loose from the stock. It fell and hit a rock, and the old-fashioned summer was jarred into action.

Walks Back Into House

The boy's mother, watching, saw the boy fall to the ground. He immediately got up, however, and walked into the house. He sat down in a chair and said, "Mama, I believe this gun backfired." Members of the family believed that the boy had been hit on the rebound and was only slightly powder burned. He sat two or three minutes before he tumbled over, slumping down on the arm of the chair. He was immediately placed on the bed, but by the time his clothes were removed to reveal the bullet hole in his body he was dead.

Funeral services, to be in charge of J. W. Klingner, are incomplete.

BURY GUN VICTIM THIS AFTERNOON

Youth Killed When Home-Made Weapon Is Accidentally Discharged

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ward, who live on a farm three miles northeast of Springfield on a road which leads off from highway 66. He is survived by four brothers. He attended the Grand View school.

Starting out yesterday morning to look at some rabbit traps he had set on the farm, the boy took his gun. As he stepped from the porch the barrel broke loose from the stock and was discharged when it struck the ground.

Gun Backfired.

Mrs. Ward saw her son fall to the ground but was reassured when he immediately got up and walked into the house. Sitting down in a chair, he said, "Mamma, I believe this gun backfired."

At the moment other members of the family did not think him badly hurt but in two or three minutes he slumped down over the arm of the chair. He was removed to a bed but soon died.

The Tulsa World has an interesting story about Robert L. Doling, former Springfield man, who is well known in this city being a brother of R. S. Doling, who runs a large orchard in Christian county near Marionville. The World says:

Fresh figs in October is the excellent fruit which Robert L. Doling, tree and plant expert is providing for his friends and neighbors.

Doling's fig tree, one of the three said to be in Tulsa, has been bearing fruit since August and is about three years old. He originally obtained his plant in Mississippi and after careful attention has developed the tree to its present state of productivity.

At present there are more than 200 figs on the tree. The fig tree, which thrives in tropical climate, is a rare thing in this state.

Doling, who is now with the Mid-continent Petroleum corporation, has made trees and flowers a life-time hobby. For several years he was manager of Doling park at Springfield, Mo., recently bought by that city for $85,000 and converted into a public work. Several publications have mentioned Doling as an authority on flower life.

...among the large concerns of Springfield in which a father and son are associated in business is the L. E. Lines Music company.

L. E. Lines, president, and his son Morton Lines, vice-president, have been business associates for about 25 years.

L. E. Lines originated the business, developing it from an agency for sewing machines and later old-fashioned organs into a musical concern doing business throughout the Springfield region. He began his career in 1874. He continued his work with success in Bentonville, Ark., Eureka Springs, Ark., and Pelee City, Mo., then came to Springfield in 1900.

Even in his boyhood days Morton Lines took an interest in the business which his father was building up. He worked in the store while attending school, sold musical instruments, helped deliver pianos here, which at that time consisted principally of piano sales, his son established the Morton Lines Music shop in connection with it. This shop includes the sheet music and stringed instrument departments.

The concern has grown from its original organ agency to a large musical house selling pianos, radios, phonographs and all other modern types of instruments. The company was incorporated in 1913 as the L. E. Lines Music company, with Mr. Lines, Sr., the president and his son the vice-president.

In his early work with the company Morton Lines spent considerable time as traveling salesman. At that time he joined the T. P. A. and continues to hold membership in the organization. L. E. Lines is a member of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Springfield Man Among Claimants To Great Estate

John R. Smelser, 217 West Walnut street, is one of 260 claimants in the United States and England for the $50,000,000 Jennings estate, which has been held in chancery courts of England since the death of William Jennings, Suffolk county, in 1788.

Mr. Smelser yesterday received a report from Attorney Alton L. Jordan of Norfolk, Va., chief adviser for American claimants, that settlement will be made sometime within the next six months. Attorney Duncan Lee and Leonard May, members of the British Bar association, are assisting in the case.

In view of the English law which declares that no lapse of time will bar next-of-kin to personal estate unless specifically bequeathed, the estate, which consists of money, stocks and bonds will be divided among claimants who can prove relationship.

Mr. Smelser's claim is based on the fact that his grandmother, Charity Jennings, of Grayson county, Virginia, traced her line back to Humphrey Jennings of Warwick, England, who died in 1690 and who was a great-great-grandfather of the William Jennings whose estate is in question. In view of the fact that Jennings was a bachelor and an only child, lines must be traced to his ancestors.

In the cloudless realms of day,
Who are calling me to follow
Where their steps have led the way;
They have laid aside their armor,
And their earthly course is run;
They have kept the faith with patience
And the crown of life is won.

They have laid aside their armor,
For the robe of spotless white;
And with Jesus they are walking

We have labored here together,
We have labored side by side,
Just a little while before me
They have crossed the rolling tide.

Mrs. Swayne

The history of the forefathers of Mrs. Fannie Swayne, 874 South avenue, has been pronounced as among the most interesting ever filed with the American Daughters of the Revolution. Mrs. Swayne recently received a letter from that organization's national office enthusiastically commenting upon the data that has been compiled about her family.

Mrs. Swayne will be 90 years of age in March. She is the granddaughter of a Revolutionary soldier, John Hutt, who built the first brick house in Chillicothe, Mo. Her mother, Mrs. Kate Hutt Robinson, is buried in Kansas City and was honored by the Daughters of the American Revolution who dedicated a memorial at her grave because she was a daughter of a Revolutionary soldier.

Mrs. Swayne has lived in Springfield since 1890 and is one of the oldest members of the Grace Methodist church.

Shot by Young Brother, Boy, 5, is Fatally Hurt

10 Drops Rifle While Taking Weapon to Father and Bullet Passes Through Child's Head; Fails To Regain Consciousness

A SMALL calibre rifle placed in the unsteady hands of a 10-year-old farm boy yesterday afternoon resulted in the fatal shooting of the lad's 5-year-old brother, Marion Kates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kates, whose farm home is three miles from Bolivar.

Marion was shot through the head by a .22 calibre bullet when he ran after his older brother, Edward, who was taking the rifle to his father in a field near their home. Just how the tragedy happened, no one knows, because there were no eye witnesses and the boy who accidentally shot his brother was so shocked and frightened that he could not remember clearly what occurred. One minute he was taking the gun to his father, who had seen a rabbit, he said, and the next it had gone off and Marion was lying in a heap on the ground, a tiny bullet hole in his head just above the left eye.

Edward screamed for help, and his parents came, bundled the boy into their car and drove as fast as they could to the office of Dr. D. E. Hammontree at Bolivar. Dr. Wilbur Smith was summoned from Springfield, and he performed a hurried operation to remove the bullet from Marion's brain. He found the leaden pellet had ranged downward and gone nearly through the boy's head.

The lad died at 9:30 Saturday night without having regained consciousness. The operation was performed at Doctor Hammontree's office.

FOUR BOYS PINNED UNDER WRECKAGE FOLLOWING CRASH ON U. S. ROUTE '60'

SLOW death by strangulation was the fate of Archie Freeman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Freeman who live 10 miles southwest of Willow Springs, early Sunday morning after the Ford roadster in which he and three other youths were riding overturned into a three-foot ditch, pinning the quartet beneath it.

The tragedy occurred four miles east of Willow Springs on highway 60 as the boys were on their way to a dance at Hutton Valley. The other three were "Dub" Clinton, who suffered a broken shoulder, Fred Collins and a youth named Turnbull.

PRISONERS SIX HOURS

Although the automobile overturned sometime between 11:30 and 12 o'clock Saturday night, the rescue of the occupants was not started until 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

A part of the car was lying on the neck and face of young Freeman in such a way that he was able to breathe only with the greatest effort. He lived for about two hours after the automobile crashed into the ditch, his companions estimated.

He was able to converse with the other three to some extent but the greater part of the time he spent praying, they said. Restricted in movement themselves, they could do nothing to aid him. The last words he was heard to say were, "Well, I'm dying, boys."

BLINDED BY LIGHTS

Turnbull, who owned the car and was driving, said he lost control after he had been blinded by the lights of a westward bound machine. His own vehicle careened on the newly gravelled road, then crashed into the ditch at the left side of the highway and overturned. None of the occupants, packed closely together, had a chance to jump clear.

The death car came to rest with its lights still burning and shining directly across the highway. The survivors said they heard 10 or 15 machines pass during the night. Had any of the first motorists passing stopped and given aid, Freeman's life might have been saved.

The body of Freeman was taken in an ambulance to the T. R. Burns Undertaking company parlors at Willow Springs, where it was prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements last night were incomplete.

Medical attention was given Clinton at the office of Dr. J. C. B. Davis in Willow Springs. Collins and Turnbull were found virtually unhurt after their harrowing experience.

All four of the youths lived in the same neighborhood southwest of Willow Springs.

TIE COMPANY BUYER FOUND BY ROADSIDE

W. V. Rook, Former Conway Minister, Proves Mystery

BULLET THROUGH HEAD

Residents of Vicinity Tell of Strange Conduct Before Shooting

His head pierced by a pistol bullet, W. V. Rook, 38, buyer for the Robert-Lee Tie company of Springfield and formerly a minister at Conway, Mo., was found dead at 11 o'clock this morning beneath a Price railway trestle near Highway 13, between Fair Play and Dunningan in Polk county.

Murder Suspected

Polk county officials were busy this afternoon attempting to untangle the mystery of his death, and Coroner S. B. Hutcheson of Bolivar seemed convinced that murder and not suicide will prove the answer.

The body was discovered by Fred Harmon, farmer of the neighborhood, who was driving by on Highway 13, noticed Rook's abandoned Star coupe beside the road and then saw the form of the man underneath the railway bridge. The Price railway's high-line runs parallel to the highway at this point.

Coroner Hutcheson was summoned from Bolivar, and a heavy investigation brought to light the following facts:

Rook was noticed parked alone beside the highway last night, acting strangely and mumbling about a "dead" starter motor.

Claud Manuell, a farmer who lives not far away, talked with him, brought some hot coffee to him and sent in a call to the E. A. Gallyan garage at Fair Play. Gallyan came, thought Rook was intoxicated, and went back to Fair Play.

Woman Hears Shots

Mrs. Mat Campbell, farm woman whose home is across the highway near the scene of the shooting, about 8 o'clock this morning heard two shots and then saw several men moving away to the west.

Fred Harmon, when he saw the body and went to investigate, found a 28-calibre revolver near it, which was retained. There was no blood on Mr. Rook's hands. The empty shells were in the revolver, although only one shot struck the man, entering his head on the right side. The man's head showed no powder burns, indicating to Mr. Hutcheson, the coroner, that he did not fire the bullet himself.

In Rook's rough outdoor clothes were found $8 in money, which seemed to refute the theory that he had been killed and robbed by tramps.

Sign of Struggle

A decorative knob on the steering wheel of Rook's car was found broken, with bits of it scattered on the floor of the coupe, indicating there may have been a struggle in the car.

The body was identified easily by papers found among the man's belongings. He was well known in the neighborhood, having been stationed at Humansville as a buyer for the tie company for several months.

Investigating the theory that Rook may have been snatched by tramps, Mr. Hutcheson said he might summon bloodhounds from Springfield. An inquest will be held, he said, late today or early tomorrow.

Mr. Rook is said to be survived by a son who is employed in a Springfield drug store.

Before going to work for the tie company several years ago, Rook was pastor of a church in Conway.

BOY STRANGLER BY AUTO WRECK

Caught Beneath Wreckage. Youth Lives for Two Hours Before Death

Archie Freeman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Freeman, who lives 10 miles southwest of Willow Springs, was dead today as the result of being slowly strangled early Sunday morning as the layed pinned beneath an overturned automobile.

Three companions were helpless to aid Freeman as they themselves were held prisoners by the car. "Dub" Clinton sustained a broken shoulder, and Fred Collins and a ... all residents of the same vicinity, were bruised.

Dying, Talk to Friends

The accident occurred between 11:30 and 1 o'clock Saturday night, but was not discovered until daylight, Sunday morning. Freeman had talked to his companions, they said, for about two hours after the crash, until he lapsed into unconsciousness with the words, "Well, I'm dying, boys."

Turnbull, who owned the car and was driving, said that he was blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile as he drove east on the highway about four miles east of Willow Springs. His own car skidded in the loose gravel and then crashed into the ditch on the left side of the road and overturned.

Several Cars Pass

The Turnbull car rested with its lights still burning and headed across the road. The survivors said they heard several automobiles pass during the night. If the earlier drivers had stopped, it is believed they could have saved Freeman's life.

A part of the death car, a Ford roadster, rested on the face and neck of Freeman, so he could breathe only with great difficulty.

Were on Way to Dance

The four were on their way to a dance at Hutton Valley when the accident occurred. Clinton was treated for his injuries Sunday morning by Dr. J. C. B. Davis at Willow Springs. Collins and Davis were found unhurt.

The T. R. Burns Undertaking company at Willow Springs has charge of funeral arrangements for Freeman.

Pretty Wedding

A pretty church wedding was witnessed yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at the Robberson Avenue Baptist church when Miss Lois Vivian Winkleblack became the bride of Mr. Roy Radford Vinson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Winkleblack, 320 East Locust street.

The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and yellow and white chrysanthemums and was lighted by candles. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She was attended by Mrs. Omar H. Simmons, maid of honor, little Myrabel Vinson and Charles Emmet Vinson, niece and nephew of the bridegroom, were ring bearers. Mr. Omar H. Simmons attended Mr. Vinson as best man. The bridal party approached the altar to the strains of the wedding chorus from Lohengrin. The Reverend Mr. George O. Van Noy read the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. George O. Van Noy sang "I Love You Truly," preceding the ceremony. She was accompanied by Mrs. Paul Brandon, who also played the wedding music. Miss Pauline Bryant played "At Dawning" softly on the violin during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for the recessional.

The bride wore a dark blue transparent velvet with ... Mrs. Simmons wore black chiffon and carried pink roses.

Mr. Kenneth B. Long, Mr. Homer T. Brown, and Mr. Virgil Hartley were ushers.

SPRINGFIELD MAN BELIEVED SUICIDE FROM NEW CLUES

Investigation Reveals His Own Thumb Print on Revolver Found by Body; Inquest Planned Today

Closer investigation of the death of W. V. Rook, 55, buyer of the Hobart-Lee Tie company of Springfield, whose body was found between Fair Play and Dunnegan yesterday with his head pierced by a pistol bullet, last night led officers to believe he had killed himself.

First investigations had caused Polk county officers to believe that Rook, who formerly was a minister at Conway, Mo., had been murdered. The body was found yesterday morning beneath a Frisco railway trestle near Highway 13.

Although the case is yet somewhat of a mystery, Coroner S. B. Hutcheson of Bolivar said last night that new clues pointed to suicide.

FIND THUMB PRINT

Among the new clues which indicated self-destruction is the discovery of the dead man's right thumb print on the 38-calibre revolver which was found near his body. In the gun were two empty shells. Examination of Rook's head showed that his hair was singed, thus indicating that the shot which killed him was discharged close to his head.

The thumb print was found by H. D. Linker, Springfield private detective.

However, it was difficult for officers to explain how the revolver received its blood stains while there was no blood on Rook's hands.

A statement of Mrs. Ada Rook, of Springfield, the man's divorced wife, also led officers to believe he had been contemplating suicide for several days. She said that when she saw him last, about 10 days ago, he told her "you may never see me again." Among papers in his possession was found a will made early last month.

MOTIVE MYSTERY

Friends and relatives were unable to give any reason why Rook should take his own life, officers said.

Belief that Rook had been murdered arose from statement of Mrs. Matt Campbell, farm woman whose home is across the highway near the scene of the shooting, that she had heard two shots about 9 o'clock yesterday morning and then saw several men moving away to the west.

Failure of bloodhounds summoned from Springfield to pick up the trail of the men, however, caused officers to believe that the suicide theory was more probable than murder.

Coroner Hutcheson will hold a coroner's inquest this afternoon. Plans were being made by relatives to hold funeral services for Rook in Springfield probably Wednesday.

Mr. Rook was well known in the Polk county neighborhood. He had been stationed at Humansville for several months as a buyer for the tie company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Holland are popular members of the younger crowd here. Mrs. Holland is a member of the Alpha Tau Phi and the Zeta Tau Alpha sororities. Mr. Holland is a member of the Delta Sigma fraternity.

Founder of Bolivar Bank Still Hard Worker at 88

Oldest Active President in State Gets to Work at 8:30 Every Morning and Keeps Busy at Office Work Until 5

Special Dispatch to The Leader

BOLIVAR, No. 12—Probably the oldest active bank president in the state, T. H. B. Dunnegan, colorful and picturesque Civil war veteran, is rising with the chickens in his eighty-eighth year, arriving at work by 8:30 in the morning, and working until 5 every afternoon. Dunnegan is president of the Polk county bank, here.

Not only is he still the active president of his bank, but Dunnegan, with two other men, founded the bank in 1872, and since 1876 he has been actively in control of the largest banking institution in Polk county.

Served In Border Troop

T. H. B. Dunnegan

Polk county in 1832. Mr. Dunnegan was born in Lawrence county on April 1, 1842, where his family had moved for a time. They returned to Bolivar before the Civil war, however, and when the conflict began, Dunnegan enlisted in the Eighth Missouri cavalry, which did active border duty throughout the war.

"We spent most of our time in northern Arkansas and the Indian territory, although we even went as far south as the Texas border several times in our pursuit of ~~the~~ Indians," said Dunnegan, as he recalled the old days.

Buys Out First Partners

"When the war was over, I returned to Bolivar, and went in business with my uncle, running a general store here," he continued. "I contracted malaria while I was in the Arkansas swamps, the only serious illness I have ever had and although I thought I was going to die, I soon became well when I returned here to the high altitude."

In 1872, J. A. Tolfree and J. B. Kelsey came to Bolivar from the east and with Dunnegan organized the Tolfree-Dunnegan company, the predecessor of the Polk county bank. Dunnegan bought them both out in 1876, and has since been active president of the bank. The bank was incorporated in 1891, and Dunnegan's estate was incorporated in 1914. He owned several farms in Polk county and considerable property in Bolivar.

Gives Park to Bolivar

Two of Dunnegan's sons, T. H. B. and John, are interested in the bank here, while his son-in-law, Guy Q. McDaniel, is cashier.

The older Dunnegan is the second oldest Union soldier now living in Polk county, and is proud that he still has his "real" teeth, and that

Behind Roadside Shooting Mystery

Worry over a home divided by divorce after 20 years of comparative tranquility today was believed by Polk county investigators to have caused W. V. Rook, 55, buyer for the Hobart-Lee Tie company of Springfield, to end his life yesterday morning under a Frisco railway bridge between Fair Play and Dunnegan.

Thought at first to present a murder mystery, the death of Rook appeared today, in the light of a thorough investigation, to be a case of suicide. S. B. Hutcheson, coroner at Bolivar, learned that Rook made a will at Humansville on October 18; that he and his wife were divorced recently and that he told his wife while visiting her here a few days ago that she probably would never see him alive again. Mr. Hutcheson said he was satisfied that Rook killed himself and he decided not to conduct a scheduled coroner's inquest.

Provides for Children

Rook, a former minister at Conway, Mo., left a will providing for care of three young children, Eugene, Wimer and Dawrin, and asking that Mr. and Mrs. Lee Largent, with whom he had roomed at Humansville, be appointed guardians of the children. His estate should be used, the will said, to care for and educate the children until the youngest becomes 18 years of age. ~~The~~ $1000 may be used to purchase a home for them. When the youngest is 18 years old, the will said, the estate shall be divided ~~among~~ all my heirs."

Investigation disclosed a contract, dated September 11 this year, between Rook and Mrs. Ada Rook, who recently obtained a divorce from him. It provided for payment of $30 a month to her to support Dawrin Rook.

His head pierced by a pistol bullet, Rook's body was found late yesterday morning under a Frisco trestle near Fair Play, ~~side Highway 23~~. His car, in which he had spent the night, was parked beside the highway. Coroner Hutcheson told H. D. Linker, private detective of Springfield, found Rook's fingerprints upon a revolver found near the body. The coroner was unable to explain, however, how bloodstains appeared upon the gun but not upon the dead man's hands.

Though Mrs. Mat Campbell, farm woman who lives near the scene, told officers she saw several men walking away to the west soon after hearing shots yesterday morning, bloodhounds brought from Springfield were unable to pick up a trail, and reports further demolished the murder theory.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but services probably will be conducted tomorrow in Springfield, and burial will be under direction of Hutcheson and Blue, Rollins undertakers.

FAMILY FIRMS

Prevalent in the business and civic affairs of Springfield are the two Tom Watkins.

Tom Watkins, Sr. is cashier of the Citizens bank and his son, T. W. Watkins, known as Tom, Jr., is assistant cashier of the bank. They have been associated together in business since directly after the world war when the son returned home after two years of military service.

Mr. Watkins, Sr. has lived in Springfield 20 years. During the first 12 years he was engaged in the grocery business. When the Citizens bank was organized in 1902 he became cashier of the institution, and has held that office since then.

Mr. Watkins, Jr. became interested in banking through his interest in his father's work. He went through the Springfield schools and attended the Western Military school near St. Louis. After he re-

Springfield Man Committed Suicide

Funeral services for W. V. Rook, 55, buyer for the Hobart-Lee Tea company of Springfield, who is thought to have ended his life under a Tlico railway bridge between Fair Play and Dunnegan Monday morning because of worry over a recent divorce obtained by his wife, probably will be held in Springfield within the next several days, it was announced yesterday.

The death of Rook, at first apparently a murder mystery, was definitely established yesterday by S. B. Hutcheson of Bolivar, Polk county coroner, as a case of suicide.

He learned that Rook made a will at Humansville October 18; that he and his wife were divorced not long ago and that he told her here a few days ago that she probably would never see him alive again.

He is survived by five sons, Alvin, Grant, Miles, Wayne and Darwin Lee, all of 1826 Boonville avenue, and two daughters, Mrs. Opal Edwards and Mrs. Nora Mixon of Phoenix, Ariz.

The will left by Rook, who was a former minister of Conway, Mo., provided for the care of three young children, Eugene, Wayne and Darwin Lee, and asked that Mr. and Mrs. Lee Largent, with whom he had roomed at Humansville, be appointed guardians. LEE PATTERSON ENDS HIS LIFE AT HOME HERE Falling in a last desperate effort to stage a financial comeback, Lee Patterson, 46, operator of an oil station and a former vice president of the Houk Lumber company, took his own life by drinking poison at his home, 847 South avenue, about 5 o'clock this morning.

After viewing the body, Dr. Murray Stone, county coroner, pronounced the case a suicide and announced that no inquest will be held.

At the family home this morning, Mrs. Patterson told how she had been awakened about 5 o'clock when her husband left his bedroom, walked down the hall and into the bathroom.

Mrs. Patterson's Story

He remained in the bathroom for a few minutes, she said, and then returned to his bedroom.

When she entered her own room and she heard the sound of his body striking the springs of the bed, she was startled.

For nearly a half hour she was quiet, Mrs. Patterson said.

"Then I heard a few faint groaning sounds which I paid little attention to because I thought he was getting up to build a fire.

"I stayed in bed several minutes longer, never dreaming that such a thing would ever happen," she said. About 15 minutes later, Mrs. Patterson tried to open the door of her husband's room but found it locked.

Doctor Called too Late

After trying for several minutes to open the door, Mrs. Patterson called neighbors. The door was broken open and Mrs. Patterson found the body lying on the bed.

At first it was believed that Mr. Patterson was not dead and one of the neighbors summoned Dr. Lee Ong, who said the man had been dead at least an hour before he arrived.

Concluding an investigation, Coroner Stone said that Mr. Patterson had taken his own life by drinking a quantity of poison that was near the bed. Mr. Patterson's lips, chin and chest were badly burned by the poison that had been spilled over them.

Business Reverses

Following Doctor Stone's investigation, Mrs. Patterson voiced the opinion that "he must have been prepared to commit suicide because the bottle of poison was not a part of the family medical supply." She had never seen the poison nor the bottle until this morning, she declared.

Mrs. Patterson said that she could not see the reason for her husband's desire to end his life other than that "he was falling to make a comeback in business."

After leaving the Houk firm early last June, Mr. Patterson erected a service station on South Jefferson avenue near East Elm street. He had installed several new automobile services and hoped to "make back the money he had lost in other dealings," his wife declared.

Mr. Patterson was a cripple, having been handicapped all his life by physical infirmities.

"My husband never did tell me much about his business and it was not until this morning when I had a talk with his lawyer that I knew he had done some of the things that I would not approve," she said.

Once Assessor Here

Mr. Patterson, she said, had a colorful business career. Several times he made investments that left him "flat broke" but he would stage a comeback that would repay him, Mrs. Patterson said.

"Of late Mr. Patterson has been very nervous and all I can say is that I believe he killed himself because of money troubles," Mrs. Patterson said.

Mr. Patterson was a native Springfieldian. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. and held the office of city tax assessor for three terms. His last term expired about 12 years ago.

Besides the wife, Mr. Patterson is survived by his mother, Mrs. Eliza Patterson, of 658 South Fremont street, and three sisters and one brother as follows: Miss Mary D. Patterson, of 658 South Fremont avenue; Mrs. Maggie George, 658 South Fremont; Mrs. O. O. Turner, 1331 East Harrison street, and Allen Patterson of 767 West Elm street. One daughter, Margaret, also survives. The daughter is 9 years old.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the W. L. Starne funeral chapel, followed by burial in Hazelwood cemetery.

COMMITTS SUICIDE TO END TROUBLES

Lee Patterson Drinks Poison Following Business Re- verses Here

Financial difficulties and his failure to stage a business comeback led Lee Patterson, 46, operator of an oil station and a former vice president of the Houk Lumber company, to take his own life by drinking poison at his home, 847 South avenue, about 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

Investigation by Dr. Murray C. Stone, coroner, caused that official to pronounce the death suicide. No inquest will be held.

Body on Floor

Mr. Patterson was found on the floor of his bedroom, near his bed, by his wife and several neighbors who were called in when Mrs. Patterson found her husband's door locked. The poison container was found on the floor nearby and Mr. Patterson's lips, chin and chest were badly burned by the poison which had been spilled over them.

Mrs. Patterson said she could give no reason for her husband's desire to end his life other than "he was failing to make a comeback in business."

FALLS DEAD

Preparing to "come to town" this morning, Lucian B. Andrus, within a week of 80, former successful merchant of Hannibal, Mo., fell suddenly dead on the grounds of the Pythian Home, where he lived. His death was due to a heart attack.

Although his heart has been known to be bad for several months and "around" all the time and in fact quite active. This morning he expressed a wish to "go to town" and as he seemed as well as usual, he was permitted to start out. He had reached the gate, and appears to have been waiting for a street car, when he was stricken. Nobody saw him fall, but his body was discovered lying on the grass under a tree a few minutes after he had left the home.

Mr. Andrus was born in Centerville, Ohio, November 20, 1848, and thus would have been 80 years old next Wednesday. He moved to Hannibal, Mo., in 1872 and engaged in the grocery business at Hannibal. Three years ago he joined the Knights of Pythias. His wife died a little more than three years ago; through business misfortunes he had lost a modest fortune of about $15,000; and on April 26, 1926, he came to the Pythian home here. Those who knew him here believe him to have been "a sober kind of man," honest and industrious all his life. There is an impression, somewhat vague, that he lost his own small fortune by signing another man's note.

He had remained active, and of late had talked of getting a knitting machine at which he could work. It seemed that the habit of work was strong with him, and he was not content to have nothing to do.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Lucia Andrus, a teacher at Pawhuska, Okla., and a son, William, who was graduated from the Pawhuska high school last spring, and by a sister who lives near Nixa, Mo.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete awaiting word from Kirksville, and the body is in charge of W. L. Starns.

THREE BABIES BURN TO DEATH AS HOME FIRED

Third Is Believed Near Death in Missouri Tragedy; Mother Suffers Critical Injuries in Attempting to Rescue Them

By The Associated Press

PLEASANT HILL, Mo., Nov. 15—

Three children lost their lives and their mother was burned critically here today when coal oil, poured on embers in a kitchen stove, exploded. Robert Stevens, 2 years old; Hubert, 9, and Virginia, 7, were burned fatally when the blazing fluid was thrown on them by the explosion. Their mother, Mrs. Samuel Stevens, 38, was burned while tearing the clothing from the children after the explosion. The children died in a Kansas City hospital, where they were taken for treatment.

The tragedy was the result of efforts of the three children to aid their mother in the work at home. Mrs. Stevens was in the bedroom caring for the 7-months-old baby, Lloyd. The children decided to fix the fire in the kitchen stove by pouring coal oil on the glowing embers.

As the coal oil struck the embers, an explosion resulted, spraying the three children with blazing fluid.

Mrs. Stevens, the mother of seven children, this afternoon was unaware that two of the three children she had attempted to save are dead.

FINNMAN SLAIN BY HIT-RUN CAR

Body Is Discovered on Highway 66 Identity Remains Puzzle

The body of a man about 55 years old, believed to be a Finnish descent, lay unidentified in the Morris and Leitman Undertaking rooms at Miller, Mo., today, apparently the victim of a "hit and run" motorist on U. S. highway 66 early Friday night.

The man is described as being 5 feet 10 inches tall with blue or gray eyes, light hair and moustache. He was dressed in blue corduroy trousers, a brown or olive checkered mackinaw, and light felt hat.

Two Cents in Pockets

There was only two cents in the man's pockets, but investigators today did not believe the man had been ...

book, empty out for the two cents, the pockets contained a safety razor, some needles and thread, and safety pins.

Internal injuries were blamed for the man's death, about two hours before he was found at 12 30 o'clock this morning by Fred Prater, 47, of Oklahoma City, who was enroute to Sparta, Mo., to visit an aunt. Other injuries included a pelvic wound, broken right arm just above the wrist, and a gash over the right temple.

Right Finger Gone

The most distinguishing mark of identification was that the forefinger on the right hand is off at the first joint.

Coroner E. L. Patton of Aurora investigated the case this morning, but found practically no clues.

Search of the dead man's clothes this morning revealed the initials "M. G." sewed to the inside pocket of his mackinaw coat. A nearly new pair of glasses bearing the initials "M. G." also found in the coat. A small shaving brush, a bar of soap and a Gem safety razor found in one of the coat pockets were wrapped in a bread paper bearing the label "G. B. Dalton Bakery, Rich Hill, Mo."

A flashback of the Springfield of years ago is shown in the photograph of Mrs. S. M. Hunt, 712 East Madison street at her old spinning wheel, a relic of her family. The wheel is over a hundred years old, coming from Tennessee when her father moved into Missouri 70 years ago. Mrs. Hunt was born in Springfield 68 years ago and remembers when a spinning wheel was an important part of the family furnishings and the operation was as much part a woman's duties as the opening of a can of tomatoes is today. The wheel was familiar to her at seven years of age and for years she spun the thread for her clothing and that of the family. However a mere 40 years ago found the factory made garments enter Springfield in large quantities and at low prices and the wheel was discarded to the cellar.

In the spinning of cotton the large wheel is nothing but a part of the machine that turns, by a cord, the spool on which thread is woven. Long strips of cotton attached to the spool are converted into thread by skillful twisting and pulling.

Mrs. Hunt says that if it is true that the modern wife can get by with the opening of a few cans of food for dinner, all the more power to her as the hard work the pioneer woman had to do is well gone and forgotten.

Eugenia Prescott To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Prescott, 1221 Sherman avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Harriet Eugenia, to Mr. Vincil Westland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. Westland, 1427 Irving place. The marriage vows are to be read after the first of the year.

SLAYING OF BUYER STILL IS MYSTERY

Coroner's Jury Returns Open Verdict in Death of -Springfield Man

W. V. Rook, 55, buyer for the Hobart-Lee Tire company here, who was found shot to death under a Frisco railway bridge between Dunnegan and Fair Play last Monday morning, "came to his death by gunshot wounds by party or parties unknown," a coroner's jury at Bolivar decided Saturday afternoon.

The suicide theory was generally accepted by officers who investigated the case. The suspicion that it might have been a case of murder instead of self-inflicted death persisted, however, and resulted in the inquest conducted by Polk County Coroner S. B. Hutcheson and in the open verdict of the jury.

Didn't See Men Leave

First to testify were Mr. and Mrs. Matt Campbell, near whose farm home on the Dunnegan-Fair Play road the dead man was found by Fred Harmon, an employe of the Campbells. Contrary to early reports, Mrs. Campbell testified that she did not see a group of men moving away from the dead man's abandoned automobile about 9 o'clock Monday morning, after she had heard shots fired.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Largent of Humansville, with whom Rook had recently made his home, testified they knew of no reason for the man to commit suicide. He always seemed cheerful, they said. Mr. Largent identified the bloodstained gun found near the body as having belonged to Rook.

Others who testified were Claude Manual and O. O. Vannoy, other farmers who live near the scene of the shooting. Manual said, he had prepared a cup of coffee Sunday night at Rook's request and had taken it to the man as he worked on his stalled automobile in the road nearby. E. A. Oalyan, Fair Play garage man who had been called to assist Rook, had found the car abandoned and had returned to Fair Play without seeing the owner.

Hunters Noticed Car

Ralph Braithwaite and Bernice Stewart, Bolivar men, passed by the scene on a hunting expedition early Monday morning. Braithwaite said he thought he saw a man working at the front of the car and he "might have" seen someone in the car. W. K. Radcliff, state highway department maintenance man, had seen the car, but nobody in it.

Members of the coroner's jury were A. R. McDaniel, J. T. Holbert, H. R. Scurlock, J. P. McReynolds, W. B. Welch and Fred Hendershot.

Funeral services for Rook will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Robberson Avenue Baptist church here with the Reverend George O. Van Noy officiating. Interment will take place in Hazelwood cemetery, under direction of Hutcheson and Blue of Bolivar.

Rook is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ada Rook of Springfield, and seven children, the three youngest of whom he had provided for in a will he recently made at Humansville. The man was a former minister at Conway, Mo.

ACTION TO CONSTRUCT WILL OF W. B. SANFORD

Suit to construe the will of the late W. B. Sanford, involving the distribution of $65,000 in special legacies, besides a large amount of other property, was filed in circuit court Saturday.

The action involves 85 shares of stock in the Sanford Loan and Realty company, which the elder Sanford owned but which he is alleged to have transferred to his son, Grady M. Sanford, not long before his death.

Grady M. Sanford and Frank M. McDavid, executors of the Sanford will, brought the action. The defendants, who were to have received the following amounts from the proceeds from the stock, were: Mrs. Kate R. Rogers, Searcy, Ark., $15,000; Mrs. Minnie W. Shipp, Springfield, $20,000; Mrs. Lillian Ely Brown, Shreveport, La., $15,000; Frank L. Sanford of California, a brother, $10,000; Mrs. A. S. Dabney of Chicago, cousin of the late Mrs. W. B. Sanford, $5,000.

In the petition, Annie Sue Rogers Gregory, Bertha Rogers Ford and R. S. Rogers, heirs of Mrs. Kate Rogers, are listed as defendants as well as Elizabeth Sebree, widow of George M. Sebree, an attorney, and W. D. Tatlow, another attorney, both of whom had assisted in clearing up the estate.

MISCONDUCT, INDIGNITIES CHARGED TO HUSBANDS

Mrs. Hazel Crain charges her husband, Frank Crain, with misconduct and non-support in a petition for divorce filed Saturday in circuit court. The couple married in Springfield in October, 1922, and separated in August of this year. Mrs. Crain seeks the custody of their 6-year-old child, Anna Frances.

Hazel J. Goodson accuses Charles A. Goodson of "general indignities" in her suit for divorce. Their married life, which had begun in Greene county in May, 1915, terminated three months ago.

MARRIED ELOPERS HELD BY OFFICERS IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Nixa Man Running Away With Springfield Mother Is Picked Up on Mortgaged Automobile Charge

J. W. FLOOD, Nixa carpenter, and Mrs. Dee H. Wright of Springfield, who allegedly left Springfield together August 30, taking with them Mrs. Wright's 9-year-old daughter, Geraldine, were arrested Saturday evening in Oklahoma City, according to word received here last night by Sheriff Marcell Hendrix.

Word of the arrest of the pair, followed by a few hours the filing in circuit court here of a divorce suit against the Wright woman by her husband, who is employed as janitor in a dry goods store.

A felony warrant for the arrest of Flood was sworn out by his wife soon after his disappearance. The charge was that he had taken a mortgaged automobile with him. Mrs. Flood at that time offered a reward of $25 for her husband's apprehension.

Wright, in his divorce petition, filed Saturday, said that he and Mrs. Alice Jane Wright were married in Paragould, Ark., in August, 1914. She spent money freely, he alleges, keeping him constantly in debt. She constantly complained of him and said that she did not care for him, the information states.

On one occasion, according to the allegation, after she had been away from home all night with a man companion, Mrs. Wright returned in such a condition that she had to be put to bed.

Wright alleges that his wife had been keeping company with Flood for about a year, during part of which time they had lived in the same neighborhood on East Brower street. She once made the statement that she would run off with another man whom she would be free to leave for someone else when she grew tired of him, and threatened his life with a .38 caliber revolver, the petition concludes.

At the sheriff's office last night, Wright refused to comment upon the arrest of his wife and Flood. He indicated that he might go to Oklahoma City with Sheriff Hendrix in order to bring back the girls Geraldine, one of three whose custody he is seeking in the divorce action. The other two children, Willard, 8, and Worland, 14, were left at home alone early on the morning of August 30 when Mrs. Wright climbed into the Flood car and disappeared.

Sheriff Hendrix intended to leave for Oklahoma early this morning, despite the painful head injury he sustained Saturday morning when assaulted in the courthouse corridor by a prisoner whom he was escorting to the jail.

Clue Is Believed Discovered to Man Found Dead In Road

The body of a man about 65 or 70 years old, found lying by the side of U. S. highway 66 west of the Miller cut-off last Friday night may be that of John Franklin Lawrence, Spanish-American war veteran, it was believed today, following receipt of a communication from a sister of Lawrence in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. F. A. Welch of 1347 East Haskell street, Tulsa, describes her brother, whom she has not seen for 24 years, as being about 5 feet 10 1/2 inches tall, with blue eyes, light brown hair, and about 69 years old. One forefinger is missing at the first joint, she said.

This description is very similar to that given of the unidentified man, who is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, with blue gray eyes, light hair, and with the forefinger of the right hand missing at the first joint. He is believed to be about 65 years old.

Lawrence Country Coroner E. L. Patton of Aurora was unable to find any clue as to the man's identity, excepting for the initials M. F. In the tattered mackinaw he wore, and a piece of bread wrapping paper with the name of a Rich Hill bakery on it. Inquiry failed to throw any light on this clue, however.

The body is being held at the Morris and Lelman Undertaking establishment in Miller for possible identification soon.

O'Brien-Ryan Vows Are Read Before Friends

A DELIGHTFUL church wedding was solemnized this morning at 8:30 o'clock at the St. Agnes church when Mrs. Margaret Ryan of this city became the bride of Mr. John J. O'Brien of Milwaukee, Wis. The Reverend Father Frank McCardle officiated.

As the bridal party entered the church Miss Francis Bader played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and during the ceremony Mrs. Howard E. Bader sang "Sacrament O Divine." The bride wore a lovely blue velvet ensemble and carried a sheaf bouquet of premier roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Jennie Boll was maid of honor and was attractively dressed in blue crepe and carried a bouquet of premier roses. Mr. Lawrence French attended the groom.

Following the ceremony an informal breakfast was served at the home of Miss Anne McClernon, 445 Cherry street, to members of the bridal party and a few intimate friends. The breakfast table and dining room were attractively decorated with bouquets of the season's flowers carrying out a color motif of pink and white. Mrs. Mary Crockett of Duquoin, Ill., aunt of the bride, was an out-of-town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will make their future home at 380 Forty-Fifth street, Milwaukee, Wis., after December 1.

O'Brien-Ryan Vows Are Exchanged

Very charming was the informal church wedding yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the St. Agnes church when Mrs. Margaret Ryan of this city became the bride of Mrs. John J. O'Brien of Milwaukee, Wis. The Rev. Father Frank McCardle read the single ring ceremony.

Miss Frances Bader played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party entered the church and Mrs. Howard E. Bader sang "Sacrament O Divine" during the ceremony. The bride was lovely in a blue velvet ensemble and carried a sheaf bouquet of pernet roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Jennie Boll was maid of honor and was dressed attractively in blue crepe and carried a bouquet of premier roses. Mr. Lawrence French attended the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal wedding breakfast was served at the home of Miss Ann McClernon, 445 Cherry street, to members of the bridal party and a few intimate friends of the young couple. Decorations of the breakfast table and dining room consisted of bouquets of seasonal garden flowers, carrying out a color note of pink and white. Body Of Aged Man Found Dead In Road May Be Identified

The body of a man about 65 or 70 years old found lying by the side of the pavement on U. S. highway 66 west of Miller may be established as that of John Franklin Lawrence, veteran of the Spanish-American war, as the result of a communication received yesterday from Mrs. F. A. Welch, 1347 East Haskell street, Tulsa.

Mrs. Welch said Lawrence, her brother, had not been seen by her for 24 years. She described him as being about 5 feet 10 1/2 inches tall, with blue eyes, light brown hair and about 69 years old. She said one forefinger was missing at the first joint. These facts tallied to a considerable extent with the body which was taken to the Morris and Leiman funeral home at Miller.

A complete description of the body was sent to Mrs. Welch from the funeral home but no answer to the message had been received from her last night. Pictures of the dead man were taken yesterday but development had not been completed.

The body was found by a hitch hiker last Saturday morning. He at once notified the undertakers at Miller.

Eastbound Frisco Train And Auto Crash To- gether on Crossing Near Seneca, Mo.

ONE man was instantly killed and his companion fatally injured when the truck in which they were riding was demolished by the fast eastbound Frisco passenger train, No. 4, at a crossing in Seneca, Mo., at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A blinding snowstorm was blamed for the crash.

The dead are Reese Maxwell and Dan Crabtree, both about 35 years old and residents of Commerce, Okla. The bodies were taken to the Oklahoma town last night after an inquest at Seneca had been conducted by Coroner James Nutman of Granby.

NO BLAME PLACED

The verdict of the coroner's jury placed responsibility for the tragedy neither on the train crew or the victims. Testimony of a considerable number of witnesses was to the effect that the truck was driven onto the crossing without either of the occupants seeing the train which was bearing down upon them because of snow which filled the air.

Maxwell was dead when his body was removed from the wreckage, his skull badly crushed but with no

TWO SEEK DIVORCE FOR VARYING REASONS

One young wife sought a divorce Thursday because her husband made her live at her mother's and another because her husband made her live at his father's.

Miriam L. Mansfield, who married Austin William Mansfield in July, 1928, says in her petition that he insisted she continue to live with her mother, which arrangement she found very unsatisfactory to her. Although he makes $50 a week playing in a dance orchestra, he has never supported her, she says. She seeks the restoration of her maiden name, Miriam Lorene Wymore.

Ellen O. Walmer married Isaac S. Walmer at Hardin, Mo., in April, 1926. Since then, she charges, he has forced her to live at the home of his father, who abuses her. The young husband would not allow his wife the use of his car, it is alleged, so that she was forced to find other means of transportation to visit her sick father, several miles away.

Walmer even accused his wife of stealing milk which she took to her sick father, the allegation states. When he took her to the hospital, he charges he took her Christmas presents and other personal belongings with him, including her rings.

TWO MEN DIE HERE SUDDENLY

Both Retired and Elderly.
Both Expire in Yards of Homes

Sudden death felled two aged Springfield men today—in both cases, virtually without warning. Both were found dead in the yards of their homes, having been active during the morning. They were W. H. Allen, about 60, of 646 South Robberson avenue; and Fred Sickmyre, 63, of 1324 Marion avenue. Both men were retired. Mr. Allen was formerly employed by the Springfield Gas and Electric company, and Mr. Sickmyre until about three years ago worked in the Frisco west shops.

Suicide by poison was first suspected in the case of Mr. Allen, but an autopsy performed under the direction of Acting Coroner H. R. Aubrey showed his death to have resulted from sclerosis of the arteries.

No Relatives Here

So far as is known, Mr. Allen has no relatives in Springfield. He was identified today by residents at the house where he had roomed for several months and in front of which his body was found. Letters in his pocket also identified him.

Mr. Allen had not been employed by the gas and electric company for several months. He had recently been in poor health. He had told of having taught school for several terms and had a small library of good books in his room.

The body is in charge of the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home. No funeral arrangements have been made pending an attempt to find relatives.

Son Finds Body

Mr. Sickmyre had been razing in his yard and mulching his strawberry patch. His body was found by his son, S. C. Sickmyre. The coroner was notified, and investigation showed his death to have resulted from heart failure. No inquest was held, as the cause of death was obvious and there was no suspicious circumstances.

Mr. Sickmyre is survived by his daughter, Mrs. F. B. Fifield, who lived with him and by two sons, S. C. and P. C. Sickmyre, both of Springfield.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but it is known that burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery under the direction of J. W. Klingner.

DRIVER IS KILLED AS AUTO PLUNGES OVER STEEP CLIFF

Efton Flood, 28, Victim of Crash on Highway 44 Near Galena; Son of Former Stone County Sheriff

WAS RETURNING TO HOME FROM NIGHT FISHING TRIP

Machine Plunges 35 Feet; Man's Body Discovered by Garage Mechanics Called
By Passing Motorist

EFTON FLOOD, 28, son of Mack Flood, former Stone county sheriff and treasurer, of near Ponce de Leon, Mo., was fatally injured when his automobile went over a 35-foot cliff near Galena early yesterday morning.

The young man, who lived with his father, was returning from a fishing trip on the James river when the accident occurred. His badly bruised body, lying beside the demolished car, was discovered at the bottom of the cliff, about a quarter of a mile east of Galena about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

TOOK FRIENDS HOME

After spending the greater part of the night gigging on James river, Flood took three companions to their homes in Galena, leaving them there about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. He then is believed to have started home. The bluff over which his car crashed is on highway 44, only a short distance from the bridge over the James river at Galena.

A coroner's jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict that Flood had come to his death as a result of driving his vehicle over the precipice.

LIGHTS STILL ON

The wrecked automobile was first discovered by Earl Crabtree, farmer, while on his way to Galena. He was attracted to it by the burning headlights. He climbed down to it and turned the lights off. But he did not see the man's body, he said. He reported the discovery to garage mechanics who went to the wreck and found Flood's body.

The fact that the man's body was outside the car and that there was blood on his hands although there were no wounds on them, led doctors to believe that he had not been killed instantly.

Flood is survived by his parents, his wife and two small children. He and his wife had been separated for some time, officers said. She resides in Galena.

Man Dies In Fall With Automobile In Dive Off Cliff

As a result of driving his car over a precipice, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury, Estou Flood, 22, was killed just outside Galena, Mo., Wednesday morning.

Young Flood had been one of a party which had been gigging on James river during the night. About 3:30 o'clock in the morning he drove three companions to their Galena homes, and is supposed to have started on to his father's home near Ponce de Leon, when his car went over a 35-foot cliff on highway 44 about a quarter-mile east of Galena.

Several hours later Wednesday morning, the burning lights of the wrecked automobile attracted the attention of Earl Crabtree, farmer on his way to Galena. He climbed down and turned the lights off, and reported his discovery at a garage from which mechanics were sent out to the car. They found the bruised body of Flood outside the car. Crabtree said he had not seen it.

Sixty years of marital bliss is the boast of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Fender of 2250 North Rogers avenue, and the incentive for the anniversary dinner that is being given in their honor today by their two sons, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. Fender is 83 years old and Mrs. Fender 80. They were married December 5, 1869, just 60 years ago Tuesday and the above pictures show them as they are today and as they looked in 1868 shortly before they were married. "We might just as well have been married 64 years, instead of 60", Mr. Fender says. "We went together for five years and two or three times I thought she was going to say something about marrying, but she never did, so finally I had to suggest it myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Fender came to Springfield last March to make their home. They were both born and reared in the Ozarks and have lived almost their entire lives in Polk and Greene counties. They have made their home for the past few years at Marshfield. Both are in good health. Mr. Fender worked until last spring when he was finally prevailed upon by his family to retire. Their descendants, all of whom live in Springfield, are, L. M. Fender and J. W. Fender sons; grandchildren, Mrs. G. W. Brenneke, Mrs. J. O. Spencer, Mrs. E. M. Mr. and Mrs. Dick W. Crenshaw of 500 Holman street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Zella Crenshaw, to Mr. Carl Zaps of Oklahoma City, Okla. The marriage is to take place sometime in the near future.

Mate Kept Secret Other Marriages, Youth Says, Suing

Declaring that she had concealed from him until after their marriage the fact that she had been married and divorced twice before, Paul Howard Anderson yesterday filed suit for divorce from Jessie May Anderson.

The husband, being a minor, sues through Thomas J. Anderson, a next friend.

He also charges that she insists upon running around and neglecting her home duties. He further declares in his petition that she had caused him great chagrin on account of her drinking. The couple was married at Ozark, August 19, 1929, and separated November 23.

Divorce Brews When His Wife Flays Drinking

BECAUSE her husband "had made a drink known as 'home brew'" while she had gone to her mother's for a visit three months after they were married, and because he told her she was "too damn nice" when she complained of his actions upon her return, Mrs. Ida Head Howell yesterday sued for divorce.

Other allegations are that Howell "was critical of his wife's refinement and made sport of her when she expressed a desire for a home in a neighborhood where refined and wholesome conditions offered something beside drudgery and penury."

Orrie Gray, suing his wife for divorce, today charged that she "has for the past several years shown a peculiar fondness for other men." He seeks divorce from Minnie Gray and the custody of their children, Marjorie, 8, Darline, 5, and Charley Wayne, 4.

George W. Young, George W. Young, the Young Stone Printing Company, has been in business in Springfield. During that time his sons have worked at various times in his company and three of them are at present connected with it.

Mr. Young is a leader in the early history of the newspaper and printing business in Springfield as is any other person. He was born in this city and worked when just a boy as printer on the early newspapers here. Mr. Young has spent his entire life here except three years when he was publisher of a newspaper at Forath.

The printing company of which Mr. Young is head was organized 33 years ago. It was known as the George Young Printing company and was on Poonville hill. The name of the concern was changed three years ago when W. C. Stone bought an interest in the business.

Mr. Young was a member of the Chamber of Commerce committee which recently sponsored the first annual manufacturers exposition so successfully. In connection with that, he is proud of the fact that for 30 years he has boosted Springfield products with the slogan, "Buy Springfield Products—Home Merchants and Home Manufactured Goods"

Mr. Young has five sons and one daughter. The sons who are connected with his business are Clifton J., who is treasurer and bookkeeper; Joe E., foreman of the press room and Earnest J., assistant foreman.

His oldest son, Orville, formerly was with the printing business but later went to work for the Nebraska, where he is connected with a newspaper. The other son, Lee T., is in Parsons, Kan., where he is district manager of the International Harvester company. The daughter is Mrs. Ed C. Velrs of Miami, Okla.

THE WASTEBASKET

Into which are often tossed things well worth while.

The following excerpts are found in an early history of Pulaski county, published in 1889:

If numerous mounds all over the valleys of Pulaski county were positive proof of the settlement of that ancient people known as Mound Builders within her borders, it could be safely said that her territory was once densely populous. These mounds were very thick, and clearly artificial, and also indicated great age, even early as 1829, when Ellish Christeson and his family came, although most of them are now leveled by a half century of plowing.

There has been always considerable mystery about the mounds of the Ozarks and some of them are being preserved for future reference but an investigator, who has given the matter much thought and has dug into many of the mounds, declares that they were built by gophers and contain nothing when explored. They are different from the mounds near St. Louis.

The Pulaski county history says: Among the Indians, who were the chief frequenters of what is now Pulaski County in the first and second decades of this century, were the Kickapoo, Osage, and Shawnee, who came through on hunting excursions. The nearest village was on the Osage river, where "Uncle Jered" Christeson traded with or gave things to them. He also remembers having often seen Chief Muncie whose headquarters were at Springfield. The only trail or trace through the county passed from Little Piney, through Wayneville's present site and that of Bartlett's Mill, past the "Old California House," an old inn, on to Chief Muncie's headquarters, being what afterwards became the "Old St. Louis and Springfield road."

The Kickapoo Indians came to Greene county from Peoria, Ill., and were a friendly and peaceable tribe. Kickapoo avenue is named in their honor. Mrs. Rush Owen once wrote an article about the Kickapoos she knew which attracted considerable attention. The old St. Louis road has now become St. Louis street. "I remember," said the old man, "when it was St. Louis road from Dollison street Dollison being the eastern limit of the city. It was not old enough at the time to know why but the city council just before the civil war would not issue a saloon license but the county would. The city had two saloons then one

Roy Nelson Dies; Was Tomato-King Of Ozarks Region

In Ill Health for Several Years, He Dies of Heart Disease

Roy Nelson, 44, of Marshfield, one of the most widely known and admired men in all the Ozarks, and the first one to make a success of tomato-canning on a large scale, died at the Burge hospital here at 11:30 o'clock this morning of heart disease. Mr. Nelson had been in the hospital for about two and a half weeks, and had been in failing health for several years.

He was one of the most prominent tomato growers and canners in Southwest Missouri, and during the past 20 years had expanded to cover a large area with his industries.

How He Started

Mr. Nelson was born in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, January 24, 1883, and the family young man, Roy Nelson, attended college, and finished one full term. He went home and announced that he quitted he was not cut out for an education, and never returned to school. Instead, he began tomato-farming on a farm of his father's near Marshfield.

At about the time he came home from school, the Marshfield canning factory was started. Two or three years later, while it was still operating but with a disappointing lack of success, Roy Nelson bought an interest in it. Under his direction, it immediately began to progress, and within a short time the business expanded and other factories were established.

Active in Many Fields

His most recent operations have been in and near Crane, Mo., though he has kept his home at Marshfield. In addition to owning his farmlands for tomato growing, and establishing new factories, he also has a large general and dairy farm adjoining the city in place of at Marshfield, and has been official of National, Crane and Ponce de Leon banks.

Three years ago Mr. Nelson was made receiver for the Crane Canning industries when Case left the county involved in both business and personal scandal.

Mr. Nelson was notably religious, and had not missed attending Sunday school for 37 years. Even while in the hospital here, he insisted on getting up and going to Sunday school at Grace church the past two Sundays in places. During the course of his life, wherever he might be traveling, he always stopped over Sunday and attended Sunday school, wherever he was.

Was Fair Dealer

He was one of the largest contributors in the building of the Methodist church at Marshfield.

It is said that his success in business was largely due to his fairness and generosity with tomato growers with whom he had dealing. He did not agreed upon with the growers at the opening of the season. This year proved a good and profitable one, he paid the growers prices accordingly, even though these were

Mr. Nelson never spent much time outside his homeland, the Ozarks hills. Of late years, since his health has been failing, physicians have sent him to California and Florida, but every time he was back

Although he is worth an estimated at-half-a-million dollars, Mr. Nelson left no will.

He is survived by his wife, Felt Gilbert Nelson, who was a Marshfield girl; by his mother, Mrs. J. W. Nelson, now of Crane; and five sisters, Mrs. B. Frank Julian of Marshfield, Mrs. J. L. Johnson and Miss Myrtle Nelson, both of Crane, and Mrs. Mary Vinacke of Hamilton, Missouri, and Mrs. J. O. Robertson, of Santa Anna, Calif.

No funeral arrangements have yet been made, but the funeral will not be before Sunday.

CANNING LEADER, ROY NELSON, DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE

Ozarks Region Loses Man Most Instrumental in De- veloping Great Industry Throughout District

WITH the death of Roy Nelson, 46, of Marshfield in the Burge hospital here yesterday morning following an illness of heart disease, the canning industry of this region lost the man most instrumental in developing it from a losing proposition into one of the major interests of Ozarks agriculture.

Mr. Nelson entered the canning business nearly a quarter of a century ago, after he had finished a fall term at Drury college here. From school he returned to his home town of Marshfield and bought an interest in a canning factory that had just been started.

EXPANSION RAPID

Although the factory had been operating several years with disappointing results, consistent progress became apparent after Mr. Nelson took charge of its affairs. Continued expansion has been the record of the business until now the Nelson canneries may be found almost any place in the Ozarks.

His success is credited largely by his friends to the fair and generous manner in which he conducted his business and the big-hearted way he treated the growers from whom he obtained tomatoes. During good years for the canneries he would not hold to the contract prices agreed to by the growers at the time of planting but would allow them to benefit from the high prices along with his interests.

HERE TWO WEEKS

Although Mr. Nelson had been in falling health for several years he had been in the hospital here for only about two and a half weeks. He had never spent much time outside of the Ozarks. In recent years he had been sent by his physicians to California and Florida, but each time he found it almost impossible to stay more than two weeks.

His fortune is estimated at half a million dollars. He left no will.

Mr. Nelson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lola Gilbert Nelson, also a native of Marshfield; his mother, Mrs. J. W. Nelson, now of Crane; and five sisters, Mrs. B. Frank Julian of Marshfield, Mrs. J. L. Jenkins and Miss Myrtle Nelson, both of Crane, Mrs. Mary Vinacke of Hamilton, Montana, and Mrs. J. C. Robertson of Santa Ana, Calif.

The body will be sent to Indianapolis, Ind., for burial. Besides Mrs. Martin, Mr. Reynolds is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. H. E. Muffen, a missionary to Shanghai, China, and Mrs. J. R. Flowers of Scranton, Pa.

MRS. ELMYRA BAUGHMAN

Funeral services for Mrs. Elmyra Baughman, whose body is being sent here from Kansas City, will be held this morning from the Alma Lohmeyer funeral home and burial will be in Maple Park cemetery. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. P. Rieke.

RICHARD LIEPMAN and his son,

Paul C. Liepman, have in charge the oldest ready-to-wear shop for women in Springfield.

The Style was founded 26 years ago in the same block on Campbell avenue where it stands today. There had been a few other shops selling nothing but women's ready-to-wear in Springfield before that time, but those earlier stores later went out of existence, and The Style is the oldest store of that type in Springfield.

Mr. Liepman, Sr., recalls that when he started in business in the little shop, Campbell-street was unpaved. The store was across the street from the famous old "city lot" and frequently the street was very muddy. Mr. Liepman had come to this country from Germany at the age of 19 and went to work for his first employer in Marshfield and worked for Jake Rothchild at the old Boston store and then started his own business.

Women's ready-to-wear in that time consisted largely of skirts, blouses and coats. Dresses were little sold, Mr. Liepman said. Women did not buy as much clothing as they do now, and the variety of ready made garments was somewhat limited.

As the business grew, the building was enlarged. The concern has remodeled and enlarged its quarters four times, finally moving into the new building at the present site.

Paul Liepman has been with his father in the business several years. He went to Kemper Military school and also attended Drury college. He always planned to enter the business, and took commercial work in preparation for that career. He is now in charge of the downstairs store of the concern.

Mr. Liepman is a member of the Lions club and also of Masonic bodies, including the Abou Ben Adhem temple of the Shrine, and of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.

Rites for Nelson Likely to Be Held Monday Afternoon

Funeral services for Roy Nelson, 46, outstanding leader in the development of the canning industry of the Ozarks region, who died in Burge hospital here Thursday morning of heart disease, probably will be conducted Monday afternoon at Marshfield.

Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed today, but it was determined that burial would be at Marshfield, Mr. Nelson's home, under direction of the McMahan Undertaking company. The services will probably be held Monday afternoon, when they probably will be conducted in the Marshfield Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. Nelson had been a leading figure in the canning industry of the Ozarks for nearly a quarter of a century, since the time he finished a fall term at Drury college here, went home and bought an interest in a new canning factory at Marshfield. At the time of his death Nelson canneries were scattered widely over the Ozarks, and his fortune was estimated at half a million dollars.

Completion of funeral arrangements will await final word from relatives living in distant cities.

WOMAN, 94, DIES HERE; FUNERAL AT OLD HOME

Widow of Mexican War Veteran, Resident in One-House for 70 Years, Expires at Daughter's Home

Mrs. Sarah C. Burns, 94, who died at the home of her daughters here Thursday, will be buried Sunday afternoon from the village church at Nashville, Ill., of which she was the oldest and last charter member.

For the past three years, Mrs. Burns has lived here in Springfield with her daughters, Mrs. Laura E. Scott and M. May E. Miller, at 430 Kimbrough avenue.

70 Years in One Home

But for 70 years before that, she had lived in the same home in Nashville—the one prepared for her as a bride, when she was married to John C. Burns on January 10, 1855. He was a veteran of the Mexican war. They celebrated their golden wedding in the house, and had lived there together for 55 years when Mr. Burns died. Afterward, Mrs. Burns stayed on in the same home with her son, William H. Burns, until three years ago.

Mrs. Burns was born in Tennessee, March 24, 1835; and moved with her family to Illinois in childhood. She was one of 12 children. Even before coming to Springfield, she was the oldest resident of Nashville, and had been one of the organizers of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, there. My uncle used to own a farm which included about all of Cherry street and the famous spring at Cherry and Kimbrough, now filled up. Often it is wondered why the old time residents did not buy more property and hold it but the trouble was the old citizens did not have a law to enter the game as a rule."

MEMORIES GOAD YOUNG LAWYER TO TAKE LIFE

Deserting Family to Wed Stenographer. Fatally Shoots Himself

STRANGE TRIANGLE TOLD

Had Been Wed But Two Weeks After Leaving Wife, Three Children

The pretty young wife and three small children who little more than two weeks ago were robbed of their husband and father by the marriage of Dale E. Moberly, 35, prominent "self-made" lawyer and former prosecutor of Houston, Mo., to his stenographer, last night won him back, in death.

Haunted by memories of his first wife who obtained a divorce for desertion three weeks ago, and the children he left her, Moberly shot and mortally wounded himself late yesterday in a wood two miles south of Houston.

Wife and Ex-Wife Weep

Last night, as Moberly breathed his last in the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Salyer, parents of his bride of two weeks, the two women who had loved him wept quietly in homes only a few yards apart. His second wife, the girl who had been Sarah Jane Salyer, blue-eyed, brown-haired, attractive daughter of a Houston merchant, who became his stenographer a year ago, and after graduating from the college at Springfield, Mo., this morning.

At the home of an aunt a few doors away was the first Mrs. Moberly, the girl who left him at 18 and married Moberly at 16 or 17, when he was a rising young lawyer, and who lost him to Sarah Jane after bearing and mothering their three children. She did not see her former husband from the time he shot himself until his death, though the town whispered that she wished to be at his side before he died.

Perhaps, winning him back as he died, she wanted to murmur a message of forgiveness. But she did not go to him, and the town said pride and the pain of hurts still fresh and unhealed held her back.

With his last words Moberly ordered that his property, of which he left considerable, should go to his three children—all girls, one 5, one 3 and one 11 months old. Since their father and mother separated the children had been at the home of their mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Shacklett, west of Houston. After the Mrs. Moberly went back to high school at Houston to try to prepare herself so she might earn a living for them.

Kills Self in Woods

Returning toward Houston after a drive late Sunday afternoon with the girl he married two weeks ago Friday, Moberly stopped his car, stepped out and obtained his 16-gauge shotgun, declaring he was going to kill himself. Mrs. Moberly tried vainly to take the gun away from him, and he ran into the woods with it. There were a few fearful minutes of stillness, and then the girl heard a shot in the woods.

Running to Moberly, she found him lying on the ground, a bad wound in his body, but still alive. Alone Mrs. Moberly drove the two miles into Houston to summon Dr. E. P. Blankenship, Doctor Herron, and Doctor Theaster, and a crowd drove back with them as the news spread through the town. In the darkness the girl was unable to find the place where her husband lay and more than an hour passed before the dying man was found. His old friend, Forest Dunham, superintendent of schools at Raymondville, was first to reach him, and to him he confided that worry over his domestic troubles and his child-self. He asked Dunham to see that his property was left to the children.

Dies in Few Hours

Taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Salyer, parents of his second wife, he was semi-conscious until a short time before his death at 11 o'clock last night.

At the time of his death, Moberly was law partner of W. E. Barrett of Houston, former circuit judge. Reared at Summersville, near the Texas-Shannon county line, Moberly had never gone to law school but learned the profession by study in private law offices. For two terms he served as prosecuting attorney of Texas county, building up a reputation which gave him a good practice when he went out of office.

Has Relatives Here

Separating from his first wife not long ago, it is understood he told her she might get a divorce for desertion without a contest and that he agreed to payment of child support. He married Sarah Jane Salyer a few days after the decree was granted, and they went to St. Louis on their honeymoon.

Moberly's brother, John, now is prosecuting attorney of Shannon county at Eminence. Miss Mable Moberly, a sister, is a member of the faculty at State Teachers college here; another sister, Mary, formerly was a teacher in the Springfield schools, and several other brothers are in the west.

When Moberly stopped his car to kill himself he and his second wife were returning from the home of Mrs. Larry Cummings on Indian creek, two and a half miles from Houston.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

MANY ATTEND NELSON RITES

Simple but Impressive Services Are Arranged at Marshfield

Although plans had been kept as simple as possible, the funeral of Roy Nelson at Marshfield at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, was to be one of the largest and most impressive services ever held there. Huge quantities of flowers banked the Methodist Episcopal church where the service was to be, and about 150 out-of-town men already had arrived this morning to attend the service. They had come from all over the state, from St. Louis, Kansas City, and The Oarks region — associates and friends of Mr. Nelson.

Several Pastors Assist

The service was to be conducted by the Reverend R. S. Kendel, pastor of the Methodist church of which Mr. Nelson was a faithful and generous member. Mr. Kendel was to be assisted by the Reverend Alonzo Patterson, pastor of the Methodist south of Marshfield, by the Reverend A. D. Ball of St. Louis, a former pastor of his church and other visiting ministers come to the city for the occasion.

Miss Bessie Bloomer, organist at the Grace church, Springfield, and a schoolmate of Mrs. Nelson's, was to be the organist, and a Marshfield male quartet was to furnish special music.

Mrs. Douglas Weds

An informal wedding took place yesterday evening at the home of Mr. John McKee, when Mrs. Vera Douglas of this city became the bride of Mr. J. O. Hartley of Mountain Grove, Mo.

HAPPY 60 YEARS IN SAME HOUSE

Ozarks Couple Celebrates 60th Anniversary at Home Near Marshfield

In the same home where they had "set up housekeeping" as bride and groom 60 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Tom B. Turner Sunday were feted by more than 100 kinsfolk and neighbors in celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

The home is a Webster county farm on the James river, about 10 miles south of Marshfield. When young Tom Turner took his bride home there, 60 years ago, it was on a ten-acre clearing - the nucleus for the farm he has farmed ever since.

Mr. Turner is one of the six sons of Denny Turner, who came to Missouri from Tennessee in 1838. All six served in the Confederate Army. After returning from the war, Tom, at 25, was married on December 9, 1866. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend James P. Bidwell.

Huge Cake Provided

A first cousin, Mrs. Mary C. Dillard, of Springfield, was married on Sunday and illness Sunday prevented her attending her cousin's anniversary celebration. Only one of the wedding guests - now living Mrs. Cora Grier Vandell, who lives near Kansas City. She also was not able to share the festivities.

The home was gay with Christmas decorations for the occasion and an old-fashioned basket dinner was provided by the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Turner, with a group of about 200 relatives and friends, were seated at the table, while the rest of the guests were served cafeteria style. Between the aged couple...

...and a special wedding cake baked by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robbie Turner, who lives with them. Upon the cake were the letters "Sixtieth wedding anniversary" and 60 lighted candles.

Lauds His Good Nature

After the dinner there was a very informal program at which the two happy old persons recalled the satisfactions of their long life together. When they were married, he 25 and she 21, "we thought we were old enough to know what we were doing," Mr. Turner recalled, and added, "we think so yet." Mrs. Turner especially praised her husband's good nature and optimism, which comforted her through all troubles, she said.

T. C. Bassora of Rogersville, a pioneer school teacher who at one time courted the Turners' eldest daughter, made a reminiscent talk recalling the neighborhood and hospitality of the early days. The assembled guests joined in chorus singing of how from a "Round Top" and "The Old Reared Cross," Mrs. Harve Turner of Springfield sang "When You and I Were Young." Misses "2020" accompanied by Miss Neva White and Fannie Lea Pollock, a granddaughter played a solo on the old cabinet organ.

Radio For Anniversary

As a climax to the celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Turner were presented a fine radio as an anniversary gift.

Of the seven children born to them but two were there - Robbie, who lives with them on the old home place, and Mrs. Eva Williams, a daughter from Crane Mo. There were some greater grandchildren there, however, as well as nieces, nephews and cousins.

Descendants of the original Denny Turner now form a large tribe throughout this part of the Ozarks.

Moberly married Sarah Jane Salyer, his stenographer, two weeks ago. She was with him, when, returning to their home at Houston, he stopped the car and took his 15-gauge shotgun and fled into the woods, where he shot himself.

DIVIDES PROPERTY

Before he died, Moberly ordered that his property be divided among his three children—all girls—whom he left when he deserted the first wife.

Forrest Dunliven, superintendent of schools at Raymondville, an old friend, was one of the first to reach Moberly, where he lay in the woods with a wound in his side. The lawyer confided that worry over his domestic troubles and his children caused him to shoot himself.

Was Student Here

He died Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Salyer, parents of his second wife. The second wife, after completing a course at a Springfield business college, became Moberly's stenographer.

Moberly, who gained his legal knowledge in private law offices, served as prosecuting attorney of Texas county for two terms and made a good record. He was known to many Springfield attorneys. He had practiced in the courts here.

He is survived by a brother, John Moberly, prosecuting attorney of Shannon county; Miss Mable Moberly, a member of the faculty of the State Teachers' college here; another sister, Mary, who formerly taught in the Springfield schools, and several brothers living in the west.

PROBER SCOUTS FOUL PLAY TALK IN MAN'S DEATH

Stone County Prosecutor Convinced Youth's Demise Accidental, Although His Father Holds to Theory of Murder

Rumors that foul play may have played a part in the death of Elton Flood, 28-year-old James river guide who died of injuries, apparently suffered when his car plunged over an embankment near Galena November 27, are groundless. Prosecuting Attorney J. B. Norman declared at Galena today.

Since soon after Flood's death, Norman said, the rumors of some mysterious factor in the accident which killed him have persisted, "yet I was convinced at first and am now that there is nothing to the theory."

Questioned regarding reports that threatening letters were found in Flood's clothes after his death, Mr. Norman said the only communication was from California, where he said, "you when he received the letter, the robbery committee in Stone county."

Mr. Norman said he was a distant relative of Flood, son of Mack Flood, a former Stone county sheriff and treasurer, and because of this relation naturally had been very careful in investigating the action which killed the man. He went with a justice of the peace and a coroner's jury to the scene of the wreck of Flood's car immediately after the accident, he said, and "you could follow the tracks of the car along the highway and see where it dived off, all so plain that nothing else could have happened." A partly filled liquor bottle was found in Flood's hunting coat, according to the prosecuting attorney.

Father Suspects Murder

J. M. Flood, Elton Flood's father, has announced that a chemical analysis of spots found on two stones, picked up near the edge of the bluff where his son died, proved the spots to be human blood. He holds to a theory of murder, declaring his son, unwillingly, acted as an undercover agent for a group of federal prohibition officers last June.

'Flaming Youth' Episode

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGES FILED BY PROSECUTOR

Justice Fixes Bonds at $15,000
Following Hearing;
Women Knocked 30 Feet at Purdy Street Crossing

ONE woman is dead and another is in a critical condition as a result of being struck by an automobile occupied by two boys and two girl companions celebrating a "drinking party."

Mrs. W. H. Tucker, 75, prominent Purdy woman, was killed, and Mrs. H. M. Ray, 65, also member of a well known Purdy family, is not expected to live, attendants at a hospital at Monett where she was taken said last night.

AT CHURCH SESSION

The two elderly women had just left the First Baptist church Monday evening and were crossing one of the main streets at Purdy when the young people's car, which the officers said was speeding, struck them, knocking them about 30 feet.

The occupants of the car were continued down the street at its high rate of speed and on out the road toward Cassville for about two miles where it ran into a ditch. Following the wreck the two young couples were arrested by Constable Al Weeks, who had pursued them.

ASK $15,000 BONDS

Royal Ellis, Barry county prosecutor, said that the young people were intoxicated and that they have since admitted that they had been drinking "rather heavy" during the evening. When arraigned before Justice W. F. Carter yesterday their bonds were set at $15,000 each, but as they were unable to make them they were remanded to jail. Preliminary hearings will be held at Purdy Friday morning.

Mrs. Tucker is a sister-in-law of M. M. Strother, Purdy merchant, while Mrs. Ray is the mother of James Ray, hardware dealer.

Prosecutor Ellis said both boys were under parole by juvenile court for petty law violations. Stark, he said, had served a term in the reformatory at Boonville. Young Finn is a son of Ezra Finn, Monett grocer. The Kneel girl is a student of the Cassville high school.

Page 12: There is an article about Dr. Edgar Samuel Thompson, a graduate of Drury college. He is both physician and a lawyer.

Dr. Capt. Edgar Samuel Thompson, LL. D., continues to acquire knowledge and is now a lawyer as well as a doctor. The Charleston News thus tells the story:

"Captain Edgar Thompson, commanding officer of the naval hospital, and medical officer at the Charleston navy yard was one of the eleven candidates who successfully passed the state board examination for license to practice law in South Carolina, according to information received in Charleston from Columbia yesterday.

"Captain Thompson, who has served in the navy for 35 years, studied law at Georgetown Washington university, while attached to the marine barracks in Washington. Captain Thompson entered the university in 1926, at the same time his son, Edgar Thompson, Jr., began the study of law, and father and son were graduated with the degree of LL. B. in the class 1929. Edgar Thompson, Sr., who is now an attorney-at-law in Charleston, was admitted to the South Carolina bar in June, 1929, shortly after his graduation.

"While Captain Thompson does not intend to enter the active practice of law, he thought that since he had received a degree in law he should belong to the bar of some state, and chose South Carolina because of his present assignment to duty at the navy yard here."

Dr. Thompson graduated from Drury college in one of the early classes, one of the members of the class being Senator Thomas B. Love, the man who swung Texas into line for Hoover. Dr. Thompson owns property in Springfield and will return here when he retires and probably practice medicine. The doctor was associated with Doctor Osler, the celebrated surgeon during the war, the very person who wanted to kill off old people as useless. Doctor Osler kept active up to the time of his death and admitted to Doctor Thompson that he was wrong in declaring people of age were necessarily useless. Doctor Thompson asked Osler why he did not correct his former statement. Doctor Osler said he intended to but he never did. When Doctor Thompson graduated from Drury there were but four members of the senior class. Since going into the navy he has been in about every country in the world. With Osler in mind Doctor Thompson, in writing of his father, has passed the doctor's examination for a lawyer's license, writes:

"Us old fellows are not so bad after all."

WILD-DRIVING KILLS WOMAN, JAILS YOUTHS

Four Are Held in Default of Heavy Bonds After Auto Slaying; Confess Drinking Homebrew Before Starting for Drive

Four young people, two boys and two girls, are in the Barry county jail at Cassville awaiting preliminary hearing Friday on a manslaughter charge, after their car struck two Purdy women Monday night and killed one of them instantly.

Mrs. H. M. Rhea, 65, was "slightly improved" in a Monett hospital today, where she was treated for a fractured skull. Mrs. W. H. Tucker, 75, was killed.

Car Doesn't Stop

The occupants of the car were Eugene Starks, 21, and Herman Finn, 20, both of Monett; Flora Black, 17, and Edna Knee, 16, both of Cassville.

The two women were were crossing the street at Purdy about 9 o'clock Monday night after services at the Baptist church there when run down by the automobile, driven by Starks. They were thrown several feet from the speeding car, which continued through the town toward Cassville without stopping.

The two girls and Starks were taken into custody a half hour after the women were run down. They were arrested near where their car had run into a ditch a mile and a half south of Purdy on the highway. Constable Al Weeks had pursued the car. A. C. Holman, son of Sheriff W. H. Holman, of Barry county, and Deputy George Smith took them in charge.

Admit Drinking Beer

Finn, son of a Monett grocer, was arrested at the home of his father at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The four are being held in default of $15,000 bond each. A charge of manslaughter is expected to be filed by Royal Ellis, Barry county prosecutor. Justice of the Peace W. F. Carter of Purdy will hold the preliminary hearing Friday morning.

The four young people made no effort to deny the accusation, Sheriff Holman said today. They admitted they had been drinking "home brew" before the accident occurred. Starks is said by officers to have served a term in state prison about two years ago for shooting Chris Carter, aged man living near Cassville. Finn has also been in trouble before. The Knee girl is a Cassville High school student.

Mrs. Tucker was a sister-in-law of H. M. Strothers, Purdy merchant, and Mrs. Rhea is the mother of James Rhea, Purdy hardware dealer.

STEELVILLE MAN, WIFE ARE KILLED IN CAR, BUS CRASH

Parents of Mrs. Vincent M. Carroll Instantly Killed in Accident on Highway 40 Near Fulton, Mo.

FOUR PASSENGERS HURT AND TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Pair Returning From Home of Former Springfieldian Attempt to Get Car Back on Road After Skidding

COL. A. H. HARRISON, of Steelville, Mo., Ozark republican leader and director of the Missouri state penal board, and Mrs. Harrison were instantly killed at 5 40 o'clock last night when their automobile crashed into a Pickwick-Greyhound bus six miles north of Fulton. Col. Harrison was first identified by a letter and later by State Senator Nick Cave of Fulton.

Mrs. Harrison was thrown clear of the automobile while Col. Harrison was pinned between the wreckage of his machine and the front of the bus. His body was badly mangled.

ENROUTE TO CAPITAL

The Harrisons were enroute to Jefferson City from St. Louis, where they had visited their daughter, Mrs. William Carroll, wife of Vincent M. Carroll, assistant to the president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company. They had left St. Louis about 3 o'clock.

Vincent Carroll, former Springfield newspaperman and son of Mrs. M. V. Carroll, 838 South Fremont avenue, was notified of the tragedy early this morning as he passed through here on the Princeton route to Arkansas for a conference of Bell officials. He returned immediately to Jefferson City when informed by M. R. Mann, district manager of the Bell company here.

Harold McNamee, driver of the bus, said he saw the Harrison machine approaching but paid scant attention to it as it was on the right side of the concrete highway. As the bus and the sedan were about to pass, McNamee said the auto suddenly swerved and crashed head-on into the bus. He told officers it appeared Col. Harrison, who was driving, attempted to bring his car back onto the pavement after the right wheels had left the pavement. McNamee had left Fulton a short time before for Kingdom City, a mile north of the crash, where the bus would have turned on highway 40 for St. Louis.

Four passengers on the bus were bruised and shaken up and taken to Callaway county hospital here for emergency treatment. No names were obtained by hospital authorities.

Col. Harrison was an attorney practicing at Steelville, when he was appointed director of the state penal board by former Governor Baker.

The Harrisons had one child, Mrs. Vincent M. Carroll of St. Louis. Mrs. Harrison is survived by her mother, Mrs. M. S. Coppage, 80, and her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lantern, 97, both of whom were spending the winter with the Harrisons here. Their home is in Steelville.

Ben J. Harrison, of Springfield, president of the Model grocery stores, is a nephew of the accident victims.

Funeral services will probably be held at the family home at Steelville where Col. Harrison practiced law for many years and also served as prosecuting attorney of the county. He also represented it in the state legislature many years ago, during a shakeup at the Missouri penitentiary.

CORONER'S VERDICT

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of unavoidable accident saying "Mr. Harrison was driving safely on his side of the highway and the bus on its side of the road, both at a reasonable rate of speed and the Harrison car apparently swerved directly in the path of the bus."

Poisoning Is Fatal To Former Athlete Of Springfield High

Frank Maxwell, 18, former high school student here who was active in track, athletics, died from blood poisoning at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in Camp Hill, Pa., according to a message received yesterday by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Mehl, 615 East Walnut street.

The youth was a son of J. Trumbull Maxwell, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Pennsylvania and former association extension worker here. The father also had been active in Y. M. C. A. work in the Philippine Islands.

The family left here last August and prior to that the boy had made a trip around the world.

Miss Gladys Mehl, an aunt, left here yesterday for Pennsylvania to attend the funeral services. Information as to how the young man had contracted the infection had not been received.

In attendance, besides the sons and daughters, were grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren and many other relatives and friends.

MAN, 86, SLAIN FOR PROPERTY, IS ADMISSION

Confessions that they murdered E. E. Trimmer, 86-year-old cabinet maker of Pomona, Mo., to obtain control of his property, were made to officers at West Plains last night by Mrs. Charles Trimmer, 45, daughter-in-law of her victim, and Sylvester James, 34, her son by a former marriage.

James, who only Tuesday had been released from the county jail at West Plains after being held there for cruelty to the old man, broke down at 9 o'clock last night and signed a confession admitting he and his mother plotted Trimmer's death and that Tuesday they poisoned a poached egg served to him.

Woman Finally Breaks

The mother, arrested a short time after her son's confession by Police Chief J. H. Bridges and Constable Ella Berberling of West Plains, faced a long grilling by officers last evening. Although she was silent until 7 o'clock this morning she, too, signed a detailed confession.

James and his mother declared they came to Springfield and purchased a quantity of poison December 3, to "poison a dog." They confessed that they decided to "bury along" the death of E. E. Trimmer, who had been in poor health for several months, and that Tuesday night James obtained the poison from an outbuilding where it had been hidden and his mother put some of it upon a poached egg for Trimmer.

Trimmer ate only a few bites of the dish brought to him by his son, Charles Trimmer, whom James and Mrs. Trimmer both said knew nothing of the plot. He said it made him sick at his stomach, went into convulsions a few minutes later and died within an hour.

Arrested for Cruelty

Sylvester James, who with his mother formerly lived at Blackwell, Okla., only a week ago had been arrested by Sheriff C. R. Keller and Police Chief Bridges of West Plains at the request of citizens of Pomona, including his foster father, Charles Trimmer. The citizens protested that he had been cruel and abusive to the elder Trimmer and requested that he be locked up at West Plains. He was released Tuesday evening and went immediately to his home at Pomona.

Angered at his stay in jail he and his mother, officers said, apparently decided then that "now is the time to do it."

The old man, able to move only a little about the house, called for something to eat, and they gave him the poisoned egg.

Question Neighbors

Investigation of the death came when the undertaker, contacted from Willow Springs, could not obtain the attending physician's signature to a death certificate Wednesday. Judge George Halstead, police judge and acting coroner of West Plains, went to Pomona to investigate. After questioning neighbors, James and his mother for several hours, Halstead arrested the youth and brought him to West Plains. A grilling, and the confession followed.

The victim of the poison plot had lived about 20 years at Pomona, which is about 11 miles northwest of West Plains. He was widely known and well liked in the neighborhood, and owned several small pieces of property. His son, Charles Trimmer, who is bitter toward his wife and her son as a result of the slaying, is a blacksmith.

The two confessed slayers are being held in the Howell county jail at West Plains without bond. County Attorney Green this morning went to Pomona to conduct an inquest into Trimmer's death at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Trace Poison Here

James could not remember definitely in his confession what poison he obtained for the murder. Officers at West Plains asked that any Springfield druggist whose records show a sale of poison to him or his mother notify them immediately.

Officers said the young man insisted the motive for the murder was to get possession of Trimmer's property. Chief Bridges said Mrs. Trimmer thought all the old man's property would go to her husband, and that through him she could get it for herself and her son.

James, after confessing, seemed calm and untroubled over his own fate. Chief Bridges said he "looked no more worried than if he had killed a dog. Like he said he bought the poison for," Mrs. Trimmer, however, was "excitable" and "hysterical" at times.

AWAIT ANALYSIS BEFORE BRINGING MURDER CHARGES

Special Dispatch to The News.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Dec. 13.

Although a mother and her son are held in jail here in connection with the death of an 86-year-old cabinet maker, whom they say they poisoned, Howell county officers are not thoroughly convinced that the aged man died an unnatural death.

Despite the confessions, Prosecutor H. D. Green announced he would not file charges against Mrs. Laura Trimmer and Sylvester James, her son, until he had made a chemical analysis of the stomach of the woman's father-in-law, E. E. Trimmer of Pomona.

BEFORE PLOT:

Should the analysis fail to show any trace of poison and no other incriminating evidence is uncovered, the prosecutor indicated that he might hesitate to bring charges.

Investigations made today by officers together with additional information received from questioning of James, caused the officers to believe it possible that Trimmer died a natural death before the woman and her son were able to carry out their plot to kill him, and that they, becoming conscience-stricken and afraid, confessed.

VERY OLD VIOLIN

The prosecutor put little faith in James' statement that he and his mother killed Trimmer in order to get possession of his property. It was learned that the cabinet maker left only a small estate, valued at only a few hundred dollars. A bank deposit contained barely enough cash to defray his burial expenses.

On the other hand, however, it was discovered today that Trimmer owned a very old violin, which, according to friends, the old man treasured as his most valuable possession. If the inscription on the inside is genuine, the violin is a Stradivarius, made in 1607. Should it prove to be a genuine Stradivarius, it would be of great value.

Officers said there would have been little point in killing the aged man for the violin. It was learned that the woman knew that Trimmer was to bequeath the instrument to her son.

50 YEARS OLD

Charles Trimmer, son of the dead man, and husband of the woman held, does not know where his father obtained the violin. He only knows that his father owned and played it for 50 years or more and that he brought it to Pomona with him from Parma, N. Y., thirty years ago.

Officers declared that if the chemical analysis of the man's stomach did not reveal poisoning, it would be difficult for the state to show at a trial that he had been poisoned. For that reason they are awaiting the report of the analysis before taking any further steps.

Since he had been in custody James has made many contradictory and conflicting statements relative to details of the affair. At first he said he purchased the poison in Springfield, but later declared that his mother had bought it at Mountain Grove, Mo. Investigation of druggists' records at Mountain Grove fail to reveal such a sale.

SON IS INDIFFERENT

Trimmer was in poor health and was feeling as well as usual Tuesday, the day that he died, officers said.

While the woman sits in her cell sobbing and crying hysterically, her son, James, appeared to be dazed or indifferent. Neither have made a husband, visited the pair.

It was learned today that Charles met and became engaged to his wife through a "marriage bureau" correspondence. She formerly lived in Oklahoma.

Pomona is much excited over the poisoning case. "Dad" Trimmer, as the old man was familiarly known, was highly esteemed in the community. Little is known about him there except that he was a highly skilled mechanic and cabinet maker. He was well preserved mentally and physically.

$450 'FORTUNE' FOUND MOTIVE FOR POISONING

Howell County Prosecutor
Learns What Led to Aged Man's Death

WOMAN, SON CONFESSES

Murder Was Plotted to Cover Theft of Money.
Inquiry Reveals

BULLETIN

A large quantity of strychnine caused the death of E. E. Trimmer, aged Pomona watchmaker who died mysteriously at his home Tuesday night, authorities at West Plains were notified today by the Glidewell Chemical company of St. Louis, which conducted a chemical analysis of the murdered man's stomach.

A telephoned report said Trimmer's stomach was lined with the poison.

With this information in their hands, the Howell county officials are expected to proceed at once with the coroner's inquest into Trimmer's death.

year-old watchmaker who died suddenly. Trimmer, who was in serious condition, was taken to the hospital. Mrs. Laura James Trimmer, and her son, Sylvester James, sought to cover up a theft of $450 Mrs. Trimmer had committed against her father-in-law.

Such was the charge today of H. D. Green, Jr., with his announcement that a motive for the poisoning of Trimmer had been more clearly established with a further confession by Mrs. Trimmer. The additional confession of Mrs. Trimmer, Mr. Green said, was that she and her son entered into the poison plot to cover up the theft from the old man. Mrs. Trimmer said, according to the prosecutor, that she had taken money belonging to her father-in-law, who had placed a part of the cash in a tool chest and the remainder in a trunk.

Victim Is Buried

Mrs. Trimmer and the son had said originally that they poisoned the aged man to obtain his estate, which, it developed, was very small.

The body of the poison victim was buried yesterday, but completion of a coroner's inquest today awaited a report upon an analysis of the stomach of the dead man.

Both Mrs. Trimmer and her son are held in jail on first degree murder charges. They have not as yet obtained counsel, and Charles Trimmer, husband of the accused woman and only son of the victim, has not yet visited them. No date for a preliminary hearing has been set.

There is a photo of and an article about the old Harwood house where plans for founding Drury college were made. The house was at 831 Benton avenue. That would be on the southwest corner of Benton and Brower--across from the I. N. Smith house at 830 Benton avenue. The article says the house was on the corner of Benton and Sycamore. The name of Sycamore Street was changed to Brower Street all across town for the sake of consistency. Various houses have been claimed as the place where Drury college was founded. One such is on page 297. This house at 831 Benton avenue is most likely to be the true one. Actually I doubt if the founders merely met one day and decided to found a college. They probably discussed it many times whenever they met in various places.

House Where Meeting Held to Organize Drury Razed to Make Way For Progress

The old Harwood home on Benton avenue.

Oldest Member of Board of Trustees Recalls Day When Leaders Gathered There to Dis- cuss College for Springfield

AT 831 Benton avenue an old house is being razed. It is just a plain, old-fashioned frame house—not very big and not very impressive. It is probable that few persons even stop to notice that another old place is being torn down to make way for "progress"—

But the old house itself represented "progress" in its day; and there are a few sentimental old-timers that sigh for its vanishing—to them it is a landmark, and sight of its dismantlement sets them reminiscing.

For it was in the parlor of this house that Drury college was born. The event is recorded by Arthur P. Hall, in the historical address he made at the celebration of Drury's semi-centennial in 1923, in the following words:

MEET IN 1873

On March 6, 1873, there met in Mr. C. E. Harwood's home, at the corner of Benton and Sycamore, a company of men. A charter based on those of Oberlin and Olivet colleges was presented by Dr. (N. J.) Morrison and adopted. The incorporators were James H. Harwood, Edwin T. Robberson, W. Irving Wallace, Holland B. Fry, Charles E. Harwood and Samuel P. Drury. On April 1, these gentlemen named the first board of trustees. . . seven were Springfield men. One of the seven was Charles E. Harwood. He is still one of the board of trustees—the only one who has served during the entire life of the college.

Mr. Harwood built the old house in the early fall of 1868. Springfield was a town of about 3000, and growing fast. This was the first house in the block, and there are some in Springfield today who recall that Mr. Harwood planted the trees that have made the street beautiful since before the turn of the centuries.

Mr. Harwood already had been in Springfield for two years—living in a tiny house on South street built of two log cabins. By walling up the space between the cabins a third room was achieved.

RECALLS FIRST HOME

Last May Mr. Harwood, 99, here for the Drury commencement, recalled his first days in that makeshift cottage, which had five outside doors and three winds—so that even after 60 years, he remembered first the generous ventilation!

For many years the Harwoods lived in the new home on Benton and Sycamore, and it was a center for the social and cultural life of the city. Even in those days it was a comparatively modest home, and very simple furnished—for the trip from the east was long, and the greater part of the household goods had been left behind.

But the Harwoods attracted friends, and life was full and merry, even though simple. Mr. Harwood was closely interested in the development of Drury college, and also of the Congregational church—of which his brother, James Harwood, was the first pastor.

Mrs. Lee Holland, an eager, curious youngster in those days, well remembers hours spent in the Harwood home—and especially Mrs. Harwood's activity on behalf of church bazaars. She was newly from the east, and brought with her many novel ideas which proved immensely popular. Among the things she contributed to the bazaars were spice baskets, watch pockets, and lamp mats. Mrs. Holland remembers with amusement also that Mrs. Harwood was the most amazing butter-maker she ever saw. She could achieve butter simply by a few casual stirs of the ladle and without even churning it!

Mr. Harwood prospered, and a few years later built a much more pretentious home, further out on Benton avenue, at the northwest corner of Benton and Lynn street—the house now proudly occupied by the Sigma Nu fraternity.

OTHERS LIVED THERE

After the Harwoods moved out, the house was owned and occupied successively by the J. M. Dolings, the C. W. Thrashers, and the W. S. Thompsons. Miss Alice Thrasher, now registrar of Drury college and a member of the board of trustees, spent pleasant girlhood years there; and it was from her that the Thompsons bought the house in 1902, to put their young son, Wilmer, in school at Drury.

It was Wilmer Thompson, now an architect here, who sold the house last week to W. R. Sims, realtor and wrecker, who is now tearing it down. He has not lived there, but has rented the place, for the past seven years—since the death of his parents. For oldtime's sake, however, Wilmer Thompson took out for himself the old walnut staircase, before selling the house. If he ever builds another house of his own, that staircase will be a part of it—to add a touch of tradition and sentiment. He admits that it was a sentimental thing to do; but after all, he lived in the house for 20 years—and well, that's the way things are.

When Mr. Harwood visited Drury last spring, he went back to the old house with Dr. T. W. Nadal, Drury president and his host—the years vanished, and vividly he pointed out the exact spots in the old southeast parlor where each of the college founders sat the night Drury originated.

So after 60 years the old house is being scrapped—outlived by the man who built it—which in itself is some unusual sort of comment on evanescence.

Funeral Services For Sills Funeral Still Incomplete

Funeral arrangements were delayed for Mrs. John M. Sills, member of an old Springfield family who died Saturday, pending arrival of the body here from the Sills home in Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Mrs. Sills was the daughter of Joseph Fisher, Sr., Springfield lumberman who died several years ago. Her husband was a former division engineer for the Frisco railway here, but moved to New York a year ago last September to become a member of the brokerage firm of John Muir and Company. Her death followed a complication of illnesses after a recent operation.

Surviving, besides the husband, and son, John Fisher Sills, are her mother, Mrs. Stattie M. Fisher of Springfield and a brother, Joe Fisher, also of Springfield. Burial is expected to be in the family plot in Maple Park cemetery here.

Mrs. Sills was known here as a soprano singer. She studied voice in the Drury college conservatory, and under Mrs. Florence Doling and Charles H. Scholfield here, and under Miss Bertha Farner and the Italian Madame Valeria in Chicago. She did radio work here and in Chicago. She studied piano under Miss Birdie Atwood here, sang in the Tabernacle Presbyterian church choir, and was active in the Springfield Musical club.

Zella Crenshaw Weds Mr. Zapf

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Zella Crenshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dicken W. Crenshaw, 430 Holman street, to Mr. Carl Zapf of Oklahoma City.

The marriage vows were read December 4 at Oklahoma City where Mr. and Mrs. Zapf will make their home.

WIDOW OF NELSON TO MANAGE ESTATE OF OZARKS CANNER

14 Plants and Large Acreage
Worth More Than $500,000,
Officials Say; 1929 Pack
Worth $650,000

THE estate of Roy Nelson, Ozarks "tomato king" of Marshfield who died here recently, was more than a half-million dollars, and included 14 tomato-canning factories mostly in Stone, Taney, and Douglas counties, and farms aggregating 2200 acres in Stone county and nearly 800 acres in Webster county near Marshfield. The general office of all his tomato interests is at Grand Mo., in charge of Porter Lucas, who was for many years Nelson's secretary.

Nelson died without leaving a will. He had realized the uncertainties of his health for some time, and was most certain that his unique organization would be destroyed to have been largely in his hands. Each of his plants was operated by a resident on a profit-sharing basis, and many of these managers have been with him for years.

HER KIN TO AID

It is also pointed out that two brothers-in-law, Frank Julian and Robert Florence, both of Marshfield, have been closely associated with him in business for years, and are thoroughly familiar with his operations. Mr. Julian has large canning interests in Webster county; and Mr. Florence has been interested in canning as well as in other businesses.

There is a general assumption that Mrs. Nelson, with the assistance of these two, will administer the estate.

During the past summer, Mr. Nelson's factories packed 350 carloads—which is 350,000 cases, or 700,000 dozen cans—of tomatoes; a $650,000 pack.

It is said that in his development of the tomato industry, Mr. Nelson proved himself the largest producer of new wealth in the Ozarks.

Helen Lewis, Dr. Bocquin, To Marry

A WEDDING of interest to a number of Springfield people will be celebrated Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Fayetteville, Ark., when Miss Helen Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lewis of that city, becomes the bride of Dr. Theurer Martin Bocquin of Memphis, Tenn. The wedding vows will be read at the home of the bride's parents before an improvised altar of lillies and ferns. Calla lillies will be the favored flower used in the decorations.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Henry Tovy is to play several selections, and Mr. Charles McGill will sing two vocal solos. Mr. Tovy will also play Lohegrin's wedding march, as the bridal party enters the room.

The bride has chosen an ivory satin gown made colonial style, with a tight bodice and a bouffant skirt for her wedding dress. Soft Viennese lace forms a panel down the front of the skirt, and outlines the quaint drooping shoulder neckline. Her veil of ivory tulle will be held in place by a small lace tiara. Her bouquet is to be an old fashioned bouquet of white roses.

Her maid of honor, Miss Mary Burton George, of Springfield, is to wear peach taffeta, also made bouffant style, and she will carry long stemmed bride's roses. Mr. Herbert Lewis, brother of the bride, will be best man. The flower girls, little Mary Lou Saylor and Jane Claire Brown, are to wear pink and blue taffets dressae, and carry pastel baskets of rose petals.

The ring bearer, little Herbert Lewis, Jr., will wear a suit of egg shell satin and carry the ring in a calla lily, on a pillow of egg shell satin.

Mr. Tovy will play softly through the ceremony, and will play Mendelsachn's wedding march for the occasion.

The young couple are to leave immediately after the ceremony for a trip to New Orleans. After spending the holidays there, they will be at home in Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Lewis attended Northwestern University, is a graduate of the University of Arkansas, and has degrees in piano and pipe organ. She is a member of the Chi Omega sorority, and province president of Sigma Alpha Iota, national musical sorority.

Doctor Bocquin is head of the dental section of the Lecoy Clinic, and consultant dentist of St. Joseph's hospital in Memphis. Immediately after the war he attended the University of Arkansas and later attended the University of Tennessee college of Dentistry. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota. He served one year as professor of oral surgery in the University of Tennessee. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, the Blackfriars, Chi St Phi, Seabard and Blade, Omega Eta Mu, and of Mu Delta Phi, an honorary dental fraternity.

Miss Lewis is a cousin of Miss Mary Burton George and has often visited in Springfield where she has a number of friends.

HARRISON RITES ATTENDED BY 2000

Former Political Opponent of
G. O. P. Leader One of Pallbearers

By The Associated Press

STEELVILLE, Mo., Dec. 14.—Ashley H. Harrison, 60, director of the state penal board, and his wife who were killed near Fulton, Mo., Wednesday in an automobile crash, were buried here today in the Steelville cemetery following funeral services at Jefferson City and here, earlier in the day.

2000 At Funeral

The services here were conducted in the Presbyterian church by the Steelville Masonic lodge. The church was filled and many people were forced to remain outside during the services. The church service was conducted by the Rev. S. L. Roper of Steelville assisted by the Rev. Dr. McIvor of St. Louis. Judge W. E. Barton conducted the Masonic services.

The caskets were borne by 12 active pallbearers and 22 honorary pallbearers took part in the ceremonies.

Trucks Haul Flowers

It was estimated the crowd in and about the church during the services numbered 3000, and it was the largest funeral in the history of Steelville. Three truckloads of floral tributes were brought from Jefferson City while many other floral pieces were sent by friends here and in other parts of the state.

Among the active pallbearers was Harry Clymer, one of Mr. Harrison's oldest friends and his first political opponent. The two men opposed each other thirty-five years ago for the office of prosecuting attorney and travelled about the county together in their campaigns. Harrison won by thirty votes. They had been fast friends since that time and their law offices joined each other here.

JURY AT INQUEST QUICKLY ACCUSES PAIR IN POISONING

Chemist's Report That Strychnine Found in Stomach of Murdered Man Convinces
Jurors of Guilt

ARMED with a chemist's analysis showing that E. E. Trimmer, aged and decrepit Pomona watchmaker, was killed by a heavy dose of strychnine, the state had little trouble Saturday afternoon in obtaining a coroner's jury verdict branding the man's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Laura James Trimmer, and her son, Sylvester James, 24, as the slayers.

An inquest into the death of Trimmer, who was 86 years old, feeble and ill when he went into convulsions suddenly and died within an hour at his home in Pomona Tuesday night, was conducted at Pomona by Judge George Halstead of West Plains, acting coroner of Howell county. The jury's verdict, quickly returned, was that the old man came to his death as the result of strychnine poisoning, plotted by Mrs. Trimmer and her son.

OUTCOME SEEMS CERTAIN

The inquest leaves the fate of Mrs. Trimmer and her son pretty much of a formality. The state's case against them appears extremely strong, based upon neighbors' knowledge of old antagonism and cruelty toward the elder Trimmer, the pair's confessions of guilt and the report which came Saturday

Louis chemist, detected that the old man's stomach contained strychnine. Mrs.

One of the strange bits of testimony brought out at the coroner's inquest was the story told by Charles Trimmer, son of the slain man and husband of the woman held as a killer. He has not gone about his wife since her arrest, and though hiring an attorney to guard his own interests in the case he has made no move to obtain counsel for his wife or for James.

MAN FORGETS TO STEP OFF MEETS DEATH

Identified as St. Louis Representative of Photo Company

John A. Howard, 23-year-old salesman for a St. Louis company, was instantly killed at 8 o'clock this morning when he was crushed between a ceiling and a pulling wheel on a belt elevator in the Lampe-Birkenback garage building.

Young Howard, who registered at the Bowler hotel last Tuesday, left his room this morning and went directly to the Lampe-Birkenback building where his automobile had been stored on the top floor last night.

"Forget to Get Off"

Employee said he mounted one of the automatic elevators, turned on the current, and disappeared through the hole in the second floor. A few minutes later workmen heard his cries and rushed to the top floor where they found his body trapped between the pulling wheel and the ceiling. Workmen encountered much difficulty in releasing the body, Mr. Lampe said.

Following an investigation, County Coroner Murry C. Stone said he believed Howard met death as the result of "forgetting to get off the elevator before it crossed the wheel and started its trip downward."

Body Is Identified

The body was taken to the Herman H. Lohmeyer funeral home where a search of the dead man's clothing revealed an identification card. Howard's address in St. Louis, according to the card, is "American Annex hotel," Hy. C. Sutherland of Portageville, Mo., whose name was written on the card under the heading "Notify In Case of Accident," had not answered a telegram from Coroner Stone at noon today.

Soon after the accident, employees of a photographer's shop called at the Lampe-Birkenback building to see the body and declared that Howard had called upon their employer many times. The W. Schiller firm, which he represented, distributes photographers' supplies.

A coroner's jury summoned this morning by Constable Scott Curtis include Jeff Harris, Howard Curtis, G. W. Darnell, Jess Teaff, Ellis Mitchell and D. S. Smalley. The inquest will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Herman H. Lohmeyer funeral home.

Not for Customers

The elevator was not constructed to accommodate customers, Mr. Lampe said this morning, and is not to be used by persons not employed by him.

ELEVATOR DEATH BLAME IS PLACED UPON VICTIM HERE

Young Salesman Crushed Between Wheel and Roof at Top of 'Manlift' in Garage Here

THE death of John A. Howard, 23-year-old salesman for a St. Louis firm, who was instantly killed yesterday morning when he was crushed between a ceiling and the top wheel of a belt elevator at the Lampe-Birkenback garage building, was not blamed to fault of anyone else, a coroner's jury decided yesterday afternoon following an inquest at the Herman H. Lohmeyer funeral home. The probe was in charge of Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner.

The young man had been staying at the Bowles hotel since Tuesday. Apparently he went directly from his room to the Lampe-Birkenback building where his car had been stored on the top floor overnight.

FOR HALF HOUR.

Nothing was known of the fatal accident for perhaps half an hour after it occurred. Employees of the firm noticed that the elevator was out of commission but supposed that was due to a fuse having blown out.

Floyd Dupree, a negro employe, discovered the body wedged tightly between ceiling and the elevator wheel. As he started for the ground floor he encountered C. A. Knowles, garage mechanic, and called his attention to the discovery. The two hastened to the office to summon the Lohmeyer ambulance.

Witnesses called at the inquest were M. W. Birkenback and G. W. Lampe, proprietors of the garage; Knowles and Dupree; and Doollin Gorman, member of the ambulance crew which removed the body.

LIFT APPROVED

Mr. Birkenback testified that the elevator had been examined and approved recently by a state elevator inspector and by an insurance examiner. He declared that the rules of the establishment provide that patrons wait in the office while employes bring their cars from upper floors of the building.

The coroner's jury summoned by Constable Scott Curtis included: Jeff Harris, Howard Curtis, G. W. Darnell, Jesse Teaff, Ellis Mitchell and D. S. Smalley.

Relatives of Howard were expected to arrive here this morning from Portageville, Mo. The young man represented the St. Louis firm of W. Schiller as salesman for photographers' supplies.

BALTIMORE HOTEL 'MYSTERY DEATH' PROBED BY STONE

The Succumb to Strange Ill-ness After Being Removed From Room to Baptist Hospital Ward

MYSTERY last night surrounded the death of Gilbert I. Butterfield, 55, who succumbed to a strange illness at 4:30 o'clock in the Springfield hospital, little more than an hour after he had been taken there from the Baltimore hotel on College street in a W. L. Starne ambulance.

Whether he died of alcoholism, had committed suicide by taking poison or was the victim of an unusual malady had not been determined by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, in a preliminary investigation.

RELATIVES NOTIFIED

The body is being prepared for burial at the Herman H. Lohsbeyer funeral home. It is thought that relatives at Coolidge, Ariz., who have been notified, may be able to shed some light on the circumstances.

Butterfield registered at the Baltimore hotel last Saturday, according to employes there, and had spent much of the time since then in his room. He was out one day, however, they said, when he had an automobile collision in which his machine lost a wheel. The man was said to have been ill for the past three days.

FIND EMPTY BOTTLES

Dr. A. Armstrong was called to the hotel about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when Butterfield's condition became alarming. An examination convinced the doctor, he said last night, that the patient had been drinking alcoholic liquids. Doctor Armstrong said he found two empty bottles in the room one of which had contained a flavoring extract and the other hair tonic or a similar preparation.

Alarmed when Butterfield became unconscious shortly after noon, those at the hotel summoned Dr. S. F. Freeman, Doctor Freeman said last night that he found the man's body decidedly rigid and that he had a temperature of 102 degrees. Removal to the hospital was ordered.

Papers found in Butterfield's clothing by Doctor Stone indicated that he had been working last month as a fireman near Lebanon. Prior to that he apparently had been employed at Broken Arrow, Okla.

Letters were found in his pocket from Mrs. Jessie Luthy of Coolidge, Ariz., who is thought to be a sister of the dead man. She was notified of the death.

Coroner Stone said his investigation of the case probably would be completed today.

THE WASTEBASKET

Into which are often tossed things well worth while.

Theodore G. Rechow, a lawyer in the city of Peoria, has just reached the age of 83. In publishing his memoirs,
Mr. Rechow is probably as well known as any lawyer in the Ozarks and has appeared in about every court in this district. He was born in Peoria but came to this country at an early age. He tells something of how they worked in the good old days—the days some people find for a gain. He says:

On the 3rd of December, 1860, I was apprenticed to a Mr. Engler, of Cassville, Wisconsin for a term of three years and was to receive $20 for the first year, $30 for the second, and $50 for the third. Mr. Engler was a fine fellow and a fine shoemaker, but he had a red-headed wife, and, like some other red-headed women; she was all tow and fire, and industry personified; there seemed to me to be no limit of work that she could do, and she seemed to think that I ought to be able to do as much work as she was, but I could not, either from lack of strength or indolence. From September until April we worked nights, often until midnight. Mr. Engler took the New York Staats Zeitung, a large four-page German sheet, at that time about three feet square, a page of which was devoted to a continued story of daring deeds during the revolution; this was the only paper we had. The paper usually came on Thursdays, and, as we worked until after midnight, the nights that the paper came I usually sat up the balance of the night to read the story. During the winter of 1860 and 1861, U. B. Grant who was at that time in the leather business at Galena, Illinois, with some of his people, visited at our shop to sell Mr. Engler some stock and dined there. This is the only time I ever ate with, or saw, anybody that was afterwards president of the United States, and the only time, with the exception of Grover Cleveland that has been president. He did not impress me very much, was a rough, large, coarse-looking specimen of man. When I saw Grant, I never dreamed of him making a great commander and president.

My father was a soldier in the Civil war, coming in Springfield. He was too young for a soldier but he got into service just the same. He thus tells of the incident:

"Just at the time I was discharged as a teamster a recruiting office was opened at Springfield to recruit new Company B. On the 14th of July, 1863, I presented myself for enlistment. When I went into the office the regular recruiting officer E. S. Stover, afterwards my captain, was not in, but Sgt. Buess, a sergeant from Company H, was in charge. I told him what I wanted to do and he told me to have a wait, that the officer was out, but would be in soon; so I waited. Soon Stover came in, and the sergeant introduced me and told him what I wanted; he scanned me closely—I was only sixteen years old and small to my age, so he said that I was too small and too young to begin the company with, as I was the first recruit to enlist in the new company. I at once commenced an argument with him; told him I had been driving six mules for several months and that a fellow that could drive a six-mule team surely could ride a horse and carry a sabre, carbine and revolver. My argument prevailed and I was accepted. The first service performed was to go out with Sergeant Buess on recruiting service to Polk county; we were up here several days, and were at the homes of several who afterwards enlisted in the company. The company assembled camped at Fort No. 4, located where the South Street Christian church now stands. We drilled considerably, but did no other service of consequence until the Shelby raid about the first of October.

When word came that Shelby had been at Neosho and burned the court house and was moving north-east, our captain got orders for our company to get two sections of a battery out of the arsenal, which was at a church on Boardman street near where we were camped. We got the four pieces, horses and equipments and, with other commands, started in pursuit; and fell in behind him at Stockton, where we got early in the morning, while the old court house was burning. From there we went to Humansville, and from there to Quincy, we camped here."

ANDREW RENORE: "I came over from Genoa a few days ago after an absence of nearly two years in Italy and will be home here for about two months when I will return. Genoa is the home town of Columbus and is a live, progressive city. Italy is an industrious, prosperous country compared to what it was just after the war. Then the country seemed ruined. Business seemed forever ruined, officials were corrupt. Then came the reign of terror. There is a different character that he is. It has been said that while Italy has been placed on a firmer and more prosperous basis the people have lost their liberties. While the people are more restrained I think it is for the best. Sometimes people have too much liberty and they are lost. While away a great deal Springfield is still my home and my family are all

AFTER friends and relatives had spent a day searching for him, the body of J. Warren Swift, 45, former bank cashier at Reeds Spring and cousin of Dr. Carl B. Swift, dean of the Bible school at Drury college, was found in a barn yesterday noon with a shotgun wound in the temple.

It is believed that Swift committed suicide. No cause for the act was known, and no note explaining the action was found, officers said.

BORROWED SHOTGUN

Mr. Swift borrowed a shotgun from a friend Monday morning. He explained that he wanted to use it on a rabbit hunting trip. When he failed to return to his home Monday night search was started.

The search did not end until his body was found in the hayloft of his barn by Luther Arnold, a fellow townsman. The gun, carrying a discharged shell, lay beside him. It is believed he killed himself some time Monday.

FATHER HEADED BANK

Mr. Swift, who is well known over the country, is the son of the late Charles B. Swift, who at one time was president of the Reeds Spring bank. The son served as cashier. The institution was taken over several years ago by the Shepherd of the Hills bank. Swift had no interest in the bank.

Friends said that they were unable to give any reason why Mr. Swift should take his life. They said he apparently had been in good health and that he had not, as far as they knew, experienced any financial reverses.

Mr. Swift was not married. He is survived by two sisters and a brother, Brainard Swift, who lives in California.

No inquest had been held yesterday.

Wed For Second Upon First 'Hon

Unique Romance of Drury's Prize Poet Marked by Two Cereémonies

Mrs. Leasly Fieleke, formerly Catharine Nicholson of Ash Grove, today had been married a second time while still on her first honeymoon. On Friday, December 20, Miss Nicholson became Mrs. Leasly Rolf, when she was married to Mr. Rolf, of Moline, Ill., at the Carthage courthouse.

The couple came to Springfield after the marriage and registered at the Colonial Hotel as Mr. and Mrs. Leasly Fieleke. The reason being that although his name is legally Rolf, his father had died when Leasly was a boy, and he had automatically assumed the name of his stepfather, which is Fieleke, his legal adoption.

Mr. and Mrs. Fieleke, thought it well to have a legal mixup by being married with that name also.

How Romance Began

As the two youngsters had been battling for some time, they wanted a real ring ceremony. At 11:30 o'clock last night they went to the home of Reverend C. Duake, accompanied by the bride's brother, James Nicholson, and Mrs. Marie Arhardt, to be married.

Mrs. Fieleke is a talented writer of poetry, while attending Drury college two years ago she won the first prize poem to be used as a yearbook poem. Her poems have often appeared in the News and Leader. Her first husband was her first love, although he never read any of her writings except letters to him until after they had become engaged.

How the Romance Began

It happened that when Mrs. Fieleke was 15 years old her history class at Ash Grove High school was into an argument about the advantages of farm life against town life. As she had lived all of her life on a farm, she took the farm side of the question and wrote an article "Our Side of It" which was published in the Illinois Farming Magazine. Mr. Fieleke's mother read the article and wrote to the author complimenting her. The two corresponded for over a year and a half, then the Illinois woman became ill and was not able to write. Her son then wrote to Miss Nicholson explaining the situation and suggested that they carry on the correspondence.

Then The Engagement

After a month of the correspondence came so interested in the girl that he wrote such unusual letters that he made a trip to Ash Grove to see her. He stayed three days on his first visit. Returned to Chicago in two weeks again went to see Miss Nicholson, taking an engagement ring. The ring was not a diamond and marriage, being a lovely pearl instead of the traditional diamond.

Mr. and Mrs. Fieleke will be in Springfield for a few days before returning to Moline, Ill., where they will make their home. Mrs. Fieleke is associated with a Chicago fledging company but also raises show ponies and operates a wholesale bulb farm.

Home Wedding

An affair to be celebrated this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack N. Stone, 1540 North Grant, will be the wedding of their niece, Miss Hortense Stone, who will come the bride of Mr. Kirk Truesdell. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack N. Stone, 1540 North Grant, and Mr. and Mrs. John Truesdell.

The ceremony was to be read by the Reverend Dr. Lewis M. Hill, in the presence of relatives and a few friends. The bride was to enter on the arm of her father. She was asked her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Stone, to attend her. Mr. Edward Stone was to serve Mr. Truesdell as best man. Little Beverly Gail West was asked to be the ring bearer.

Johnnie's "Wedding" will be played as the bridal party approached the altar.

The entire home was decorated in keeping with the holiday season with loops and festoons of Christmas greens hung with icicle and bells. An improvised altar was built in the dining room with palms and ferns. A lamp burned on either side of the altar.

The center of the dining room table was to hold a large wedding cake and two smaller cakes. The table was decorated with white and red streamers and tapers on either side of the cake.

The young couple plan to make their home at 1109 West Nichols street.

MAN'S DEATH HERE PROBED

Relatives of Gilbert I. Butterfield, 62, of Lebanon, who died in a hospital here December 20, after he had been found ill in his room at the Baltimore hotel, were here today probing the man's death.

Butterfield, who was believed by authorities to have been penniless at the time of his death, had an estate amounting to $10,000 or $12,000, the members of the family said. Those who were here today were a brother, J. J. Butterfield, and a sister, Mrs. Jessie A. Luthy of Coolidge, Ariz., and Mrs. George W. Timmons, another sister, of Colorado Springs, Col. The Butterfield family had lived in Lebanon since 1904 and was well known in LaCade county.

The dead man, who was an electric lineman, always carried between $100 and $200 with him, but when he died he had only a few cents in his pocket. L. Bartholomew, a guest at the hotel, told the family today that he heard some one enter Butterfield's room about 2 o'clock the morning of December 20, and that for about an hour he heard considerable disturbance in the room.

When Bartholomew was aroused again at 3 o'clock he entered the room and found Butterfield in a dazed condition attempting to crawl into his bed. He said there were also bottles found in the room which had been left by the intruder. A room in a guest of the hotel today said that on the night he was called to the relatives to believe that Butterfield was robbed.

The man arrived at the hotel late at night on December 14. He had driven in an automobile and was so ill that he asked that his car be taken to a garage for him. The car was not cared for, however, and he ran into by another car, whose driver's relatives say they know and badly damaged. Later, they say, it was driven to another garage and the car Butterfield had requested.

Throughout the week the man remained at the hotel, ill of chills and cold. Finally, on Friday morning, not knowing that he was a victim of meningitis, a doctor called Dr. A. Armstrong, city physician.

Shortly afterwards, Dr. S. F. Freeman was called. He found the man in a dying condition, he said today, and ordered him taken to a hospital. The doctor's examination showed Butterfield died of meningitis.

"Our brother stood high in our community, and we do not believe he was drinking," the sisters said today.

The ceremony was read by the Reverend Dr. Lewis M. Hale in the presence of only a few relatives and intimate friends of the two families. Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for Lima, Ohio, where they are to spend several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Robberson will leave their home here.

Miss Josephine Vaughan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. Vaughan and Mrs. James Robberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robberson were married last Sunday.

Shot to Death in Barn
Near His Home

J. Warren Swift, 45, former Reeds Spring bank cashier who was found shot to death Tuesday in a stall of the barn at his home there, was believed today to have killed himself.

The man had not been known to suffer any sharp financial losses, but general depression since the death eight years ago of his father, former president of the Reeds Spring bank is blamed by some for his act.

Borrowed Shotgun
His brother, Brainerd Swift, who is in the United States government service in California, and two sisters, including Miss Bertha Swift, with whom he lived, and another in Idaho, survive. Dr. Carl B. Swift, dean of the Bible school at Drury college, was a cousin.

Swift borrowed a shotgun from Raymond Swindle, a friend, on Monday, and informed his sister about noon that he was going rabbit hunting. He did not return home Monday night, and a search was begun Tuesday morning after Mr. Bertha Swift had given the alarm.

The body was found in the barn by Barker Smith, with a letter from the man. A funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon.

SKULLS FRACTURED AS PLANE CRASHES AFTER 'NOSE DIVE'

Sam Bartell, Veteran Springfield Flier Dies in Hospital at West Plains; Mayor Ordered Pair Not to Take Passengers Up After Receiving Reports That Pilot Had Been Drinking.

INJURIES suffered shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when their airplane nose dived to earth at the western limits of Cabool, brought death to Sam Bartell, 35, veteran Springfield flier, well known in aviation circles here, and Robert Lee Allen, 24, Mountain Grove, who was a passenger, within less than an hour of each other last night.

Allen, with the front and top part of his head severely crushed, died at 10:15 o'clock last night in Springfield Baptist hospital here. A futile effort to save the youth's life was made by Dr. Wilbur Smith. The youth's father, Andrew Allen, Wright county deputy sheriff, and his mother, were here with their son when he died.

The youth is survived, besides his parents, by a wife and one brother, Jesse Allen, all of Mountain Grove.

The body was viewed by Dr. Murray C. Stone, Greene county coroner, and then taken in charge by the Klingner Undertaking company to prepare for burial. It will be sent by train this morning.

It is reported that the crash occurred in Texas county.

Bartell succumbed at 11 o'clock in the Christa Hogan hospital at West Plains from injuries which mangled his body terribly. The flier, who in years of flying never had been granted a government license, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, a double fracture of the left arm, broken left shoulder and a head injury which alone would have been sufficient to cause death. The top of his skull had been pierced by some part of the wrecked plane.

CAUSE UNDETERMINED

The exact cause of the crash could not be learned last night. It was believed due either to engine failure or a battle between the two men for control of the plane, which is owned by George Hartley, a farmer living about six miles southwest of Cabool.

Hartley had purchased the plane several months ago at Kansas City and retained Bartell as pilot and instructor of a small flying school which he hoped to establish. The machine, an American Eagle, was considered a trustworthy craft by aviators who had examined it.

REFUSED GASOLINE

Several residents of Cabool declared that Bartell appeared indisposed, when he and Allen got into the ship, to fly it back to Mountain Grove, where headquarters for it were established some time ago. The plane had been flown to Cabool last Friday, when it had been intended to take passengers for short rides.

"Bartell and young Allen came to me and tried to buy gasoline about 11:30 o'clock this morning," Ira Bowles, Cabool garage proprietor, said last night, "but I wouldn't let them have it because the pilot seemed to have been drinking."

"I guess they managed to get it somewhere else, because they came back to my place and borrowed a blow torch to heat up the intake manifold of the machine before starting it. At that time I tried to talk Allen out of going up with Bartell."

Warned by Cabool residents that Bartell was in no condition to be flying an airplane, Mayor H. E. McKinney went to the flying field and forbade him to take up passengers for Christmas rides.

NOT "WARMED UP"

It was shortly after that when the two took to the air from the field east of the town, ostensibly to go to Mountain Grove. They flew over Cabool only 50 or 75 feet above the housetops, apparently having difficulty in getting altitude, and crashed just within the western limits of the town. The ship narrowly missed hitting the home of L. Richardson, near U. S. highway No. 60.

Whether the engine failed because it had not been properly "warmed up" or eccentric flying by Bartell had caused the younger man to attempt to get control of the machine could not be learned.

The men were dragged from the badly wrecked aircraft by persons who saw the fall and then were taken to the Gaylord-Elliott funeral parlors in Cabool in an automobile by two brothers, Verne and Orville Laws. There first aid was administered by Dr. L. M. Edens, who ordered that they be taken immediately to hospitals.

Young Allen was hurried to Springfield in a Gaylord-Elliott ambulance, accompanied by Dr. J. T. Cavaller of Cabool. Bartell was removed soon afterward to the West Plains hospital in an ambulance summoned from the C. R. Burns Undertaking company at Willow Springs.

Although Bartell had been flying eight years or longer, he never had been granted a pilot's license by the branch of the department of commerce in charge of aviation. Admittedly skillful in handling aircraft, he was not able to pass the written examination, it was learned from friends here, and was lax about keeping motors in first class mechanical condition. He was said by many to have frequently taken a ship into the air without properly warming the motor, a practice condemned by good pilots. This alleged neglect was given as the cause of a number of crashes he had had during the past several years.

HERE FOUR YEARS

Little is known of Bartell here except that he first came to Springfield from Oklahoma City about four years ago when he was employed as a pilot by Carl McCluer, manager of the Springfield municipal airport. His connection with McCluer, however, was not for long. Since then he had served as pilot for several other owners of planes here.

Springfield aviators declared last night that the crashing of an unlicensed pilot should not be held against official aviation, which is under strict government supervision. The Hartley airplane, it was pointed out, could not be licensed without an approved pilot flying it, although it was a good machine.

Ivan Malone, 19-year-old Mountain Grove boy, who was at the Springfield hospital last night with several other friends of young Allen, said he and Allen drove to Cabool in the same automobile yesterday morning while Bartell went in another machine. Malone and the ill-fated youth had quite an argument during the drive, the former said, over the question as to which would accompany the airplane back to Mountain Grove.

Allen's mother, he said, urged her son when he left home not to ride in the plane, but the boy was so enthusiastic about flying that he disregarded her request.

Upon receiving information that Allen was being brought to Springfield by airplane, the W. L. Starne mortuary sent an ambulance on a hurried trip to the municipal airport. It was some time before it was definitely determined that airplane service was not being used to bring the injured boy here.

FORMER BANKER CALLED SUICIDE

Decide J. Warren Swift of Reeds Spring Shot Himself

A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death of J. Warren Swift, 38, former cashier of the Bank of Reeds Spring, whose body was found Tuesday in a barn loft at his home near Reeds Spring. A shotgun, which he had borrowed Monday to go hunting, was beside the body.

No message was found and his sister, Miss Bertha Swift, could not advance a motive. A search was begun for him Monday night when he failed to return from the hunting trip.

Swift and his father sold their interest in the bank several years ago and since then he devoted himself to farming.

RELATIVES INVESTIGATE SALESMAN'S DEATH HERE

- Not satisfied with the explanation given of the death of Gilbert I. Butterfield, 42, of Lebanon, in a hospital here December 20, relatives arrived in Springfield yesterday to investigate his demise.

Butterfield, after being found ill in his room at the Baltimore hotel, was taken to a hospital, where he died of pneumonia. Conversations and information given by hotel guests have led relatives to believe he might have been robbed after being treated by an intruder. Several bottles were found in the room.

WOMAN IS KILLED IN MOUNTAIN VIEW

Coroner's Jury Absolves Husband of Criminal Blame
In Accident

A CORONER'S jury absolved Clarence L. Akerley, of Mountain View, Mo., of criminal blame in the death of his wife whom he accidentally shot and killed Tuesday afternoon while loading a shotgun in their home.

The jury, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict that the shooting was accidental. Akerley told how he had gone into the home to get a gun with which to shoot a hawk. As he passed through a narrow closed porch adjoining the kitchen, the gun was discharged into the woman's face. She was only eight feet away. Her neck was broken and death was instantaneous.

The inquest was conducted by Dr. Houston, coroner. Prosecutor J. P. Moberly and Sheriff J. D. Norton were present.

Mrs. Akerley, who was 48 years of age, had been married twice and the man had been married three times. No small children survive. A daughter, Mrs. W. E. Shubert, resides in Erie, Penna., and a half-sister in Louisville, Ky.

LIQUOR PROVES FACTOR

Quarrel in Air Is Pictured Before Machine Falls Crazily

"Sam always said he would get drunk some day and go up and kill himself—"

Thus did Mrs. Gene King, 1000 East Chestnut street, former wife of Sam Bartell, 35, world war flier and aviation instructor of Springfield, today give perhaps the best explanation of the crash near Cabool in which Bartell and a youthful pupil were injured fatally yesterday.

Their skulls crushed and suffering other internal injuries, Bartell and Robert Lee Allen, 24, aviation enthusiast of Mountain Grove, Mo., died several hours after the American Eagle plane in which they took off at Cabool yesterday afternoon limped across the town and then crashed in a nose-dive just inside the town limits.

Gene King, who was a young flier two years ago, said the flier since then appeared to have been happy only when with the girl, Evelyn.

Often he threatened, she said, to get drunk, go up and kill himself.

"He was a good flier," she said, "but he has had more than his share of accidents because he couldn't stay away from liquor. And then he was of a reckless nature, too."

No Inquest Planned

Bartell had lived in Springfield for four years, going recently to Mountain Grove. He is survived by his father, S. E. Bartell of Oklahoma City; two sisters, Mrs. Matt Muller of Oklahoma City and Mrs. B. Hinegen of Los Angeles, Cal., and one daughter, Evelyn.

Apparently convinced that Christ was drinking was at the bottom of the fatal crash, officials of Texas county today made no move to conduct an inquest into the accident. Unless relatives of the victims request an inquest, it is likely that no official investigation will be made by Doctor L. M. Eden of Cabool, the Texas county coroner.

Dual Controls Hooked

Three theories regarding the cause of the crash were advanced today, but the explanation that Bartell, the pilot, and Allen both had been drinking ran through the other possibilities. It was discovered after the crash that the plane's dual controls were hooked up at the time, and it is possible that Allen sought to get control of the ship from Bartell.

A suggestion that faults of the biplane were to blame came from Graddon Ballard, a licensed pilot of Willow Springs, who only four weeks ago fell from a low altitude in the same city at Mountain Grove. He and Charles Alsop, his passenger, both escaped unhurt in the first fall. Ballard said he believed one wing of the plane was heavy, and that the rudder did not work properly.

Live Several Hours

Both suffering crushed skulls and internal injuries, Bartell and Allen lived for several hours after their plane after skimming the house-tops of Cabool, went into a nose-dive and buried its nose in the ground on the east side of the town. The plane was the Cessna-Horan model of West Plains, at 10.15 p.m. last night while Bartell expected to land on the quarter later, but in a spin, fell to the ground.

Unaware of Owner

The plane was out-landing in Cabool and was taken into the care of the accident. Bartell and Allen came to Cabool, where the plane was parked in a field, without even the knowledge of the town owner, George Hartley, a farmer residing near Cabool, who bought the ship on the installment plan with the intention of starting a school for the purpose of starting with Bartell as instructor.

Attempts of the fliers to obtain gasoline from a filling station at Cabool for the plane were in vain, the filling station operator refusing because they appeared to have been drinking.

Mayor H. E. McKinney of Cabool was notified by citizens that Bartell was intoxicated and that he planned to take up passengers. Mayor McKinney went to the flying field and warned Bartell not to take aloft passengers on Christmas day flights.

Bartell borrowed a blow torch to warm up the manifold before taking off, and then he and Allen started for Mountain Grove, the latter's home, with the limited supply of gasoline which had been left in the ship. The plane had difficulty in getting aloft.

The plane flew over Cabool only 50 or 75 feet above the house-tops and crashed just within the western limits of the town. It narrowly missed the home of L. Richardson, near U. S. highway 60, dived suddenly and piled up on its nose.

The propeller was snapped and the engine hurled two feet in the ground. Allen, who was riding in the forward cockpit, and Bartell both were found in the badly shattered fuselage, which had fallen backward to the ground after reeling skyward.

Allen's Body Home

Witnesses of the crash dragged the men from the wreck. A Gaylor-Elliott ambulance took Allen to Springfield Baptist hospital, while a C. R. Burns ambulance from Willow Springs removed Bartell soon afterward to the West Plains hospital.

Allen's body was sent today by the Klingner funeral home to Mountain Grove for burial. Bartell's body was taken back to Willow Springs, but difficulty was encountered in finding any relatives to claim it.

Young Allen is survived by his father, Andrew Allen, Wright county, Mo.; his mother, his sister and one brother, Jesse Allen, of Willow Springs, Mo. The body was viewed by Dr. Murray Stone, Greene county coroner, before it was taken by the Klingner funeral home and sent today to Mountain Grove for burial.

Bartell had been unable to obtain a pilot's license from the commerce department's aviation division although he had been flying for many years. He was considered overconfident and sometimes careless in taking aloft a plane which had not been properly warmed up. Several crackups in which he escaped serious injury were blamed to this latter fault.

Staged Exhibitions

He was employed as a pilot about four years ago by Carl McCluer, manager of the Springfield municipal airport, when he came here from Oklahoma City. He did not hold his job long, but afterwards piloted planes for several other Springfield citizens.

Since last summer, Bartell had staged a number of flying exhibitions over Ozarks towns with Mrs. Maude Davis, who now lives with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hopkins, 455 South Missouri avenue, Springfield, but whose mother Mrs. L. J. Dale, lives just north of Inmo, Mo., six miles from Mountain Grove.

"I'm not surprised," Mrs. Davis said simply when news of the fatal crash came to her. She remembered that she and Bartell crashed before a scheduled parachute jump at Mountain Grove October 28. She has not been in a plane since the crash.

An informal home wedding took place yesterday morning when Miss Lett Eugenia Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Prescott, Sherman avenue, became the bride of Mr. Vinell Westland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. Westland.

flowers, potpourris and other Christmas green placed on either side.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for a short honeymoon trip in Pensacola, Fla., Birmingham, Ala., and Memphis, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Westland will be at home after the first of the year at 914 West Fourth street.

Bartell of Oklahoma City; two sisters, Mrs. Matt Muller of Oklahoma City and Mrs. B. Hinegen of Los Angeles, Cal.; and one daughter, Evelyn. Bartell died at 11 o'clock Wednesday night at West Plains.

The other living children are John E. Homan of Fort Worth, Texas, and George B. Homan of Cape Girardeau, Mo., both of whom sent special birthday letters for the event, and Jesse Homan of Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. Ruth Birch, of Denver, Col. Mrs. Homan has 17 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Hutchison and their two children (great-grandchildren of Mrs. Homan), Mrs. Frank Jones, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Jones of Los Angeles, and Charles N. Menton.

Pony Boyd, Dead 35 Years Remembered by Hundreds

Scout Executive's Appeal For Information Re- sults in Scores Answer- ing With Data

THIRTY-FIVE years dead, Colonel Sempronius Hamilton "Pony" Boyd, picturesque pioneer leader of the Ozark, is still a vivid figure in the memory of long-time Springfieldans as Allen Foster, Boy Scout executive here, discovered when he made an appeal to the Leader a request for information about Colonel Boyd's life. Within a couple of hours after the paper had been published Mr. Foster began receiving calls from persons who remembered Colonel Boyd, and found the information he sought readily available. Mr. Foster was seeking it at the request of congress, for a biographical directory of congressmen in which the facts of Colonel Boyd's life were incomplete.

HIS DAYS ENDED

The Springfield Democrat, on Sunday morning, June 24, 1894, gave a detailed obituary of Colonel Boyd under the headline, "His Days Are Ended." The former congressman had died while on a fishing trip in Boone county two days before, June 22.

The story relates that "Col. S. H. Boyd was the son of Col. Marcus and Lisa Boyd. He was born in Williamson county, Tennessee, May 28, 1828. The family moved to Missouri in 1840 and Col. Marcus Boyd at once took an active part in the political affairs of this section. . . . The family divided on the war question, Col. Marcus Boyd and his son Col. S. H. Boyd, siding with the Union cause while the other sons joined the Confederacy.

BACON TO TEXAS

Col. S. H. Boyd when quite young became active in the affairs of men and remained so up to the time of his death being connected with nearly every matter of importance.

... and while still a lad, he took a load of bacon to Texas-- a matter recalled as "quite a feat." At 19, he took charge of the ... and in '47 followed the gold rush to California. There he mined and taught school, finally returning to Springfield to practice law. From 1855 to 1857 he was mayor of Springfield, and held many other civic offices as quite a young man. In 1862 he was elected to congress, and again in 1868. He was always off and on active in politics, served a term or so as city clerk, and was one of the founders of the Frisco railroad, founded the Springfield Wagon company, and

As was customary in those days-- and yet, for that matter-- "Pony" Boyd practiced law in several surrounding counties, and was widely known throughout the whole Ozark section. He took his son-in-law,

... and Deane, ... a famous firm for many years.

R. C. Pate, manager of the Springfield Water company, well recalls the custom of the sheriff of calling attorneys, as their cases came up, from the balcony of the old court here, where Heer's store now stands. Often and often he remembered the name of "Pony" Boyd, shouted from the balcony, so that he was familiar with the man. It was well understood that ... with a case to come up ... however, it was common to ... with farmers and townfolk around the square.

HOME STILL STANDS

The Boyd home place still stands a large brick house on Washington avenue and Chestnut street. In its day, it was quite pretentious, with several acres of grounds, and one of the fine homes of the city—now pretty much in ruin.

Virtually all Fordland families here as well as a great many other long residents, remember "Pony" Boyd so well that they marvel to themselves to recall that he is dead these many years.

F. OKEY ADAMS, 43, vice-president of the Adams and Adams Mortgage company at Bolivar, was found dead with a bullet wound through the heart at the family

DRESSED FOR PARTY

Mr. Adams arrived home from went to his room to dress for an evening party which he and his wife were to attend. About a half hour later Mrs. Adams heard the report of a gun from the room.

She called neighbors who found
Adams' body lying across the bed.
The discharged gun was nearby.

If Mr. Adams committed suicide, friends and members of the family could give no reason for such an act. There were no financial or family troubles, they said. They said he had been in fair health and that he appeared jovial during the day.

Mr. Adams was one of the most active civic leaders at Bolivar. He was associated with his father, F.
W. Adams, in the mortgage com-

Bolivar in the firm of Adams & Mosler. The firm conducted an office at Buffalo, Mo.

of Arthur C. Fisher, who formerly

Walnut street here. The elder Adams is visiting the Fisher family in California.

Adams is survived by two children,
Frank, age 14, and Jean Alice, age
10, and a sister, Mrs. Fisher.

Mr. Adams was a Mason and a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night, pending word from relatives in California.

BELIEVE SUICIDE EXPLAINS DEATH OF BOLIVAR MAN

No Inquest Probable in Fatal Shooting of F. Okey Adams, With Some Officials Think- ing Accident May Have Caused Tragedy

With no inquest in prospect, Polk county officials pointed to two possibilities, suicide or a gun cleaning accident, to explain the death of F. Okey Adams, 43, vice president of the Adams and Adams Mortgage company, who was found shot dead at his home in Bolivar last night.

C. R. Blue, deputy coroner in the absence from the county of the regular coroner, said this morning his investigations had eliminated any possibility of a murder theory, and that a coroner's inquest therefore would not be necessary. While he expressed considerable confidence in the belief that Adams committed an accident while cleaning his 16-gauge shotgun, he admitted that much of the evidence leaves suicide a strong possibility.

Fear Business Suffered

Friends of Adams were at a loss to ascribe a motive for suicide, though they said Adams' loan company, dealing heavily in farm loans, may have suffered through the general depression of farm lands in recent years. It is believed the firm had guaranteed farm loan notes sold by it to insurance companies, and that it may have lost through some of these guarantees.

Adams for years had been connected with the firm, which was established as Adams and Mosler by his father, F. W. Adams, and Otis Mosler, now a Springfield real estate dealer. The company at one time had its main offices here, with the younger Adams in charge of an office at Bolivar, but his father later severed the partnership with Mosler.

Was Well Last Night

The man was found in his room at Bolivar, where he had been for some time, and he had a slight interest in his two children. Frank Adams, 16, and John Adams, 14, were taken to his wife and the children he is survived by his father, a sister, Mrs. Arthur C. Fisher, and a brother-in-law, Arthur Fisher, who formerly operated a drug store at 200 East Wabash street. The elder Adams and the Fisher family have known Adams for about 15 months.

It is believed that affairs of the Adams and Adams company will be taken over temporarily by Miss Maude Askern, a stockholder who has been actively connected with the firm for about 15 years. W. M. Taylor is abstractor in the company's office.

Planned for Party

Deputy Coroner Blue today said it is possible that the 16-gauge automatic shotgun which Adams might have been discharged accidentally while Adams was sitting on the bed in his room, cleaning it. He had been hunting several days ago, Mr. Blue said.

The charge of shot from the automatic shotgun which Adams in the chest just over the heart, but ranged toward the ceiling. If the gun had been discharged by its butt falling on the floor, the charge would have ranged upward much more, it was pointed out. Perhaps, Mr. Blue said, Adams put his gun on the gun and clutched at it as it fell.

Adams arrived home about 6 o'clock in the evening and went to his room to clean his gun before retiring. About half an hour later his wife heard the gun's roar, and found her husband lying on the floor.

Lebanon Man Suicide

Another prominent Ozarks business man who committed suicide yesterday was W. W. Wellman, 55, real estate dealer of Lebanon, who killed himself at his home with a 22-caliber revolver. Wellman, who was in good health, is believed to have caused Mr. Wellman to take his own life. He had been confined to his home by bad health for the past five years. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and three sons. One of the daughters, Mrs. Edie Henderson, lives at Beymour, and two of the sons, Jack and Robert, reside at Lebanon.

History Page

A HISTORIC landmark which with the passing of years has become a part of Commercial street but which will probably fall before the inevitable march of progress when the Frisco yards are moved to the old iron bridge which crosses the tracks at Jefferson avenue.

The bridge stands beside one of the oldest buildings on Commercial street and in years past housed the old Diemer theater. The building a three-story structure was built over fifty years ago and was originally erected for a mercantile company. It later housed a cafe, then a restaurant and for the past ten years has been occupied by a laundry. The theater was on the second floor of the building and was reached by an old covered stairway which ran up the side of the building but was demolished some years ago as a menace.

In its better days the Diemer theater was one of the better shows in town and some notable stars have trod its boards. It was deserted about fifteen years ago and was left to decay until the last show was held.

It remained untouched for several years until the laundry moved into the building. The scenery had rotted, the stage furniture had almost fallen apart and the two fine pianos had rusted. Over six thousand dollars worth of furnishings was sold for a few hundred dollars.

NOTE

Since 1929 was the centennial year for Springfield, there were many articles of historical interest in the newspaper. Therefore it seems appropriate also to include this chronology of Springfield compiled by Lucile Morris Upton and published in the News and Leader of Sunday, March 16, 1975. It adds another 46 years to the excellent chronology compiled by Dr. Edward M. Shepard and published in the Leader of June 14, 1929.

The First 146 Years

From that day in 1829 when John Polk Campbell carved his initials on an ash tree near the "Bottomless Spring," the city has known turbulence and tranquility, boom times and economic doldrums. This chronology recounts the long-remembered and trend-setting highlights of Springfield's almost century and one-half of existence.

The First 146 Years

From that day in 1829 when John Polk Campbell carved his initials on an ash tree near the "Bottomless Spring," the city has known turbulence and tranquility, boom times and economic doldrums. This chronology recounts the long-remembered and trend-setting highlights of Springfield's almost century and one-half of existence.

About the Author

Author-historian Lucile Morris Upton wrote this chronology of Springfield, compiling it from histories, her own earlier work and research. She is a former city councilwoman and long-time staff member of Springfield Newspapers, Inc.

Chronological history of Springfield, Missouri, starts with 1829, if we are to follow historians who charted it before us.

That year, apparently, is accepted as the year in which John Polk Campbell of Maury County, Tennessee, later to be known as founder of the city, cut his initials on the hillside ash tree to mark his future homestead. This was near the "Bottomless Spring" or "Natural Well" that gave our present Water Street its name.

On this trip Campbell was accompanied by his brother, Madison. They returned to Tennessee to prepare their families for the move to an area only recently vacated by Indians.

On the night of March 4, 1830, Campbell and his family with his brother - in - law, Joseph Miller, and family, were camped beside the Natural Well, ready for home building. Madison Campbell returned two years later.

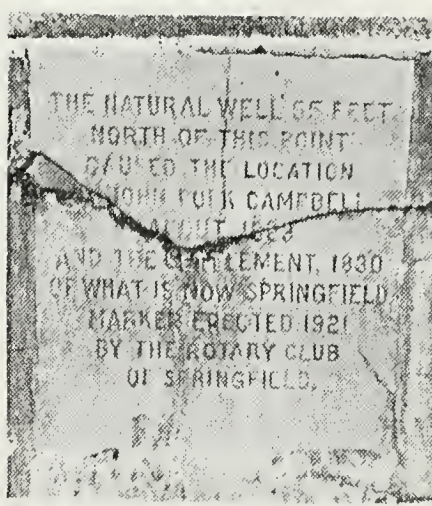

About three weeks prior to this, three Fulbright brothers and a brother - in - law - William, John, and Levi Fulbright and A. J. Burnett - with families, arrived at the future Springfield site. They also were from Maury County, Tennessee. William Fulbright had crossed the present Greene County on a trip in 1819, but did not designate a homestead at that time. Several slaves also accompanied the first settlers.

Before the Campbell - Fulbright settlement was made, a few homesteaders had come to the James River area, not far from the future Springfield site. Before that, Indians, especially the Delawares and Kickapoos, occupied the land. The Osages had used it as a hunting ground. There also was evidence of prehistoric occupation.

A geologist and explorer, Henry Schoolcraft, interested in lead deposits he found on an 1818-'19 trip into Arkansas and Missouri, camped near the present city and wrote of his experiences. This is believed to be the first published comment on the terrain.

The first 100 years of the following chronology owes much to two valued historians: R. I. Holcombe, editor of "History of Greene County, Missouri," published in 1883, and Dr. Edward M. Shepard, Drury College professor and internationally known geologist, who brought the year - by - year history up - to - date for the centennial celebration in 1929. They, in turn, had relied heavily on the "History and Directory of Springfield and North Springfield," published in 1878 by George S. Escott. He had taught the first school in North Springfield after that town was incorporated in 1870.

A somewhat revised summary of the first hundred years and an outline of the next 25 years were prepared by this writer in 1954 and published in these newspapers. The following, again, has revisions as well as additions.

It is appropriate, also, to repeat an explanation made in the 125 - year outline - "Many important events necessarily are omitted in the chronology below. For instance, if space would permit, it would be interesting to record when each church, school, and business plant in Springfield was built. Since that is impossible, the aim has been to choose happenings that set a trend, that have been long - remembered, or that were first in a group or series."

1829

This year is accepted as time of first designation of a Springfield homestead, though some reminiscences of pioneers mention 1827 or 1828. Selection was made by two Campbell brothers when they arrived at the "Natural Well," near the north side of the present Water Street, between North Robberson and North Jefferson Avenues.

1830

In mid - February the Fulbright families arrived. A. J. Burnett built first cabin, at about present northeast corner of Olive and Boonville, which he relinquished to John Polk Campbell upon learning he had marked the site for his homestead. William Fulbright settled at a big spring not far from the 1200 block College Street.

March 4 - John P. Campbell and Joseph Miller families arrived. Burnett moved five miles east.

Jan. 16 - Joseph Rountree and family and Sidney S. Ingram, his nephew, arrived. This homestead was 2½ miles southwest. Rountree taught first school in present Greene County in log cabin at about 1824 West Mount Vernon. In 1832 he taught in log house that had mud and stick chimney, on north side of College, then Fulbright Road, and the present North Main Avenue. Ingram built a cabinet and wagon shop near his home on the present West Walnut Street; later a saw and grist mill on his James River farm.

Daniel B. Miller, brother of Joseph, settled at Miller Spring, now Grant Beach Park. He died in 1839. A pioneer graveyard (1831-36) was established when Miller's child died, the first death in the settlement. A temporary federal cemetery was established in a nearby field after the Battle of Wilson's Creek. Among other 1831 settlers were Samuel Painter, wife and three sons - John, Jacob, the famous gunsmith, and Elisha.

Aug. 7 - First marriage in settlement was Junius Rountree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rountree, and Martha J. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller.

He and Amanda Rountree, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rountree, were married in 1832. In 1833 he was pastor of log cabin Methodist Church, north of present Central Street in an oak grove east of Silver Springs Park, near National Avenue.

First male white child born here was Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fulbright; first female white child was Mary Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Campbell.

Businessmen this year were D. D. Berry, Henry Fulbright, Cannefax and Ingram (R. W. Cannefax and S. S. Ingram), all dealers in dry goods and groceries; and James Carter and John W. Ball, village blacksmiths. Ingram also made coffins, bedsteads, chairs, spinning wheels, and the like.

Early months of this year became part of the "Hard Winter." Livestock perished from the cold. In June the settlement was terrified by outbreak of cholera. At least seven persons died.

July 18 - Springfield became county seat of Greene County. The County Court adopted plan of John Pulk Campbell to lay off town in lots with streets intersecting each side of Public Square, as in his home town, Columbia, Tenn. There had been contest with Klekapoo Settlement, south, and Joslah T. Danforth Settlement, east, for county seat designation. Campbell and wife, Louise T., made deed Aug. 27, 1836, giving 50 acres for townsite, including two acres for Public Square.

John Smith Phelps, young lawyer, and wife, Mary, from Simsbury, Conn., arrived. He served as congressman, 1844-'62, and as Missouri governor, 1877-'81. The distinguished statesman (1811-'86) is buried in Hazelwood Cemetery beside his wife (1812-'78). She is especially remembered because she protected the body of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon by temporary burial in her garden after the Battle of Wilson's Creek. Also she established an orphanage for waifs of the Civil War.

INDEX

It was my intention to make the index as complete and useful as possible. If it was uncertain whether a name was Heese or Hesse, I included both. If George Peterson married Sarah Gant, I included the name Sarah Gant Peterson in the index. If Mrs. Laura Banfield died leaving a daughter Mrs. Ada Toliver, in the index I included the name Ada Banfield. In some cases this led to errors. Perhaps Mrs. Banfield had been married twice and Ada was a child of the first marriage.

However I did NOT include the names of all those attending big events like family reunions and large weddings.

The index is to the date of the newspaper--NOT to the date of the event.

The abbreviations after the date indicate the following:

A = anniversary

C = child born to

D = death

DV = divorce case--also cases of annulment and separate maintenance. Remember that many divorce cases were dismissed and were never granted.

E = engagement

M = marriage

P = probate case. Remember that minor children and insane persons had estates as well as deceased persons.

L = the Leader

The number after that indicates the page number of that issue.
